Sunlight Soap

Saves Them

Your woollens must be made to last as long as possible—it's a war time duty. Sunlight Soap is the purest and best of all laundry soaps so it's the safest cleanser—and its the most economical because, being pure, it takes less to do the wash than common soaps.

Grocers always sell Sunlight.

How Kaiser Impressed A Guest Who Possessed Some Democratic Ideas

WHEN Mr. Roosevelt made his notable journey through Europe in the summer of 1910 I was in his party, writes Lawrence F. Abbott in the Philadelphia Public Ledger. When I joined him at Khartoum, at the head of the Nile, I found that his daily engagements were so numerous and his correspondence so voluminous that he needed somebody to act as his private secretary. It was a pleasure to volunteer to aid him in this capacity, and although at first he protested that he was not willing to transform what was planned as a sort of vacation journey into what proved to be a period of somewhat exacting work, I finally persuaded him to let me do what I could to help him. The result was that by the time we reached Europe I received cards to all those public functions in his honor to which the secretary of a legation or an embassy would naturally be invited.

Among other functions of this kind I was a guest at the luncheon which the Kaiser gave in Mr. Roosevelt's honor at his palace in Potsdam. A large party of guests and military and civil notables went out by special train from Berlin. From the station at Potsdam to the palace, which was built by Frederick the Great and lies in the midst of a beautiful park, we went in appropriate vehicles in strict order of precedence. The luncheon was given at small tables in one of the state dining rooms of the palace. After luncheon the entire party gathered in a great reception room known as the Muschel-Salon, so called because the architect when it was built thought it was a good idea to stick mussel shells into the soft plaster of the walls as a form of decoration. It is a spacious apartment. The Kaiser and Mr. Roosevelt went over into one corner and stood by a small table engaged in talk and laughter. The rest of the party gathered a hundred feet away on the opposite side of the room. In the party were the Empress, Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg, the Minister of the Interior and many other distinguished and powerful imperial officers, naval, military and civil. Before long I noticed some slight signs of agitation on the part of some of these officials. The Chancellor, von Bethmann-Hollweg, went up and whispered to the general officer of the army in charge. They then quietly consulted with the Minister of the Interior, taking out their watches for comparison. Next they went and spoke to the Empress, who began to look a little anxious. Indeed, the signs of agitation grew so marked that I turned to a young aide-de-camp who spoke English perfectly and whose acquaintance I had made coming out in the special train and asked what the trouble was. "Why," he said, "the special train leaves Potsdam to return to Berlin at half-past three o'clock and it is now ten minutes past three, and unless the Emperor gives the signal for departure pretty soon the train will be delayed."

Now the German empire runs so like clockwork that the delay of a special train is a serious matter. It is likely to throw the whole machinery out of proper working order. And yet not one individual in that spacious hall dared walk across to the Kaiser and remind him of the time—not even a distinguished general officer of his army, not even the Chancellor of the empire, not even the Empress. Luckily, however, the Kaiser finally "came to." He broke away from the enchantment of the conversation with the Colonel of the Rough Riders—for it was quite apparent that he found it enchanting—and gave the proper signal which permitted the party to break up. We were then rushed to the station, and I noticed with some amusement that the rigor of precedence was not as carefully observed in going to the station as it was in coming from it.

This may seem to be simply an amusing and trifling incident, but I think it is something more. It is indicative of the extraordinary subserviency which prevails throughout Germany to the Kaiser's absolute power. In no other civilized country in Europe, with the possible exception of Austria, could such an incident have happened. At almost any other European court the Prime Minister or the general officer acting as court marshal would have stepped up to the sovereign and at least have said, "Your Majesty, I beg to remind you," etc., etc.

Those who have met Kaiser Wilhelm agree that he has personal charm and that he can make himself, if he chooses, extrordinarily interesting and agreeable in social intercourse. But he is as much a believer in absolutism and the superhuman authority and power of a king or emperor as if he lived in the Middle Ages. He has succeeded in impressing this belief upon his subjects, and not until they break away from it, not until they dare to walk across the room and say to him, "Your Majesty, you are behind the times," will there be established in Germany that freedom of government and that respect for the rights of the small nation and of the plain everyday man which we and our Allies are fighting for.

MOTHER! DON'T TAKE CHANCES IF CHILD'S TONGUE IS COATED

If cross, feverish, sick, bilious, clean little liver and bowels

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish, stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, Mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

The P. E. Island Prisoners of War Fund officers sent a card to all our adopted Prisoners on Dominion Day bearing the following greeting:

Dominion Day 1918.

The People of Prince Edward Island send greetings to you and all Canadian Prisners of War, on this the Natal Day of our Dominion. They thank you for the part you have taken in their defense, and pray that He who "maketh wars to cease" and heareth "the sorrowful sighing of the prisoners," will grant a speedy peace and joyful restoration to your homes.

Treasurer.
(Miss) FLORENCE D. NORTON,
Secretay.

A number of acknowledgments are being received. This sample letter shows how much these cards were appreciated.

Christmas cards are now being sent to all our adoptions.

Aug. 15th, 1918.

Dear Miss Norton.

Please convey to the ladies and gentlemen of Prince Edward Island whom you represent my very best tensity, and such messages as yours do much towads helping us to pretiments with which they favoured me, on Dominion day. With you all I sincerely hope that soon, by natural or supernatural agency peace will be an accomplished fact to us all who have been so long exiled. This has certainly proved the proverbial long land. The eager longing we feel for the old County is almost painful in its intensity, and such messages as yours serve the social fortitude with which we endeavour to endure the unpleasant present.

Reiterating my thanks I have the honour to be your obedient servant.

CATARRHAL DEAFNESS MAY BE OVERCOME

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are even just a little hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it 1-4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take 1 tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop drooping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and pleasant to take. Anyone losing hearing or who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription.
