Stoke City Back In Frist League Surprises Fans

LONDON, June 4—(C.P.)—Stoke's return to the First Division of the English Football League after several years in Second Division company came as something of a surprise to football enthusiasts in the Midlands. Not long ago the City was prominent in the front rank of English soccer teams but in recent years their stock has slumped and the impressive style in which they started the season just closed was an eye-opener to several highly-touted clubs.

Almost from the start of the season they maintained a clear lead and despite strong challenges by Tottenham Hotspurs, the runners-up and Fulham, they refused to relinquish it.

Stoke directors did a good piece of work late in the season when they secured the transfer of Palethorpe, a centre-forward from Reading. Palethorpe is a robust player and since his introduction into the City's attack he has scored in almost every match. Other forwards who have consistently found the net are Johnson who tallied 16 times and Mawson, who was credited with 15 goals.

Stock has one of the finest defences in football today. Spencer and Beachill at full-back are wonderfully sound and John has proved a first class goalkeeper. Only 38

To Replant Shediac Oyster Beds

SHEDIAC, N. B., June 4—An international palate tickler of epicures some years ago may again make its appearance in the once famous Shediac Bay oyster. The Federal Department of Fisheries is undertaking the work of reviving the beds and early in June will plant a large quantity of spats or young oysters on certain areas within the Bay, according to the Natural Resources Department of the Canadian National Railways.

The seed oysters will be taken from the Richibucto beds already renowned for their oysters. Should the experiment prove successful it is anticipated fishing will be permitted within the course of the next two or three years. About fifty years ago Shediac oysters were counted among the delicacies on menus in the famous hosteries of England, France and Germany, and it is said their excellence has never been surpassed. Reckless fishing and mussel mud digging indiscriminately in the Bay by neighboring farmers years ago is said to have depleted the beds to such an extent that they no longer were able to supply oysters.

Goals were conceded in league games during the season, a better showing than any other English team. The club has adequate reserves to fill any vacancies that may arise and appears booked for a safe passage in the First Division next season.

Serious Crisis Faces Manitoba University

(Canadian Press)
WINNIPEG, June 4—Resignations of all members of the teaching, administrative and operating staffs of the University of Manitoba had been requested by the board of governors of the university. It is understood the university will be unable to function next year unless there is some reduction in staff and the move is in line with a proposed reorganization of university employees.

All teachers have signed a declaration that the term of their engagement ends August 31. Those employed on the administrative and operating staffs have been given notice that, unless re-engaged, their services will not be required after June 30.

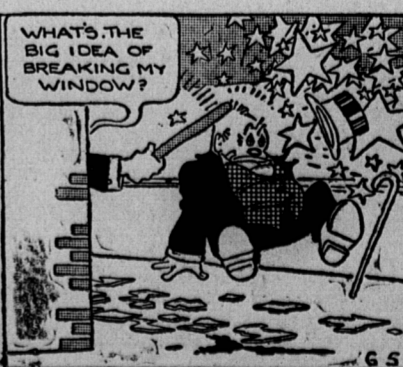

U.S. Gov. Claims Taxable Income

NEW YORK, June 4—(A.P.)—To bolster its contention that $666,666 Charles E. Mitchell received from the National City Company's Management Fund in 1929 was taxable income, the United States Government produced evidence at the Banker's trial today that the full advance from the fund was written down to $1 on the Company's books.

—NOTED PREACHER WILL BE HEARD AT S/SIDE—Trinity United Church, Summerside, on their Anniversary, Sunday, June 11th, is to have the privilege of listening to a preacher who is one of the most widely known, the most distinguished in honors, and the most colorful in character in the United Church of Canada, the Rev. John Pringle, D.D., of Sydney, N. S. Rev. Dr. Pringle is an "Islander" and is proud of the fact. In his connection with the Church he has had wide experience. He has held the highest position of administrative honor and trust, as Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Not few, if any, of the present day ministers of the Gospel have shared in such enriching experiences in real life as he has had. The historic "Trail of '88" saw Dr. Pringle following the gold maddened crowds over the Chilloot Pass into the Klondyke where, through the Yukon territory, he sought to provide for men who had lost the balance of life a counter-weight of spiritual values and eternal treasure. The Great War found him again serving as chaplain to the troops upon the battlefields of France and Flanders. Later, leaving his heavy city charge, St. Andrews United Church, Sydney, where he has ministered for many years, Dr. Pringle served the Church along the North Thompson River in the new Canadian West. And, only a short time ago, he volunteered for service among the transcontinental highway, construction camps along northern Lake Superior. It is expected that Dr. Pringle will recount some of his adventures at a congregational social to be held in Epworth Hall on Monday evening, the 12th. —S.

OLD LOYALIST BURYING GROUND

SAINT JOHN, N. B., June 2—(C. P.)—When Saint John paid tribute to the United Empire Loyalists last month the old Loyalist burying ground came in for its share of attention. Laid out in 1784, a year after the Loyalists landed, this cemetery is in the heart of Saint John's business district. An act of 1848 closed the ground so far as burial was concerned.

High officials, British officers and private soldiers found a last resting place here. Few of the stones remain upright. Some are cracked and broken, and others were removed.

One of the notable graves is that of Christopher Billop, who met Lord Howe, commander of the British forces, Benjamin Franklin and John Quincy Adams in an effort to adjust the differences between the British authorities and revolting colonies. The scene of these endeavors was the present museum "Billop House" at Staten Island, N. Y.

A stone slab supported by four pillars marks the grave of John Milligan, who, according to local tradition, fashioned the Robert Burns' mausoleum at Dumfries, Scotland. Milligan, an architect, civil engineer and stone cutter, was a native of Dumfrieshire, and records show that one John Milligan, of Dumfries, was awarded the tender for mason work on the mausoleum.

One of the most conspicuous monuments was erected in memory of Hon. James Putnam, last Attorney General under His Majesty in the province of Massachusetts.
