ST. JAMES CHRISTMAS PARTY—One of the happiest and most successful Christmas parties, was held in the Kirk Hall last evening when the boys and girls of all departments of the Church School sat down to a delicious supper served by the ladies of the Kirk Auxiliary. Humorous films were shown and carol singing was led by the Junior Choir, under the direction of the Church organist Miss Lillian MacKenzie. The arrival of Santa Claus, the distribution of good things and a photograph of the whole school brought the party to a happy conclusion.

FROM THE OLD COUNTRY—The lack of an immigration policy in Prince Edward Island is accentuated by the predicament of a newly arrived family from London, England, consisting of Capt. L. G. Savage, his wife and four children. In the English Army since 1929, Capt. Savage had prior experience of farming in Ontario and his desire now is to establish himself on a farm in this Province. He had obtained information about the Province some months ago through the Guardian and by correspondence with Provincial Government officials. He and his family arrived here by plane on Dec. 3, having spent $2,000 in transportation. They were allowed to take only $400 with them on leaving England, and they now find themselves financially handicapped notwithstanding the Bank references they are able to show from the Old Country. The difficulties are being met by the Guardian representative yesterday, is that there is apparently no agency here to whom prospective settlers can apply. They have found Prince Edward Island a friendly and hospitable, and are anxious to remain here if satisfactory arrangements can be made.

ALL WHOLESALERS WILL BE CLOSED FRIDAY AND SATURDAY FOLLOWING CHRISTMAS DAY.

Western Allies Will Not Quit Berlin

BERLIN, Dec. 22—(AP)—The British and United States military governments of Germany declared today that the Western Allies have no intention of withdrawing from Berlin and that they hope for continuation of the four-power Allied Control Council for Germany.

Lucius D. Clay, the American governor, and Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, the British commander, made their views known at separate press conferences.

The Soviet government and British authorities plan immediate steps to strengthen the economic unification of their zones, but that any political unification would wait upon approval from the German people.

The Soviet newspaper Tsogliche Rundschau here carried an editorial last week to the effect that formation of a separate government in Western Germany might lead to a request that the Western

Plan To Step Up Activity in Local Navy League

Recently, Mr. H. R. Gillard, Dominion Secretary of the Navy League of Canada, Toronto, Ontario, spent several days in this city, renewing acquaintances and holding meetings with the personnel of the local Division. It is anticipated that the coming year will see increased activity. Plans are now under way and a detailed report will appear in the press shortly.

The P.E.I. Division consists of about cadets and seven officers, including a band. These young men meet Friday evening, and about two hours of interesting work is accomplished. The proposed agenda for the coming year which include such subjects as woodcraft, photography, marksmanship, etc. It is interesting to note that forty-one of the Cadets attended summer camp near Saint John, N.B., and the Division came in for great praise in their appearance and work.

As the division is self-supporting, and as the boys require uniforms, etc., a very splendid book entitled "The Arctic Post," containing 153 fine drawings of the Canadian Navy in action will be on display in several of the business windows. This book will make a very fine Christmas gift.

WARMLY APPLAUDED

Their first song was the Song from Heaven, "Silent Night". After they had finished, applause broke loose and went on and on. They sang all the songs they knew and their "Silent Night" again. Their Majesties desired to receive the singers. After being presented in the Royal Box, the King requested them to sing next Christmas at the Royal court chapel. So they did and "Silent Night" was their song.

The worthy father sat in his study on Christmas Eve, reading his Bible and preparing his service for Midnight Mass. There came a knock at the door and he was summoned to go deep into the spruce forest to bless a new-born babe. He came to a ramshackle hut poorly lighted and filled with wood smoke and on a crude bed lay a young mother and in her arms her new-born child. The priest gave them both his blessing and returned down the mountain side in the silence of the stars. In the brilliance of the stars, the passing wild animals who fearlessly watched him as he went night in the peace of the holy night.

Soon the four Strassers were to be known as the Tyrolean night-ingles and were in great demand at concerts everywhere.

"Silent Night" also became popular and was sung in the cathedral at Berlin. King Frederick William of Prussia, struck by its beauty, demanded to know the names of the author and composer. He was told, "author and composer unknown."

The Royal concert master was told to find him and started at once on his research. One could tell him, but it seemed to require Austria on his search, he came to a small inn on the border. There he inquired for a bullfinch, a boy in a cage and of the surprise of the Royal musician the bird whistled the tune of "Silent Night". "Where did you get that bird?" he demanded. "A traveller had bought him in Salzburg at St. Peter's Abbey. So to St. Peter's Abbey in Salzburg he went, seeking the composer of 'Silent Night, Holy Night'."

From the sky's golden height came salvation to every place. In revealing fullness of grace, Jesus, born as a man."

He went to St. Peter's Abbey and looked through all the compositions of Michael Haydn, the brother of the famous Joseph, whom he held to be the composer. No such tune was found in Michael Haydn's compositions. As for the bullfinch, the abbott said that training song birds was a cruel practice and was not done at St. Peter's.

The choir instructor however, heard the story and he knew his choir boys and feared that one of them might have trained a bullfinch to sing "Silent Night". He held him and asked his name, "Felix Gruber". He replied, ready for punishment. "Where did you get that song?" asked the choir master. "Why my father made it up. He is the organist at Hohen."

Schoolmaster Visited

So, in a short while they were to visit the old schoolmaster. He was very surprised to see his son and still more so when he heard he had the choir master with him. He invited him to supper and in course of conversation the choir master said, "I hear you have written a famous song." "What song?" asked the schoolmaster. "Why 'Silent Night'." "Oh! that was written thirty five years ago. The words are by Father Mohr who held him and he replied, ready for punishment. "Where did you get that song?" asked the choir master. "Why my father made it up. He is the organist at Hohen."

"Why my father made it up. He is the organist at Hohen."

So, in a short while they were to visit the old schoolmaster. He was very surprised to see his son and still more so when he heard he had the choir master with him. He invited him to supper and in course of conversation the choir master said, "I hear you have written a famous song." "What song?" asked the schoolmaster. "Why 'Silent Night'." "Oh! that was written thirty five years ago. The words are by Father Mohr who held him and he replied, ready for punishment. "Where did you get that song?" asked the choir master. "Why my father made it up. He is the organist at Hohen."
