Rumored withdrawal of the army hockey team from the City league aroused much speculation among the fans as to just what the future lies in store for hockey this season if this rumor should prove to be correct. In conversation with one of the officials of the league on this matter, the officer in question stated that a meeting of the league executive will be held tonight at the Queen Charlotte when a definite decision on the matter will be reached.

The Army's withdrawal, however, does not mean by any stretch of the imagination that the league will fold up. There are several ways of getting over this difficulty and the meeting tonight will surely decide just what course will be taken. The officers in charge of league affairs have but one idea in mind and that is to make the league a huge success and although they are bound to meet up with obstacles they will likely find ways and means of overcoming them.

A little while back it appeared as if the City would not have a civilian entry in the league. That appeared more certain than ever when the schedule was drawn up with but four teams included. But judging by reports the last few days the boys haven't given up the ghost by any means.

Evidently they have been working quietly behind the scenes and yesterday one of the players concerned stated that they are ready to ice a well-balanced squad if only a backer can be found.

It is to be hoped that their efforts to obtain financial support will prove successful. For with the army withdrawal a vacancy is left and should the civilian team make the grade they could step right into the breach, providing of course the league is agreeable, and the schedule could be run off as originally drawn up without having to revise the list of games should the league be cut down to three teams.

It will all be threshed out at tonight's meeting, however, and then a crystal-clear picture of the hockey situation will be obtained by the fans who are patiently waiting for the league to get underway.

Frank McCool, rookie netminder for the Toronto Maple Leafs, who has been making good ever since the start of the season with some smart net-minding, is not nearly as cool as his name, a fact which is clearly indicated by the following interview given to Frank Adams.

"I know how the second Mrs. De Winters felt those years she was living in the shadow of Rebecca. I lived in the shadow of the departed Paul Bibeault throughout our training campaign at Owen Sound and it's no fun," said Frank McCool, Maple Leafs' goalkeeper.

"The guy wasn't there, but every paper shrieked his name. I'd hear conversations he was coming back. Then there'd be word Canadiens would hang onto him. All that time I was fighting for the Leafs' regular goalkeeping job. When I finally made it, it's a wonder I didn't have a breakdown."

Frank McCool is a worrier. That's why the young man who came out of Calgary to step into the first National Hockey League assignment with the Leafs is such a calm fellow. Any player who sees and stews like he does is always on edge.

"You know, you dream and dream and plan for the day when you'll be in the N.H.L.," he said. "When my chance finally came the Leafs were only partly without a goalkeeper. That Paul Bibeault certainly gave me some uneasy nights."

Every game is a season opener with McCool. He came east to try for a spot with the Leafs against a doctor's advice. He was married shortly before he hit Toronto. He's a lonesome kid in a big city now that the club has hit the schedule, but he's a game guy and he's gradually winning the complete confidence of his mates.

You'd think his fine start between the pipes that helped send the Leafs into a whirlwind rush for the top of the standing would tend to straighten him out but he just can't lose the jitters.

"Maybe because my name is McCool, fans think I'm acting cool," he said. "As far as my insides are concerned, before and during a game I might as well be called McHot. I never saw things happen so fast as they do in the big league.

"That's what I notice most. When I was an amateur out west, I thought the game generally fast. But was nothing. They certainly get in on you in a hurry in the N.H.L." he went on.

"I think I might have given up at Owen Sound, what with the pressure of all that Paul Bibeault stuff," Frank said. "But I suppose it's what they call a hungry player. I need the dough, and this combined with a fatalistic attitude I've developed, keeps me in there fighting. It was a great feeling when Boxing Day came along, shook my hand and told me I was the Leafs' regular goalkeeper."

McCool has been around the circuit once. He's discovered that only because a puck-carrier is coming in on him, he doesn't have to shoot.

There's a worrisome thing to have flashing around the Leafs' nest of the rink and have no one take a shot at you for minutes on end. These guys don't shoot for exercise. They have to be in a set position before they let fly," Frank's observation.

Navy And Y. M. C. A. Teams Win Opening Tilts Of Basketball League

Navy and Y. M. C. A. hoop teams came through with victories last night as the City League basketball schedule got underway with a double header bill. Navy came through with a surprise 30-28 victory over the R. C. A. F. All-Stars in the opening encounter, while the Y. M. C. A. squad furnished the second upset of the night as they beat out the Air Force Officers team 39-35 in an encounter that required ten minutes overtime before the issue was decided.

Both games produced close, fast basketball all the way and although the attendance was disappointing nevertheless the fans that did attend were well repaid for their presence.

