NEW ROAD EQUIPMENT?—What may or may not have been a new experiment in road making, happened on Bolt's Hill, a short distance north of Milton, a few days ago. A quantity of excellent and other wrappings was observed by travellers who proceeded to investigate. They discovered that a very considerable quantity of liquor had been spilled on the roadway. It was at first assumed that the hard liquor was calculated to mend the soft spots. This idea, however, was abandoned when it was learned that a cask of rum had fallen off a load of that commodity and been broken as it was being hauled to its destination. It did not affect the road to any considerable extent but the effect on the atmosphere is still very apparent.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear Mother and Sister, Mrs. Allen MacLean, who passed from this life to the great beyond one year ago today, June 7th, 1927.

God has called our Darling Sister To be with him in the sky
But we hope some day to meet her In that Heaven by and by.

Weep not for her Son or Sisters or Brother Dear
For her dear soul is at rest
God saw fit to take our Darling To be with him among the blest.

Oh the aching hearts she has left here
But we know her toll is o'er
And we hope that we will meet her Over on the other shore.

Fox Stealing Case

Heard Saturday

On Saturday morning last, the preliminary investigation into the case of Emmanuel Mallet and Louis Binns, accused of stealing foxes from the ranch of Mr. J. L. Sims, French River, was begun before Chief Magistrate Shaw.

In the proceedings, the Crown was represented by Mr. J. O. Campbell, and the accused by Mr. J. Johnston, K. C.

Two witnesses, Mr. J. L. Sims, and Mrs. J. L. Sims, were examined. Their testimony was as follows:—

Mr. J. L. Sims (Sworn) I live at French River. I am a farmer and have a fox ranch.

Two pens in particular—pen No. 2 and Pen No. 6—have a very high grade of foxes in them—the best on the ranch. The two pens are not side by side—pens 3, 4 and 5 are between them. Pen No. 2 is 9 by 18 all the rest, except pen 5, which is 9 by 16, are 12 by 20. They all front on a straight line. Pen 6 is nearest the house, and they run from there down to 1, when we come to No. 7, 8 and 9 are in another row.

On the night of June 4th, we went to bed a little later than usual, as we were away. We got home at ten o'clock, and to bed at 10:30. I went to sleep at once, but my wife sat up in bed reading the paper. I was awakened by hearing a male fox yelping. My wife heard the fox first and called my attention to the sound. I listened for half a minute. The noise got worse, and I came to the conclusion that it was someone in the ranch. I could hear someone in the pen about inside. The foxes trembled about inside. My wife came and went to the door, my wife coming with me. We found the screen door was fastened on the outside, and my wife went out by the kitchen door and unfastened it. While she was doing this, I stayed at the front door. Then, when she opened it, I ran back into the room and put on my socks. Meanwhile, I followed her. I saw no one until I got to the end of the field where there is a wire fence. I looked over the fence expecting to see a car. I saw nothing, but heard a noise to my right. I looked in the direction of the noise and saw three men or boys about a hundred yards away. It was a moonlight night, but quite hazy. I did not see my wife, she had gone back. The men or boys ran out of my sight, going west. I did not follow them. There was a lane in the direction they were going—nearly three quarters of a mile away. I went back to the

THE MARKETS

MONTREAL, Que., June 10.—The demand from exporters for grain here Saturday was again good and quite an active business was done including sales of Manitoba wheat at 27 cents per bushel, while No. 2 Canadian western oats sold at 10 1/2 cents per bushel over July, and No. 1 feed oats at 4-4 cents to 5c per bushel over July C I F Montreal.

There was also a good inquiry from New York interests for Canadian western barley and some round lots were sold at 9c per bushel over the July option C I F here. Trade was quiet in car lots of oats and prices ruled steady. A moderate amount of business was done in spring and winter wheat flour and prices for all lines milled were well maintained under a quiet demand from all sources. Little business was done in standard grades of rolled oats but values were steady. The egg trade was moderately active and prices for all grades were firmly maintained. The receipts were 5,656 cases. A fair volume of business was done in butter and the market was steady. The receipts were 3,775 packages. The export trade in cheese was quiet but the spot demand was fair. The receipts were 9,935 boxes.

OTTAWA, June 9.—Canadian egg markets are unchanged today.

MONTREAL.—This egg market is fairly active and there is no change in prices. The trade for domestic consumption is good and fresh exports are jobbing at extras 37-38c, firsts 33-34c, seconds 29-30c.

EDMONTON.—This egg market continues steady with no change in prices. Two cars of fresh seconds are rolling to Winnipeg for breakfast purposes. The demand for extras and firsts for storing purposes is good.

marks by which he was able to identify four of the foxes. Two of them had no outstanding peculiarities. Two had silver over the eyes and two had the tips cut square off their tails.

