Thousands Pay Final Homage To King Of Baseball

NEW YORK, Aug. 18 — (AP) — An elderly, white-haired man lifted up his grandson to look into a casket in Yankee Stadium today. "Take a good look, sonny," he said. "You'll never see another man like him."

The bier was Babe Ruth's. The old man and the little boy were two of thousands of persons, many of whom travelled hundreds of miles to pay homage to the king of baseball. They looked on his face for the last time at the rate of 100 a minute.

They came by the thousands in jalopies and limousines, taxis and chartered buses. The throng of New Yorkers was swelled by many who came from distant places from Maine to Maryland.

Funeral services will be held in St. Patrick's Roman Catholic Cathedral at 12 A.M. A.D.T. Thursday. Francis Cardinal Spellman, one of Ruth's myriad admirers, will preside at the Requiem Mass.

Mrs. Claire Ruth, the Babe's widow, has asked that the public be admitted to the Gate of Heaven Cemetery, Westchester County, where the body will be placed in a receiving vault. As many of the public as can crowd in will be permitted to enter towering St. Patrick's Cathedral for the funeral service.

It is the way the Babe would have wanted it, Mrs. Ruth said.

57 Honorary Pallbearers

The 57 honorary pallbearers, headed by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, include noted athletes and newspaper men who knew Ruth well.

Police, anticipating one of the largest throngs ever gathered at St. Patrick's, arranged a special detail of 300 men.

Ruth, racked by pain and wasted by cancer, died at the age of 53 Monday night in Memorial Hospital after a long illness.

Tuesday and Tuesday night about 50,000 persons passed his bier. It lay in the Stadium lobby about 300 feet behind the home plate from which he smashed many of the home runs that won him baseball immortality.

In the remaining hours of today that his body remained on review, the public demonstrated that in death, as in life, Babe Ruth belonged to his admirers.

They formed lines before dawn —old and young, rich and poor, each mindful of the Babe's legend in a quickly passing era.

Like the crowds which come to baseball games in the Stadium they were greeted by vendors selling hot dogs, soft drinks and pictures of Babe Ruth. But the waiting crowd maintained silence.

Some, like Leo Durocher, manager of the New York Giants, were close friends of the Babe's. Durocher, who played on the famed Yankee team of 1927, 1928 and 1929 with the Babe, said:

"He was a great guy."

Others, who had merely seen him play or read about him, wept as they passed his body.

A blind man passed escorted by a friend.

Mrs. Ray Kellner of Asbury Park, N.J., her broken right leg in a cast, arrived from New Jersey and waited two hours in line with the aid of crutches.

"I saw Ruth play many times," she said, "and I wanted to see him again."

Eleven-year-old Peter Carter said, "I feel very sad. Every night I pray the Babe's soul will go to heaven."

Peter said he wants to be a baseball player when he grows up and added:

"If I'm half as good as Babe was, I'll be some star."

Still with a chance of making a playoff spot, though it is a very slim one, Millionaires tackle the Rovers in tonight's City Baseball League game and if the "money men" are to keep their hopes alive, they will have to come up with a victory over the northend crew.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Anchors extended the Millionaires baseball life in their winning effort against the Rovers on Tuesday night but tonight it will be strictly up to themselves whether they stay in the picture or not. They will have to play smart baseball if they do and show a lot more power at the plate but close followers of the squad, despite its low standing, are still confident that they will keep their chances alive tonight.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Meanwhile Anchors go on their merry way piling up an impressive list of victories. Strong in every department, they have come up with another pitcher in versatile Charlie Ryan who has turned in several great performances already this season, one of them a winning effort against Summerside All Stars.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Ryan is no stranger to the mound, but this season is definitely displaying better form on the hill than at any other time in his career. With Ready and McAleer, two brilliant lefthanders also ready for duty at any time, it appears more and more evident that Freddy McCabe's crew will keep up their winning performances right to the end of the schedule.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

Racing fans paid a fine tribute to W.J. "Billy" Brown yesterday afternoon when they braved a cool wind to turn out in large numbers for the anniversary racing program staged in his honor. "Billy" was not around to see it but it is a safe bet that he followed the program with as much interest as his illness would allow.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

The fans also saw some keen racing during the afternoon. Majority of the fourteen heats raced provided exciting finishes; the same upsets were again in evidence and altogether the program went off in a smooth manner for which the officials in charge of the undertaking are to be commended.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

While American Leaguers may remember this as the year of the four-way flag fight deadlock, National Leaguers may look back on it as the year of the home-run flood. Although none of the senior circuit hatchetmen is likely to establish a league mark, the present homer race is the most interesting the circuit has ever had.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

The present battle features Ralph Kiner, the mauler from Pittsburgh, as the man to beat, and Johnny Mize, Stan Musial and Hank Sauer trying to overhaul the Pirate. Such affairs are old stuff to Kiner and Mize who battled to a tie at fifty-one each last season.