In the opening game the All-Stars piled into a 5-2 lead in the first five minutes of play only to have the Navy come back with three quick field goals to take an 8-5 lead. They made it 10-5 with another field goal a minute later and in the final minutes of the session the teams battled it out evenly, Navy getting two more field goals while their opponents were accounting for one field goal and capitalizing on two penalty shots. At the half Navy led 14-9.

Trailing 24-16 with but five minutes left to play in the second half the losers rallied to pull the score to 24-23 and trail by but a point but a basket by Williams and followed with two by Williams in the final minutes clinched the Navy victory.

Y. Team In Overtime Win

Led by the sensational playing of Elmer Rice who chalked up nineteen points during the encounter the Y. M. C. A. team after coming from behind several times during the game finally sank the winning baskets in the second five minute overtime session to whip the R.C.A.F. Officers 39-35 in the second game.

Airmen started off with a rush to pot three straight baskets without a reply from their opponents for a 6-0 lead but the winners, gradually getting organized, came through with four successive field goals, a penalty shot and another basket to take an 11-6 lead. Air Force came on again to score eight points without a return for a 14-11 margin but before the half had ended the Y had again crept to within striking distance as they made the score read 14-13 in the last half minute of the first half.

Three field goals at the start of the second half gave the Air Force a 20-13 advantage; again the winners fought their way to within a point as the score read 20-19 for the Officers. For the next five minutes it was as even as could be with first one team and then the other whipping in field goals until finally Rice's basket knotted the count at 24-all. Air Force went ahead again on a penalty shot by Jones and in an exchange of baskets the Air Force led 29-27 with a minute left to play. Rice came through again to knot it at 29-all to send the game into overtime.

In the first five minute overtime session Jones sent the Air Force team into the lead with a basket at the three minute mark but Doug McDonald here crept into the scoring picture as he knotted the count at 31-all with only seconds left to force another extra five minutes of play.

Y. took a 33-31 lead on Cullen's basket in the first 20 seconds of play only to have Wise even it up a minute later and then Giller sent the losers ahead 35-33 with a minute and a half left to play. There was exactly one minute left when Rice heaved in a long one for the equalizer that made it 35-35 and then the same player raced in close seconds later for what proved to be the winning basket with Doug McDonald adding an extra clincher twenty seconds from the end to give the Y. M. C. A. team their 39-35 victory.

George Sinclair handled both games and turned in great officiating in both instances.

Swedish Track Stars To Appear In United States During Indoor Season

NEW YORK, Nov. 29 — (AP) — impetus was added to the 1945 indoor track season today with the announcement that Gunder Haegg, one of Sweden's two great middle distance runners, and Hakon Lidman, hurdler, had accepted an invitation of the Amateur Athletic Union to compete in the United States.

Dan Ferris, secretary of the A.A.U., said there were a few things to be ironed out such as transportation and approval of the international federation for the athletes to compete for more than 21 days but he expected approval within a few days.

A cable from Stockholm said that Haegg would corespond for the Idrottsbladet as a sportwriter as recompense for the salary he will lose The Swedish army also has released Haegg from three months of military duty. The two runners plan to arrive in the United States between Christmas and New Years and will run in various indoor meets starting the latter part of January. Neither had performed on the boards.

Haegg, who toured the United States in the summer of 1942, holds the world's two-mile record of 8:-42.8 and the 1,500-meter mark of 3:43. He also once held the mile record of 4:04.6 but it has been lowered to 4:01.6 by his countryman, Arne Anderson. Anderson will not make the trip although he was invited.

Lidman is the outstanding hurdler of Europe and is credited with 14 seconds for the 110-meter high hurdles. Last year he won Sweden's award comparable to the Sullivan trophy in the United States

REMEMBER WHEN

Detroit's Joe Louis knocked out Charley Massera in three rounds at Chicago 10 years ago tonight in his 11th professional fight. The Brown Bomber—Who later became world's heavyweight champion — collected $1,100 for the nine minutes. Ten months later he flattened Max Baer in four rounds and received $217,337.

"Another funny thing is the tone of letters I receive from home," he smilingly relates. "The folks ask me what I thought of New York and Chicago and Montreal. They don't know the fate of rookies in the N.H.L., where the newcomers sleep in the upper berths, if they can sleep at all.

"They haven't yet figured out that we play at night, shower and dash for a taxi and a train. A guy doesn't have much chance to study scenery when he's getting dressed or undressed."

If determination is any cure for the shakes, McCool should cling to his place with the Leafs. He's been under the watchful eyes of many pro scouts. Frank Boucher of the Rangers watched him time and again but didn't figure the lad would make the big time, but McCool has fooled them all and is riding higher and higher in the estimation of Toronto fans.