I examined one box containing three foxes and, to the best of my knowledge identified them as the foxes I had lost. They were pups of this year's litter, as were the ones that were missing from my ranch. One had the tip cut square off his tail, the other showed the silver over the eyes. As to the men—at this time Emmanuel was in the car, and the rest were standing about outside.

I got in the car alongside Emmanuel, and spoke with him. (Here argument arose between Mr. Campbell and Mr. Johnston as to whether, and to what extent this conversation was admissible in evidence.)

Mr. Campbell decided he would not press the question at this time. I asked him a question and he answered me. "Constable Biggar went away, and afterwards came back with Lewis Binns and Mr. Moose. I was in the house when they came back, but went out then, and found Binns, Emmanuel Mallet and Constable Biggar, also Mr. John Lea, and Herbert Moose. Biggar hand-cuffed them and I got in my car and went home, taking the foxes. I took the large three right down to the ranch and put them back in their proper pens. The three small ones I put in the house, and the large three in the pens. I had gone around the house for two minutes to watch. The pups and the old foxes knew each other. When I let them out of the house the female followed them. They took to the mother. I went up to the house, got something for them to eat, and went back to bed. In pen 2 there were three females and three males—all pups. Those that were missing were two females and one male.

In pen 6, there were two females and a male before anything happened. I examined the foxes that I got back, and they were two females and a male. All the foxes I got back were the same as regards sex, as those which were missing. That is all I know.

(The court adjourned till Monday morning.)

Annie Sims (Sworn)—I am the wife of James L. Sims, I remember the night of the fourth of June, 1927. My witness corroborated in a general way the evidence given by her husband up to the point where she ran to unfasten the front screen door. Continuing, witness deposed: "I ran to the ranch. I saw three men or boys there. They were about twenty-five yards away when I saw them first. They came out of the ranch close to the door, and were standing there. I stood still when I saw them. I called to my husband to come quickly. The three men started running, and I started running after them. I gained on them for an instant. Then I noticed the door of pen No. 2 was open and I stopped and put a stick against it. They got quite a start when I was slapping the door. Two of them seemed smaller than the other one. In size they were small, medium, and large. One had rubber boots on him. I chased them about forty yards, keeping the same distance behind them and then I fell.

I hooked the clasp on pen No. 2 as I was going back. I did not look in any pens. My husband was out. I went down to the ranch again with him that night about 12:20, and did not go out again after that. I was not there at 4 o'clock in the morning, and have not been there since. My husband left as soon as he came back to the house.

The pups in pen No. 2 were born March 23rd, and those in pen No. 2 were born 9th April.

(The hearing was adjourned until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.)

Mr. Campbell decided he would not press the question at this time. I asked him a question and he answered me. "Constable Biggar went away, and afterwards came back with Lewis Binns and Mr. Moose. I was in the house when they came back, but went out then, and found Binns, Emmanuel Mallet and Constable Biggar, also Mr. John Lea, and Herbert Moose. CORPUS CHRISTI CELEBRATED

Impressive Services

Held in St. Dunstan's Cathedral.

The festival of Corpus Christi was fittingly celebrated yesterday in St. Dunstan's Cathedral. Pontifical High Mass was sung by His Lordship the Bishop of Charlottetown, assisted by Rev. A. J. MacIntyre as Arch Priest; Revs. James Murphy and Lawrence Smith as Deacons of Honour; Rev. Raymond MacKenzie as Deacon of the Mass; Rev. Patrick McMahon as Sub Deacon and Rev. Patrick Walsh as Master of Ceremonies.

A powerful sermon appropriate to the occasion was preached by Rev. A. J. MacIntyre.

At the close of the mass a procession of the Blessed Sacrament was held, immediately followed by Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

It was greatly regretted that owing to the inclement weather it was impossible to proceed with the programme as originally planned. This had included a procession Clergy, the Catholic Societies, and the laity accompanying the Sacred Host to Notre Dame Academy, where special services were to have been held.

The musical settings of the service were as follows:
The Cathedral Choir
Proer of the Mass—Solesmes.
Kyrie—Du Bois.
Gloria and Credo—Van Bress.
Sanctus—From Montani "Missa Brevis".

Agnus Dei—Féast.
The "Qua Tollis" in the Gloria was sung by Mr. William Brown, and the "Incarnatus Est" by Mr. S. Doyle.

Music sung during the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament by the Corpus Christi Choir.
Lauda Sion—Lambillotte.
O Salutaris—Oler.
Tantum Ergo—Bather Florence.
The Divine Praises were sung to a setting from St. Basil's Hymn Book.
Adestemus—Gregorian.
Te Deum—Solesmes.

The Corpus Christi Choir also sang the Recessional Hymn "Sweet Sacrament Divine" by Rev. Francis Stanfield.
Music sung by the Boys Choir of St. Dunstan's:
Processional Hymn "Glorious Heart of Jesus."