• • •

Musial is new to this sort of thing. In the past he has never shown much regard for this "patball" business as one fan called it recently. Stan seemed content to get along with a .350 batting average and the most valuable player award each season. But it seems, the homer bug has bitten him and, with characteristic thoroughness, Stanley is belting them out of the park.

• • •

However, the odds are pretty much against Musial, if only because Kiner, Mize and Sauer have more engaging targets at which to shoot. Musial plays his home games at Sportsmans Park, which hardly resembles a prairie, but at least is not equipped with one of those ugly jury boxes which are built for the purpose of creating a yearly threat to Babe Ruth's season's homer record.

• • •

Mize, of course, is blessed with the best target of all—the right field wall at the Polo Grounds, only 257 feet from home plate. Mize will have this target at which to shoot during the last month of the season when Musial, Kiner and Sauer will be on the road. Johnny is notoriously a slow starter but an extremely fast finisher. He probably will be in if he gets hot on the Giants' next home stand.

• • •

Kiner has Greenberg's Gardens to shoot at and a friendly affair it is too. However, the right field wall is well beyond Kiner's range at Forbes Field, whereas Mize can reach out with one brawny arm and slice a ball into the left field seats at the Polo Grounds.

Bernard Back On Mound As Legion Clinch Leadership

Joe Bernard and his powerful right flipper came back to the baseball wars last night at Summerside and chiefly as a result of his prowess on the mound the Legionaires defeated the R.C.A.F. 3 to 1 and clinched first place in the league standing.

Bernard let the airmen down with three hits, and only one man reached third base other than Brawley who scored the Flyers only tally in the first inning. The run was unearned. Brawley walked, stole second, advanced to third when Bayne grounded out to short, and crossed the plate when Allan dropped a third strike on Foy forcing the backstop to throw the runner out at first.

The only other time the air force threatened was in the sixth. Greig singled, went to second on a wild pitch and stole third. Bernard struck out, but it looked as if Greig might have scored when Brawley grounded out to first, but the R.C.A.F. catcher was held at third, and Bayne ended the inning by fouling out to Gallant at third.

The Vets got two of their counters in the second. The first three men up, Phillips, G. Bernard and Trainor, singled, Allan popped to the pitcher and Trainor batted Phillips in by grounding out to first. MacMurdo was walked and the winning run came in when Carson dropped the ball on an easy force play at third. S. Bernard having grounded to short and reaching first on a fielders choice.

The Legion scored their insurance tally in the sixth. Grady singled to left and stole second. Phillips went out, pitcher to first, but G. Bernard hit safely to right, Grady crossing the platter for the final run of the game.

Bourque was particularly agile at second for the airmen and Stumpf got a picture catch of McNeill's fly in the sixth, taking a tumble but retaining possession of the ball. Both teams fielded a steady game, a single error being chalked up against each.

New Possession Limit For Geese Is Announced

OTTAWA, Aug. 18—(CP)—Annual rules aimed at giving hunters their fun—and ducks and geese a fighting chance—were announced today by the Government.

The 8,000-word regulations, the result of meticulous agreement with the Provinces and the United States, detail dates, bag limits and firearm restrictions.

They are the official code of honor for the hundreds of canvas-coated Canadians who take to the wide-open spaces each autumn in search of migratory birds.

In general, the new rules leave open-season dates and bag limits pretty much as they were last year, said Dr. H. F. Lewis of the Dominion Wildlife Service.

The daily limit for ducks in Eastern Canada is seven, compared with eight in the West. The eastern season averages about a month during October and November, while Western Canada's season in some areas gets under way early in September.

For the first time, an all-Canada "ceiling" of three-shells-at-a loading has been put into force. But only Saskatchewan is going that far. In other Provinces—at the request of provincial authorities—the "ceiling" is one or two shells at a loading.

This means that automatic and pump guns must be plugged or altered in some way so that they hold only the number of shells permitted by the individual province.

Another new rule is the reduction from 15 to 10 in the "possession limit" for geese of all kinds. This includes geese "in hand", in lockers, automobiles and hunting-camps. It does not apply in the Yukon and Northwest Territories.

All regulations, said Dr. Lewis—who does not hunt "because I can't seem to find the time"—are intended to strike a balance between the supply of birds and the take of the hunters.

