MR. J. B. McDONALD ON THE POLITICAL SITUATION

(Continued from page 11.) is done in the Fall season when the roads are generally going out of repair. We must not lose sight of the fact that the increased shipment of potatoes has made it almost imperative that these roads are kept up. Mr. McDonald would therefore urge upon the Minister of Public Works to continue that good work, and particularly on those parts leading to shipping centres.

Encouragement to Fisheries.

It was regrettable that while all our other industries, such as potato growing, dairying, egg circles and many branches of agriculture have received a lot of assistance and encouragement from the Government, as they certainly deserve to do, our fisheries have unfortunately been neglected. That of course is a matter to be dealt with by the Federal Government; but Mr. McDonald was glad to say that it is the intention of the local Government to take this matter up and see if something can be done to give the fishermen a broader knowledge of our fisheries and the most profitable way to carry on that business. There are certain parts of the fish which are now thrown away as useless, that with a proper knowledge of curing could be made a good article of food. Any encouragement or assistance that this Government can give the fishermen of the Province would have the speaker's hearty support, as he felt that our fishermen are filling a very important place in the industrial life of the Province. (Applause.)

Reference has been made to the poll tax. That was something which the Conservative members promised the people would be done away with. Why was it taken off? Because the greater proportion who paid this tax were farmers of the country, and it was placing an unfair burden on them. The gasoline tax, which has been enacted by this Government, is a different tax entirely. It is for the special purpose of road upkeep, and is paid by the people who use the roads most. Car drivers have expressed the opinion that a gallon of gasoline will go much further over a smooth, well kept road than it would under previous conditions, and that the two or three cents a gallon they paid for this service was amply returned to them in value by having the roads in good repair. In addition to that, a large amount of this tax is paid by visitors to the Province who motor over our roads, and in this way contribute something to their upkeep.

In conclusion Mr. McDonald referred to the Temperance question which has been occupying the attention of our people for quite a while. There have been many changes in temperance legislation during the past twenty-five years. Prohibition has been given a fair trial, and no doubt has done some good; but there is a lot of dissatisfaction and it is the general feeling that something should be done to improve the situation. After giving all due respect for those who feel that our Prohibition Law is all right, Mr. McDonald was forced to the conclusion that the time has now come when another change is necessary. That is also the opinion of this Government.

Some people say that this matter should be submitted to a plebiscite; but if that were done, and the result of the plebiscite was for a continuance of the Prohibition Law, one can readily understand the position this Government would be in, believing as the Government does that this law is not a success and does not meet the existing conditions. The Premier the speaker believed, has taken the right course in announcing where he stands on this question, and in declaring that he is prepared to make a change, which, we trust and know, has for its object a better and more workable Temperance Law and that he is going to submit his proposal to the electors for their removal. (Loud applause.)

GOOD SEED. (Experimental Farms Note.)

There are several sources from which to obtain good seed. Of these the two most common are special seed growers and reliable seed dealers. Most growers are now members of the Canadian Seed Grower's Association, while our best dealers find in this Association their best source of supply. Since the Association will not recognize varieties which have not been thoroughly proven, one need have no fear of obtaining a seed of a variety which has not proven itself worthy of propagation. The fields of all Association members are very carefully inspected for purity of variety during the growing season, and only those fields which are pronounced by the inspector to be 99.9 per cent pure as to variety, are given official recognition by the Association in the form of certificates of registration. Seed from such registered fields, if up to the standard of vitality required of such seed, and if free from weed seeds and practically free from grain of other kinds, may be given the official grade known as "Registered Seed". This is the highest official grade recognized by the Canadian Seed Act.

Seed which does not quite comply with the high standard set for the registered grade may receive the next highest grade known as Extra No. 1, providing it does not fall below a certain minimum standard set for this grade. Farmers who wish to secure reliable seed should order either "Registered Seed" or "Extra No. 1 Seed."

These grades are now advertised by practically all leading seedsmen in Canada, from whom they may be purchased. It is also possible to purchase this seed direct from growers. The Association issue a list each year of those who are offering Registered and Extra No. 1 Seed for sale of different varieties. Those who contemplate purchasing seed should write the Secretary of the Association at 114 Victoria Street, Ottawa, for a copy of the above list. They should then locate seed which has been produced as near their own district as possible, since experience has shown that where seed of a given kind and variety has proven suitable for a district, seed grown in or near that district is likely to be better than that brought in from outside.

There is an old idea that a change of seed periodically is desirable. This idea is not usually without foundation, but investigation will usually reveal the fact that where outside seed proves superior to that grown on a given farm, the latter seed has not deteriorated as fully as has the seed which has been introduced. It also happens very frequently that seed on a given farm becomes mixed, in which case a change to pure seed is to be commended.

There are many vendors of seed throughout the country who purport to be the distributors of varieties which are superior to anything yet offered. Such offerings should be regarded with considerable suspicion, and prospective purchasers are urged to consult the above Association, or their nearest Experimental Station or Agricultural College before investing their money.