During the procession of the Blessed Sacrament "To Jesus Heart All Burning", from St. Basil's Hymn Book.

The whole of the musical part of the service was under the capable direction of Mr. William Brown.

PROCEEDINGS

Following this continued Mr. Bennett, the Canadian Pacific Railway owners of the Dominion Atlantic, had been approached and had agreed to invest $100,000. Thereupon the hotel plan was got underway and the public of Halifax began to invest liberally. Business houses, banks, insurance companies and the general public put their money into it and plans went ahead for its construction.

Non-paying Hotels
In July last year Colonel Ralston had informed the promoters that the government could not accede to become investors, but on Trafalgar day, the day on which the first sod of the new hotel which was to be named the Lord Nelson, was turned. Sir Henry Thornton came out with the announcement that the Canadian National Railways contemplated constructing its own hotel at Halifax. It was certain, said Mr. Bennett, that if one hotel couldn't pay, neither could two.

What was difficult to reconcile, however, was the fact of the Minister of National Defence announcing the government's inability to contribute to the Lord Nelson Hotel when, at the same time, the government had invested in the "Ear Beatty" hotel in Saint John and in another similar establishment at Sydney. Why, he asked, could not the government not have done the same thing in Halifax.

The result of this had been that the public had been buying securities as well as business houses who were interested in the growth of Halifax and now the people of Canada were competing against a privately owned enterprise which a high official of the railways had said would result in a loss of $100,000 annually.

Mr. Bennett charged that the government had acted in the belief that the Nova Scotia members would not oppose this vote, seeing that the money was being spent in their own province. This, he declared, was petty partisan politics of a bad kind.

But it was the duty of the leader of the opposition to direct attention to the manner in which this project had been handled by the government and that was what he was doing.

CHURCH SERVICES

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

Yesterday, the 10th day of June, was the third anniversary of the organization of the United Church of Canada. Another event was celebrated by special features in the morning service at Trinity United Church.

Rev. Hammond Johnson preached a sermon, taking as his text, the words "That they may be made perfect in one." Up to 1925 the history of Christianity had been a history of division rather than of unity. There had been reunions of parted branches of the same faith, but never before had great faiths differing in their origins, been brought together. About two and a half millions of people were affected by the church union of 1925. The hope of the Methodist Church, almost the whole of the congregational church, about 83 per cent. of the congregations and the Presbytery of the membership of the Presbyterian Church, united three years ago to form the United Church of Canada. Four hundred and ten pastoral charges have amalgamated, and the men and money thus released are being employed in the extension work of the church. More than 20,000 have been added to the membership of the United Church in the past three years.

The prayer of Jesus is not merely consumption of a union, but that they may be made perfect in one. The mind of Jesus working through human agency continues the perfecting process in human life and society.

Mr. Harvey McPherson sang "Jesus, Lover of My Soul" (McDougall) and the choir rendered the anthem "O Saviour of the World" by Goss.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper was administered at the close of the regular service.

In the evening Rev. Dr. Ramsay presided and introduced the speaker, Dr. Florence Murray. Dr. Murray is a medical missionary of the United Church, in charge of the mission hospital at Ham Heung, Korea. She is supported by Trinity United Church, and in opening expressed her appreciation of this fact, and of the generosity of this congregation in providing the funds for the building of a new nurses' home in connection with the hospital. This is now in course of construction, and will be occupied in the coming winter.

Dr. Murray told in a very interesting and impressive manner what Christianity is doing for the people of Korea. The status of women is very inferior to that of men among the Koreans. Girl babies are not wanted. They are not even given a name, and are brought up in ignorance and in drudgery. Women have practically no social life. But in Christian Korean homes all this is changed. Girls are named and taught and given a position of importance in their homes. Women take part in social Christian worship along with the men. They have their own Sunday Schools and Women's Missionary Societies. Christianity releases the people from fear. The non-Christian Koreans believe in a world peopled with evil spirits, sickness and misfortune are the work of these spirits, which must be placated by sacrifices and prayers. Such a relief engenders constant fear and dread. On becoming Christian, they gradually give up their belief in the existence of evil spirits, and even while the old beliefs linger, they have faith that God can deliver them and so their fears are done away.

Christianity has brought education to the people of Korea, and it has also brought medical care and public health instruction. The people are exceedingly grateful for the benefits which have been conferred on them by the Christian missions. Dr. Murray spoke of some of the needs of the work, especially the need of a new building for the girls' school, an X-ray equipment for the hospital and an automobile for use in the work of the mission and closed with a most impressive appeal for more workers for the foreign field.

Mr. P. W. Small sang Cowan's "The Better Land," and the choir rendered in a very finished manner Prof. Fletcher's beautiful setting of "Crossing the Bar."