2 Games in Nat. League Tonight

Montreal Canadiens have a chance to increase their margin over the second place Toronto Maple Leafs to three points tonight when they play hosts to the improving New York Rangers at Montreal in one of two scheduled National Hockey League games. Rangers, however, who have been showing much improvement of late should make it plenty hot for the league leaders.

In the other game Chicago, recent winners over the strong Detroit Red Wings tackle Boston at Chicago in what should be a high-spirited display.

Louis At Camp Shanks

CAMP SHANKS, N.Y., Nov. 29—(AP)—S. Sgt. Joe Louis, world's heavyweight boxing champion, reported here today for a 60-day assignment during which he will assist in the camp's physical conditioning program, the camp public relations office announced.

Louis will coach boxing, give lectures and take part in boxing demonstrations, the public relations office said.

Louis recently completed seven exhibition bouts in the United States, which followed 90 similar appearances during a six-month tour of England, North Africa and Italy.

RALSTON TAKES—

ifying additional numbers of men will be passed and put into effect without any reference back again to this House for a vote of confidence or approval."

Will Hold Gov't to Account

He warned he would hold the government, particularly Mr. King and Defence Minister McNaughton, to "strict account" in carrying out vigorously their declared intention of reinforcing the army with trained N.R.M.A. men. With the powers now taken there was no excuse for not getting the men there in time to meet all requirements and permit of further leaves for men from the battlefields.

"The (Progressive Conservative) amendment is in fact a motion of want of confidence because if it would be lost," said Col. Ralston, "and the government, instead of driving on, as it must do, to dispatch the 16,000 reinforcements from the N.R.M.A. and the further reinforcements required from time to time, would cease to function and the whole matter of dispatching these men which I have so earnestly advocated would be thrown into the realm of uncertainty and suspense.

"I have come to the conclusion that I will not by my vote permit that to happen."

Defeat of the government would mean attempts to form a new government, the necessity of the new government finding out if it had the support of the House, delays and uncertainties, perhaps dissolution and a general election.

"I wanted reinforcements and I wanted them quickly," he said. "I was not asking for a general election to plunge this country into acute political turmoil for the next two months."

Mr. King, he said, propounded a strange doctrine when he said a Minister should not resign if he was not prepared to become Prime Minister to carry out a new policy. In any case he (Col. Ralston) had not asked for a new policy, he simply asked the government to carry out its own policy as stated in 1942, overseas conscription when necessary.

"The Prime Minister gave the impression in his speech he was in genuine search of a successor," he said. "The Prime Minister was not in genuine search of a successor.

"He asked a purely hypothetical question, going something like this: 'If I went down to the Governor-General tonight and offered my resignation and recommended you to him, would you accept?' That was rather hypothetical. As a matter of fact I said no."

Col. Ralston said that in conversation later Mr. King indicated he (Mr. King) asked the question out of curiosity and had no intention of going to the Governor-General.

Mr. King interrupted to say that was not correct and later asked if at a subsequent meeting he had not said he was prepared to resign and asked if any Minister was prepared to take his place.

Col. Ralston said he was not going into what took place at other meetings.

Col. Ralston said he knew his weaknesses and that the "dizzy heights of leadership" were not for him. The proposition that a Minister who disagreed should not assume the leadership rather than resign could not be upheld. It was up to the individual to say what responsibilities he wished to assume.

Shortage Of Reinforcements

Reporting on his trip overseas when he found a shortage in reinforcements, Col. Ralston said he reported to the Cabinet as soon as he knew the situation and had he known it sooner he would have recommended action under the N. R. M. Act sooner.

That was all there was to that. The situation might have shocked Mr. King but it shocked him too. The time of the recommendation had no relevancy to the issue.

He found the infantry reinforcement pools almost exhausted and found a possibility that in January there would be not only no infantry reinforcements in the United Kingdom or the two battle-areas; but the units would be slightly under strength. He recommended that 15,000 trained infantry be made available from the N. R. M. A. at once and arranged for a sailing Nov. 27.

Had action been taken at once the men could have been on their way. The difference in the Cabinet was not only on the question of an appeal for volunteers, the success of which he doubted, but whether if an appeal failed action should be taken by compulsion.

Col. Ralston said he made the recommendation reluctantly. He still believed the voluntary system preferable and took back nothing he had said in support of it but it had failed to be "a dependable source."

While in favor of making all Home Defence troops available for overseas service the 10-member Social Credit party threw its support to the Liberal government on the major issue of confidence before the Commons.

