ISLANDER DEAD.—The death occurred at Gloucester, Mass., on August 15, of Reuben Myette. All the kind nursing and medical skill available at home was of no use, for God willed otherwise. His devoted wife remained at his bedside until the last. At his home everybody found a genuine welcome. The young people especially will miss him for his heart was as young and gay as any, and he was never tired of entertaining them. The late Mr. Myette was an exceptionally kind and charitable neighbor and a true friend to all. His sickness he bore with true Christian patience, and his complete resignation to God's will was an edification to all who saw him. This world with its cares and pleasures mattered nothing. He died as he lived, an obedient child of the mother church. In this, as in everything else, he has left us a shining example of how a Christian should live and die. All through his illness he was fortified by frequent receptions of the blessed sacrament administered by his pastor.

tor, who did all in his power to make his deathbed a happy one. The many beautiful floral tributes, mass cards, spiritual bouquets and letters of sympathy show the high esteem in which he was held. His nephew, Rev. Father Myette, of Nova Scotia, was present at his funeral. Mr. Myette is well known in Georgetown, as he spent most of his summer vacations there. He leaves to mourn, his widow, nee Annie Gottell, of Georgetown; two sons and one daughter. He is a brother-in-law of Peter Gottell and Mrs. Easton, of Georgetown. His funeral was one of the largest seen for some time. May his soul rest in peace.

MASQUERADE DANCE.—An event of more than ordinary interest took place in the Town Hall, Georgetown, on Thursday, August 30, the occasion being a masquerade dance. A considerable number of couples appeared in costume, all of which were very artistic in design and a credit to those who prepared them. Besides those in costume, more than thirty couples were also present, and all enjoyed a well-balanced program of dancing. Excellent music was furnished for the occasion by local and outside talent. The following is a list of those appearing in costume: Miss M. Sencaubaugh, gypsy; Miss A. Compton Pocahontas; Mrs. A. E. Jenkins, gypsy; Miss H. Douglas, bride; Miss I. Morrissey, milk-maid; Mrs. C.