The fowl actually belong to both Canada and the United States, since they spend part of each year in each country. For that reason, Canadian hunting regulations are closely linked with those of the U. S.

Fine Tribute Paid To W. J. "Billy" Brown

Following is the text of the tribute paid to W.J. "Billy" Brown at the 50th Anniversary race meeting yesterday.

Ladies and Gentlemen:—

I have been asked to say a few words this afternoon about the man we are honoring here today—William J., or as he is better known—"Bill" Brown.

Bill became interested in horses when he was a clerk at Reddin Bros. drug store over fifty years ago and because of that interest he was made Clerk of the Course here for the Exhibition races of 1898.

During his long career in this judge's stand, he has seen nearly all the great trotters and pacers of the Maritimes perform and all the leading drivers in action. Our friend Bill can recall such great reinsmen as Harry Ledyard, ex-Mayor P.S. Brown, Ronnie Steele, Lou Cox, Hammond Kelly, Henry Hooper, Jack Irving, Peter Carroll, Tommy Raymond, Bill Cummings, Spurgeon Gammon, Harry Jewett and others who have passed on, as well as older and present day drivers who are here now or if absent are with us in spirit.

In his clerical capacity, he has been in close touch with horsemen from all over the Maritimes and Maine and his courteous manner and many likeable qualities have added in no small measure to the popularity of Charlottetown and other tracks where he officiated.

Harness racing was just a sporting sideline with Bill, one that he loved and got most of his recreation from. His life's work was as representative of Lyman's Limited, one of the greatest wholesale drug houses in Canada. For that firm he travelled all over the Province, calling on his druggist friends; and it is safe to say that no man was more esteemed or whose visits were more looked forward to than Bill's. His keen sense of humor, glad handshake, hearty laugh and good stories made him popular with all.

In my long association with Bill I never found him in anything but a happy frame of mind and willing to give his very best services to help out in any capacity.

Some months ago, we all learned with deep regret that he was ill and in his long illness since, he has been brave and cheerful all through. I know he will appreciate to the fullest this fine meeting here today, made possible by his many friends. Some men gain great riches, some great fame. These were not goals in the pathway of our friend Bill, but one thing he has gained as shown here today and that is the love and esteem of our people which is priceless and will never be forgotten by Bill or his family.

Sport Echoes From Prince County

The "Big Five", Summerside Baseball League:

	AB	R	H	Pct.
Powell, Red Sox	27	7	13	.481
MacMurdo, Legion	37	11	16	.432
Anderson, R.C.A.F.	31	7	12	.387
Schurman, Red Sox	42	8	16	.381
MacKay, Kinsmen	45	14	17	.378

Most runs: S. Bernard, 15. Most hits: G. MacKay, 17. Most runs batted in: D. Carson, 11. Most stolen bases: G. MacKay, 13. Most doubles: B. MacMurdo, L. Gaudet, D. Carson, R. Phaneuf, 4. Most triples: Eleven players with one each. Most home runs: Brawley, 2.

Players are beginning to get a bit too free again in their conversation with umpires in the Summerside League. There was evidence of this in Monday's game between the Kinsmen and R.C.A.F. What may be considered off-color decisions on the part of an umpire is never an excuse for players to start abusing the official concerned. This is just another form of mob law and must not be tolerated for a moment in baseball. If a ball club feels it is getting a raw deal from an umpire it will get far more satisfaction by appealing quietly to the executive of the league than by abusing the umpire on the field. It is invariably the team that is losing the ball game that starts wrangling with the officials, and because of this, no matter how just the cause of their protests, neutral observers will get an impression of poor sportsmanship.

We have a feeling that the decisions given by our arbiters in the Summerside Baseball League are not quite up to the standard of decisions given by umpires in the major leagues. There is a slight difference in the salaries paid to the two groups also. But here is the rub: Can anyone in Summerside and vicinity find four men in these parts who will do a better job than our umpires are doing? If you can, by all means trot them out, and we feel sure the executive will be glad to give them a trial. If they get through a ball game without anyone considering them bums and robbers they will be carefully wrapped in cellophane and preserved for future use.

Bill Brawley made one of those celebrated shoe-string catches for which he is noted, during Monday's game. By the way, a sports writer in a Canadian magazine gave it as his opinion that more spectacular catches are made in bush leagues than in the Big Time. He says the reason for this is that the big league outfielders play the batters much more accurately and do not misjudge so many fly balls. It takes the bushers to make that last mad dash and stab a ball with one hand. Let's not forget Gionfriddo, however, and his sensational catch in the last World Series.