Stalin Confirms Nazi Reports Of New Drive

LONDON, Nov. 29 — (A P) — Premier Stalin tonight confirmed German reports of a new Soviet offensive in southwest Hungary, announcig that the Red Army had crossed the Danube in force south of Budapest on a front 93 miles wide and 25 miles deep and captured the important town of Pecs and 330 other places.

Marshal Stalin's order of the day did not give the exact locations of the large-scale crossing, but Pecs is 98 miles southwest of Budapest, as is Mohacs, another important centre that was taken, while a third, Bataszek, is 85.

The order, crediting Yugoslav Partisan forces with aiding Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's 3rd Ukraine Army in the advance, implied that the 93-mile crossing extended into northern Yugoslavia.

The German Radio, which has been talking of this operation for a week, admitted Tuesday the loss of Mohacs and said tonight Pecs had been evacuated.

The Germans, acknowledging uncertainty about Russian intentions, said that it could not yet be foretold whether the Red Army would turn northward along the west bank of the Danube to take Budapest in the rear or would continue westward.

A German military spokesman contended on the Berlin Radio, however, that the Russians were "playing a risky game with this operation," which he said was aimed at bringing a decision in Hungary before German troops that had left the Balkans could make their weight felt.

1,000 Parade In Montreal

MONTREAL, Nov. 29 — (CP) — More than 1,000 young men, chanting "a bas la conscription", (down with conscription) and similar slogans, paraded through Montreal's financial district tonight smashing windows at the French-language daily newspaper Le Canada on St. James Street, and also at the offices of National Selective Service on Notre Dame street, three blocks away.

The men had paraded from an east-end market hall where they had heard Andre Laurendeau, Quebec leader of the Bloc Populaire, say that a majority had "no moral right" to "bind French Canadians to a conscription measure."

Situation At Terrace, B. C. Has Improved

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Reports tonight from Terrace, B. C., said that Home Defence troops of two regiments who picketed a Saskatchewan Regiment scheduled to leave last night for a new posting, had returned to duty late this afternoon.

The troops train left Terrace this afternoon carrying the troops to another station in British Columbia. Reports from Terrace said that officers of a French-Canadian Regiment from Quebec and a Manitoba Regiment recruited in all parts of Canada appeared to be on friendly terms with their men, and that a general easement in the situation was expected.

There were a few parades through the business section today but no disorders occurred. The men appeared in good humor and sang as they marched.

The liquor store and beer parlors in the town of 1,600 inhabitants remained closed. They were shut down shortly after the disturbances began last week-end.

Except for the trouble at Terrace and a minor demonstration at Port Alberni where paraders marched through the streets last night carrying banners with anti-conscription slogans, Pacific command officials said that British Columbia camps are functioning normally.

DRIVE TOWARDS—

France remained in German hands —two rectangular stretches of borderland in Alsace and Lorraine and the long by-passed and besieged ports of Dunkerque, Lorient and St. Nazaire. Enemy troops also held some land at the mouth of the Garonne Estuary leading to Bordeaux.

There was little change in the situation on the British 2nd Army front in southeast Holland but Lt.-Gen. Dempsey's forces on the west side of the Maas River were brought under increasingly heavy fire by German artillery between Venlo and Roermond, apparently in expectation of a British attack.

(There was no report of the Canadian forces in Germany being engaged in action, other than routine patrols.)

A front dispatch said that while German troops opposing the United States 1st Army's advance east of Aachen were putting up tough resistance at most points, they were in many instances not up to the calibre of enemy forces encountered earlier in the war.

3 Pictou Men Seek New Trial

Convicted Of Robbing J. L. Stewart Of Cardigan.

HALIFAX, Nov. 29 — (CP) — Appeal of three Pictou men for the quashing of a conviction or a new trial on charges of robbery was dismissed by the full bench of the Nova Scotia Supreme Court today.

The convicted men were Harold F. Davis, Joseph Davis and Isaac Gaudet. They were found guilty, at the October session of Supreme Court in Pictou, of robbing James Leigh Stewart of Cardigan, P.E.I.

In handing down its decision, the full bench suggested that the three petition the Minister of Justice for a new trial or the setting aside of the conviction.

Grounds for the appeal were given by the defence as misdirection by the trial judge and newly-discovered evidence.

The notice of appeal stated that Stewart, who alleged that the trio robbed him of $75, later went to the men in jail and admitted he had committed perjury at the trial. He was alleged to have told them they were in no way connected with the robbery and that two other men had committed it.

The appeal then stated that Stewart made a statement in writing before C. L. R. Gray, solicitor for the three, and a statement to the R. C. M. P. Later, the R. C. M. P. laid a charge of spreading false news against Stewart. This charge was withdrawn, and a new charge of committing public mischief was laid.

