EVILS OF LANDLORDISM IN THE UNITED KINGDOM.

Speaking before the Canadian Club in Ottawa, Editor Macdonald of the Toronto Globe drew some "Lessons from Britain for Life in Canada." He dealt first with the system of land tenure and the ownership of vast tracts of land by single individuals.

Mr. Macdonald found in landlordism the fruitful cause of the slums in British cities and for the rising tide of Socialism in the British Isles. Nor are Canadian cities free from the same blight. Like causes will produce like effects in the New World as in the Old.

The late Governor Howland was wont to speak of Prince Edward Island as a Million Acre Farm. It is owned by some twenty thousand different individuals. Note the contrast where one man owns an almost equal area in Scotland. A past generation in our own Province knew something of the evils of absentee landlordism and how hard it was and how costly and tedious the task of breaking the yoke.

All Canadian Governments and public men should lay to heart the lesson taught by the experience of the British Isles and Continental Europe, where the lands are the property of the few while the millions are impoverished and land-hungry, and where a vast population is submerged in squalor and want.

THE LORDS AND THE SENATE—A CONTRAST.

While much feeling has been aroused against the House of Lords, it is claimed for them that they have not finally rejected the budget proposals. They have only reserved them for the people to decide upon, and because the House of Commons had no mandate from the people to impose any of the new forms of taxation which the budget contains.

jurisprudence, diplomacy or statesmanship. Lord Roberts, Lord Kitchener, the late Lord Tennyson, and a host of others might be named in this category. The contrast between the House of Lords and the Canadian Senate in these respects is very great. No one has yet been appointed to the Canadian Senate on any higher ground than that of service to the party which appointed him.

The serious illness of King Leopold II, of Belgium, recalls the fact that he was a cousin of the late Queen Victoria. He was born in April, 1835, ascended the throne in 1865 and has no male children but has three daughters. The heir apparent is Prince Albert, born in 1875, and eldest son of King Leopold's younger brother, Prince Philippe, Count of Flanders.

A pathetic interest attaches to the request of the late George Crocker of $1,500,000 to Columbia College as a research fund for the study of cancer. Despite all that great wealth and the best medical skill could do, both he and his wife died of that dread malady which spares neither the high nor the humble. So far medical science has failed to find either the cause, the means of prevention or the cure for cancer. It is to be hoped that something useful and beneficent may come of the research now so generously endowed.

What are the people of the United Kingdom to vote upon in the election? Some will vote against the action of the Lords, others against home rule for Ireland, still others against protection, while other electors will be voting for one or two, or all of these things. So many questions are before the electors that it will not be surprising if their verdict is confused, indecisive or unsatisfactory.
