CAR ACCIDENT—As a party of four were returning from the Charlottetown Exhibition on Thursday evening to Summerside, their car was run into by a small Ford car which turned out of a lane near Hunter River. In trying to avoid the Ford the Summerside driver turned his car into the ditch. The fenders on the right side were bent upwards as they came in contact with the bank. The springs and axle were also damaged. Fortunately no one was hurt.—S.

Island, for the development of oyster culture, attended the Shell Fisheries Association of North America, which was held at Sayville, Long Island, New York, on Wednesday and Thursday of last week. The convention was a combined one of the National Shellfisheries Association and the Oysters Growers' and Dealers' Association of North America. Among those attending the convention were Dr. R. W. Dodson of the Ministry of Agriculture and Fisheries, North Wales, G.B.; Dr. C. M. Yonge, of the Marine Biological Association, Plymouth, England; Dr. John E. Needer, bacteriologist, of Guy's Hospital, London, England, and others. On Thursday afternoon there was a cruise of oyster boats off Greenport Harbour and a display of dredging and oyster cultivation. Island readers will remember that Dr. Needer has been at Ellerslie for the past two years, studying the cultivation of the oyster beds on the north shore.—S.

Try Magnesia for Stomach Trouble

To Neutralize Acidity and Fermentation. Prevents Indigestion, Sour Gassy Stomach.

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tired, peevish, irritable tempers. They get little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that. But before giving up on chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia— not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from any druggist in either powder or tablet form. Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

The Presbyterian Summer Camp

On Tuesday, August 4th, there assembled from various parts of the Island, a representative number of ministers and young people for the annual summer school. The general Dean Director and Registrar, Rev. R. Hensley Stavert was early on the grounds, and had as Lieutenant, Rev. W. M. MacKay, the Missionary Superintendent of Ontario. While the C. G. I. T. group that had been occupying the grounds for the eight days previous had not yet left, there was room found for all and merry interchanges were made during the day. The attendance was large for such a gathering and the prevailing spirit was all that could be desired. While it is regretted that some of the leaders and pupils were transients, there were several who stayed full time. Among the latter was the leader of the Bible Study Group, Rev. Thomas A. Rodger, of Belfast, who for the third year in succession, has carried on this very important part of the large and varied programme. We believe this is an excellent class. A strong help is given by Rev. W. M. MacKay, whose illustrations and descriptions of the fourfold development of man has been followed with interest and led to much serious thought for the personal preparation for our important place in service. Mrs. Rev. Alex. R. Gibson, of Montague; Miss Christina Currie, of Murray Harbor North and Miss MacKenzie, student deaconess on P.E.I., are in charge of the Mission Study Classes and are presenting different phases of this very live subject and extremely interesting to the young women.

In the large Department of Presbyterian Church History and Doctrine, there are several lectures. Rev. Moorhead Legate, of St. James Church, Charlottetown, on Wednesday gave an introduction to the Westminster Standards, noting the necessity of teaching these in our pulpits and Sabbath Schools because the great minds of the world had received their impetus from the strong teachings of Calvinism. On Thursday, Rev. Mr. Currie followed a similar course, but dealt largely with the foundations on which our beliefs were based previous to their re-statement during the Period of the Protestant Reformation. The creeds of ancient origin were examined and the basis of faith established.

On Thursday, Rev. Kier Fraser, of Alberton, gave a lecture on the Government of the church and these courses with their different yet uniform character show the strength of the church. The same courses will prevail for the remainder of the term and it will prove a great stimulant to the young people in preparing them for leadership in the home churches.

The social side of the camp is one of its strong features and there is an utter absence of all stiffness or formality among the gathered members at the tables in the dining hall. We must not forget to mention the good quality and generous quantity of food prepared by the genial Mr. Smith and his two helpers. The character of this part of the program is beyond all pen description, but it is surprising how many Scotch pupils express a fondness for All Bran and Corn Flakes. Is the oatmeal and shorter Catechism a relic of old time or too heating on the digestive apparatus?

While the main idea in the camp is study, a place is also given to athletics and baseball seems the popular game. Owing to special equipment some of the clerical brethren have been able to turn the score, but we perceive a coming army of professionals in the ranks already. Flies and fowls have to be distinguished and as yet, neither side has been whitewashed, a very unusual thing in such games. But perhaps the great benefit to the younger members of the camp comes when the devotional services are led by them in turn, some taking a part in these for the first time. The Cottars Saturday Night comes into the mind of the writer the only great difference being that in that poem, the "Saint, the father and the husband prays" as well as selecting what passage he shall read. We live in the days of division of labor and in a great many ways we think it is an improvement on the one-man plan. It may be that some of our learners will be in such a case and their experience gained here will be helpful to them and to others also.

