Committal Withheld For Two Weeks

OTTAWA, Oct. 28 — (CP) — Formal committal of Miss Agatha Chapman, 39-year-old former Bank of Canada economist, charged with a breach of the Official Secrets Act, today was ordered withheld for an additional two weeks by Magistrate Glenn Strike.

This action was taken after Byron Howard, Crown prosecutor, said that the recent acquittal of Eric of conspiring to gather information for Russia would have an undetermined effect on the case against Adams of Hull, Que., on charges Miss Chapman.

CREAMER — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Ernest Creamer, who passed away October 30th, 1945.

Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory fond and true,
Just a token of affection
And a heartache still for you.

More and more each day we miss you,
Though our thought are not revealed.
Little do they know the sorrow
That is within our hearts concealed.

Fondly Remembered by His Wife and Sons.

TO VETO OR NOT TO VETO, THAT IS THE QUESTION FOR FLUSHING MEADOWS' DIPLOMATS

Dispute between South Africa's Premier Jan Smuts, seen sipping coffee, and Indian delegates delayed U.N. discussion of veto.

Canada's chief delegate, Hon. Louis St. Laurent, left, chats with Premier King at U.N. general assembly. Canada is expected to contend that the veto should be used only in extreme cases.

H.M.C.S. "QUEEN CHARLOTTE": ITS HISTORY

PART I

Charlottetown has one of the most beautiful harbours in America, north of the Mason-Dixon line. To compare it to its southern counterparts is to compare Canadian robust beauty to that of langorous lagoons cooled by gentle trade winds; one suited to Latin Love, the other to vigorous health.

Since its discovery the port of Charlottetown has hailed men down to the sea to sail the ships that make this their home. The call of the sea has never gone unheard. Countless men have answered; it is they who have built our magnificent Merchant Fleet and have manned the guns and ships of our Royal Canadian Navy.

In 1924, though our fleet was very small, it was decided to have "ships ashore" built to train men for "ships asea." Seventeen shore training establishments were set up; H.M.C.S. "Queen Charlotte" at Charlottetown was one of them.

At that time Commander (then Lieut.) G. H. Buntain was appointed commander of the ship, and, as instructor, Petty Officer (1) ex Royal Navy, J. Hearn. In 1926 Captain (then Sub-Lieut.) J. J. Connolly took on the duties of Executive Officer.

There were no buildings available then and space was given in the armouries for the division to carry on training, recruiting, and for stowage of stores. The Navy League Building (now nurses Residence of Charlottetown Hospital), was obtained in 1928. It was here, for six years that ratings of the Reserve Navy trained through the winter and in the summer went to Halifax for 14 days training or were fortunate enough, after three years satisfactory service, to be entitled to a West Indian cruise.

Lieut. Commander (then A-Lieut.) G.A.C. Scarth became Training Officer in 1934; and later, in 1936, when Comm. G. H. Buntain retired, Capt. J. J. Connolly was appointed C.O., H.M.C.S. "Queen Charlotte", and CP.O. R. W. Ross, after P.O. Hearn, became Chief Instructor.

It was in this year of 1936 that the present building housing H. M. C. S. "Queen Charlotte" was acquired, and in 1938 a Supplementary Reserve of Officers was organized, seven were appointed. During the two years prior to 1938 the administration of the ship was carried on by only two officers, Capt. J. J. Connolly and Lt. Comm. G. A. C. Scarth.

The outbreak of war in 1939 found the complete Division in training camp at the Ordnance Grounds, and Divisional Headquarters was established on a permanent basis for recruiting and training.

The whole effort that the Royal Canadian Navy put forth during the past horrible conflict to safe guard our vital lifelines all over the world; and the courage and devotion the sailors of Canada showed in their work, to allow us to live in a free democracy, may never be known. Truly it is named —"The Silent Service."

WEDNESDAY, OCT. 30

At 9 P.M. in their new home, 196 Richmond St.
A Good Time Assured

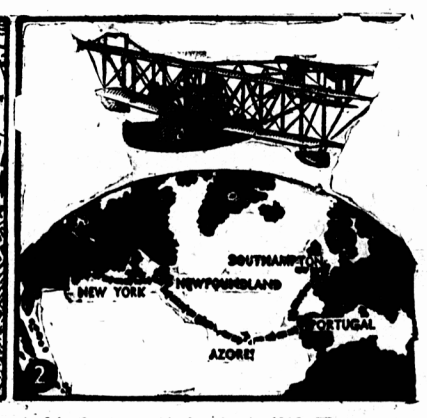
PEACH COTTAGE PUDDING

1¼ cups sifted cake or pastry flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup sugar
¼ cup soft butter
1 egg, well beaten
1/3 cup milk
½ teaspoon vanilla
3 tablespoons butter
½ cup brown sugar
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
2 cups sliced peaches

METHOD: Sift the flour and then measure it and sift again with the baking powder, salt and sugar. Add the ¼ cup soft butter and work this into the flour mixture thoroughly. Beat the egg well and add to the milk along with the vanilla. Add the liquid mixture to the dry mixture and beat together for about one minute.

Melt the remaining three tablespoons butter in the bottom of a square cake pan, then add the brown sugar and nutmeg and stir until the brown sugar melts. Arrange peach slices in rows on top of the butter-sugar mixture. Place the batter on top of the peaches in spoonfuls, covering the peaches well. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 50 minutes, or until the cake part is done. This is nice served either hot or cold, with or without cream.

WINGS OF TOMORROW: The Story of Aviation — No. 3: Across the Atlantic



BY CHARLES TRACY
Aviation editor, Cleveland Press; former Army pilot
(Written for NEA Service)

(1) Four years of war changed the airplane from a flimsy, box-kite affair to a streamlined machine of destruction. Leaders saw its great potentialities as a weapon. New concepts of national defense were urged by Gen. Billy Mitchell, later court-martialed as a result of his outspoken views in favor of air power. Adventurous war heroes sought new fields to conquer with planes. DeHavilands were standard in the Army Air Service in 1918. They were put to use when the Army began carrying the first regular mail between Washington, D. C. and Long Island, N. Y.

(2) Forerunners of today's luxurious airliners were the Curtiss flying boats built for the U. S. Navy in 1918. The NC-1 established a world's record that year by lifting 50 passengers on a single flight. Along with the NC-3 and NC-4, the NC-1 began a trans-Atlantic flight in 1919. But the NC-4, under the command of Lieut. Albert C. Read, U. S. N., was the only plane successful in completing the trip from New York to Southampton, via Newfoundland, the Azores and Portugal, in 12 days.

(3) First non-stop flight over the Atlantic was made in 1919 by Capt. John Alcock, British aviator, and Lieut. A. Whitten Brown, World War flyer, in a Vickers two-engine bomber. They covered 1936 miles from St. John's, Newfoundland, to Clifden, Ireland, in 16 hours and 12 minutes, landing in a swamp because they had dropped their landing gear after take-off. Four Army Douglas biplanes began their first globe-girdling flight the same year. Two of them finished the trip in 175 days. Their actual flying time was 363 hours over the 26,345-mile route.

(4) Aviation captured the popular imagination in 1927, when one of the world's most famous flyers, Charles Augustus Lindbergh, aimed the nose of his Ryan monoplane toward Paris after staggering into the air at Roosevelt Field, L. I., under a heavy fuel load. After 33 hours and 39 minutes of battling fatigue and rough Atlantic weather, he landed at Paris, completing the first solo crossing of the treacherous route which has claimed the lives of many brilliant airmen.