Stewart pleaded guilty to the public mischief charge and was sentenced to two years in penitentiary.

Subsequently, it was stated, he notified the R. C. M. P. that his statements admitting perjury were false.

Discharged Sailors, Airmen Subject To Army Recall

OTTAWA, Nov. 29 —(CP) — Certain categories of men discharged from the navy and air force are subject to military call, Labor Minister Mitchell said today in the Commons.

He said the navy and air force stipulated the categories in which the "discharges—all surplus personnel—were placed.

Recent and future graduates from the commonwealth air training plan — estimated at 10,000— who will go into a civilian air force reserve under a recent curtailment order, are not affected by today's announcement, an air force spokesman said.

Those not subject to military recall are:

1. Men with service overseas, on the high seas, or over the territorial waters of Canada providing such service has not been terminated on grounds of misconduct or inefficiency prior to engagement in actual operations.
2. Men who have served three years or more in Canada and whose services have not been terminated for misconduct or inefficiency. (Previously two years service cleared a man with the army.)
3. Men discharged on compassionate grounds.
4. Men discharged to civilian posts of high essentiality.
5. Men discharged as medically unfit.

Those liable to recall:—

1. Personnel with overseas or home service who were discharged on grounds of inefficiency.
2. Personnel whose services were terminated on grounds of misconduct by sentence of court-martial or disciplinary courts.
3. Personnel who resigned to avoid court-martial.
4. Personnel discharged because their services were no longer required.

Those definitely subject to recall:—

1. Men not covered in the foregoing categories.
2. Navy probationary officers who either resigned or failed to qualify.
3. Men discharged as unlikely to become efficient or suitable.

Serious Jap Push Reported In China

CHUNGKING, Nov. 29 — (AP) — Japanese vanguards have made startling advances inside Kweichow Province toward Kweiyang, its Burma Road capital and junction point of a highway network linking Chungking, Kunming and other Southwest China cities, a U. S. 14th Air Force communique disclosed tonight.

The Air Force bulletin, relayed by the headquarters of Maj.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, announced that fighters strafed enemy cavalry troops on the Pachai-Tukiang Road yesterday. This indicated the Japanese had either cut through or outflanked some of the Chinese units which had been expected to defend Kweiyang.

(The Japanese news agency Domei broadcast a report that 50,000 Chinese were fleeing toward Kweiyang along the southwestern highway and the Kwangis-Kweichow railway after Japanese forces yesterday occupied Nantan. The report called Nantan "the remaining important enemy stronghold" in Kwangsi.)

Rumored 6th Division Will Be Re-Organized

VANCOUVER, Nov. 29 — (CP) — The Vancouver Province in a newspage story today said that the Canadian Army's 6th division will be reorganized immediately, brigade camps at six British Columbia centres will be closed and Pacific command will revert to status of a military district.

Confirmation of this report could not be obtained from Pacific Command headquarters.

Reorganization of the 6th division, comprised almost entirely of home defence units, would be the second step in connection with three infantry divisions organized for the defence of Canada. The 7th and 8th divisions were disbanded in September, 1943.

The 6th division has been stationed in British Columbia and brigade camps were set up at Prince Rupert, Terrace, Prince George, Vernon, Nanaimo and Port Alberni.

Report Offer Of $200,000 For Stardust

LONDON, Nov. 29 — (CP) —The Daily Mail reported today that "a millionaire Californian racehorse owner" had offered $200,000 for the Aga Khan's famous stallion, Stardust, which is now at a stud farm in Ireland. The Aga Khan is in Switzerland, the newspaper said. The manager of the farm did not know whether the offer had been accepted.

13-Ship Jap Convoy Sunk

MacARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Nov. 30 — (Thursday) (AP) — Five - bombing United States fighter planes wiped out a 13-ship Japanese reinforcement convoy Tuesday and Wednesday, sending an estimated 4,000 enemy troops to death at sea, sinking 10 transports and three destroyers.

Piling into the sixth large convoy the Japanese have sent to Leyte, the fighters erased eight transports far from their goal at Ormoc in accounting for the 4,000 troops but other enemy soldiers got ashore from two docked transports at Ormoc which later were sunk.

Kai-Sheks Reported To Have Separated

LONDON, Nov. 29 — (CP) — The Daily Mail said today that President and Mrs Chiang Kai-Shek have separated and that she may make her home in Miami, Fla.

In a Calcutta dispatch, the Mail reported it had been common knowledge in Chungking for some time that the Chiangs were unhappy and the break finally was made after an open disagreement at a Chungking tea party.