If the Summerside All-Stars get tripped up on their way to the Island intermediate championship, we predict it will be Lefty McAleer's foot that will get in the way. McAleer was poison to our local batters during the last series, but it so happened that we had a little pitching arsenic of our own in the person of "Joe" Bernard. If Bernard does not get back to his 1947 form during the coming series, our chances of humbling the Charlottetown entry two years in a row will not be any too bright.

Bob Schurman doesn't go to sleep, however, when McAleer puts on his hypnotizing act. Schurman got a double and a triple against the classy portsider in Charlottetown Sunday. Bob's speed is considerably below the supersonic level, so the ball must have been pretty well tagged.

We understand Cece Powell will be out of baseball for the rest of the season as a result of his accident on the highway. He will be sorely missed. Powell is a very popular fellow, both because of his ability on the mound and in the batter's box, and also because he is the even-tempered type of player who takes all reverses, umpires' raw decisions included, without showing any signs of being disturbed. To see Powell blow his top at an umpire would be like seeing a howling blizzard in August. The fans will all be pulling for his complete recovery.

Big Crowd Witness W.J. Brown Anniversary Race Meeting Yesterday

Paying tribute to "Billy" Brown who has served 50 years as Clerk of the Course in the Island harness racing circles, over 3000 fans were in attendance at the W. J. Brown 50th anniversary racing meet at the Exhibition grounds yesterday, and despite a cool wind stayed through to the finish of the fourteen heats raced.

They saw keen racing all the way; saw Calumet Onward pay $66.70 for a $2.00 ticket in the final mile; that in addition to other upsets, and heard Lt. Col. D. A. MacKinnon give a short review of the activities of Mr. Brown in the racing game.

And as a final touch to a program that went over big, the fans heard Bill Brown "Jr." express on behalf of "Dad" his heartfelt appreciation for the tribute accorded his father.

Music between heats was rendered by the 17th Reconnaissance Regiment Band under bandmaster Thos. McFarlane.

Wins Feature

Feature event of the program went to Tennessee Sue in straight heats in battles with Single Streak with a lot of expected competition missing as Single Streak came up with a break in each heat that ruined any chance he had of heading the smooth pacing Wisener-driven mare.

In the Class A. Trot, Marion L. and Kelly's Nightmare had identical summaries. In the first heat Marion L. staved off Quaker's Boy's closing rush to win by a head, while in the second mile Kelly's Nightmare provided an upset as he raced under the wire in front of Lee McKillop, after both Marion L. and Quaker's Boy had jumped it off.

Billy Conn added another upset to the card as he headed a field of seven trotters in both heats of the Class B. Pace. In the first mile he took over the lead as they came by the stands the first trip around and staved off the closing rush of Wait N'See, Dick Budlong and Marjorie Budlong. In the second heat he led from wire to wire and again paced away from the field as the drives came in the last quarter of the mile.

Upset Victory

Adding to the uncertainty of the racing Billy Aubrey chalked up a straight heat win in the Class B. Trot over the favored Brewer's Gallon and four others. Barred in the betting, Brewer's Gallon made a disastrous break at the first turn of the first mile that set him far back; Brendon's Boy taking over the lead only to be corralled by Billy Aubrey in the stretch.

Staying flat in the second mile Brewer's Gallon set out after the leading Billy Aubrey the last quarter of the final heat but couldn't get up to the Aubrey horse in the race to the wire.

Shirley H. Temple had too much pace for the field in Class C. Pace, being 1-1 in the summary. In both heats it was Romeo coming from far back who provided the competition, but in each instance was little less than a half length back at the wire.

Added to the card, Donna Clegg paced away with a straight heat victory in Class D. Pace. In the first mile she and Bob Canuck finished like a team, with the photo finish shot showing Donna inches to the front. In the second mile four of the eight horses were bunched in the stretch but again the Clegg mare had a little too much speed for the others, with Lillian Budlong, Bob Canuck and Mac Watson finishing in that order and the others well strung out.

Plucky Budlong had a summary of 1-2 to head the field in the final event on the card, a trot and pace. Favored in the betting, Plucky won a battle with Miss Playfair and Jerry Guy in the first mile, with the three leaders being very close.

Big Payoff

That set the stage for the final thrill of the afternoon as Calumet Onward, fifth in the first mile, came on to take the final heat, coming through at the top of the stretch when Plucky Budlong jumped it off, to finish well in front of the first heat leader who had gotten back on his stride quickly to cop the runner-up spot.

Starter Russell Abbott came through with another fine performance as starter on the starting gate, while the other officials worked efficiently to get the fourteen heats over in a smart manner.