The campfire and reading of the Journal for the day have the special place that close the gathering and of these, we can not here speak particularly. Suffice it to say that they constitute a part of the great plan of the director and these all show ability and energy in collecting the fuel to make a success of the task. Many original poems of great merit have already appeared and there are more to follow. There is no doubt that the influences of the camp will permeate all parts of the Island. All points are represented as far apart as Murray Harbour North on the south east and Alberton on the North west and all places between.

Space will not permit a full description of the several exercises of the camp from the morning whistle at 7.15 a. m. till the lights are out at 10.30 p. m., but much benefit to the young people must result from their fellowship with one another at the meals, at the lectures and sports. The Bible lesson gets most attention as in daily life this is first of all and the Epistle to the Romans being the book that is chosen for study. Great interest is seen in the portions there unfolded by the leader, Rev. Mr. MacKay is a host in himself and in his blackboard work gives illustrations of the nature of the development of the person. The study of child mind and soul is shown by illustrations drawn from real life in his experiences as Superintendent and to tell of the Missionary lectures and inspiration given by Mrs. Gibson, of Montague, Miss Currie, of Murray Harbour North and Miss MacKenzie, the student deaconess on the Island would need a volume. Suffice it to say that there was a hearty response to the appeals and some desire to follow the subject further in the Women's Missionary Societies. The lecture on the History, Doctrines and Government of the Presbyterian Church as expounded by Revs. Legate, of Charlottetown; Currie, of Murray Harbor North; Dr. Fraser, of Alberton, and Williamson, of Malpeque, as well as by Rev. M. E. Genge, of Marshfield, were treated from various angles and a deep interest and attention given by all of the students showed that these subjects are not dull nor dead.

The camp fire gatherings with story and community songs closed always with the deeper appeal for the life of service as a fitting close to the activities of the day and all present joined in "Taps." We can conceive of no better plans for reaction for any young person than to join such a camp and be partner in all its activities.

We must say that praise is due to the Rev. R. Hensley Stavert, for the efficient way he managed all the details and to Mr. Smith, the cook, for the splendid meals provided with such a genial spirit. May we all return next year prepared for the greater camp that we expect and may the influence of this year's camp reach to every corner of the Island.—(P. W. Currie).

Speaking Of Sports

Giants to Have Changed Team in 1932 Flag Race

Partisans of the New York Giants are going to have new faces to cheer when the next baseball season is started. John McGraw, veteran manager of the New Yorkers, already has started to line up some fresh material for the 1932 flag race. His first acquisition was that of Leonard Koenecke, star player of the American Association Indianapolis Club. Koenecke is an outfielder and will cost the Giants $75,000 in players.

Those who know McGraw intimately say that he is vastly disturbed over the tactics of many of his charges this season. There has not been enough of the old fight and fire to suit the driving McGraw. So he has served notice on his hands, right in the heat of the season, that he intends to do something in the way of cleaning house.

The chief Giant need is for pitching talent. Sam Gibson, San Francisco hurler, is being sought by McGraw according to present reports. It is also understood that Mac has his eyes set on some of the pitchers now attached to rival National League clubs, and if the other National heads are in trading moods during the off season some interesting deals will be closed.

Koenecke Real Star of Minor Circuit

Koenecke has made a real record with Indianapolis. At the time of his acquisition by the Giants he had a batting average of .375 acquired in 98 games. He was credited with having batted in 95 runs. He is something of a home run hitter, too. Within two days after he had been informed of his sale to the Giants he won three games by hitting homers.

generosity. "She heard of the need in these two departments and came forward voluntarily with these generous gifts," Dr. Martin said.

Dr. Martin's announcement read: "Mrs. Hutchinson has given $10,000 to the department of psychiatry to be used in connection with the work being done by Dr. David Sligh. Within recent years Dr. Sligh has made advances in the teaching of this subject and has also been engaged in research work of very high order. The fund provided by Mrs. Hutchinson is to be used for advancing his interest in this work.

Mrs. Hutchinson has also given the sum of $4,000 to Dr. Maurice Brodie to be devoted to his experimental work on infantile paralysis.

Dr. Brodie has already done some very interesting research in connection with the prevention and cure of this dread disease. This gift will allow him to complete his research.

"At a time of stringent financial circumstances and great need, Mrs. Hutchinson's gifts are particularly welcome and will go far in promoting McGill's research work."
