Mitchell in Statement On Fuel Outlook

OTTAWA, July 14 (CP)—Labor Minister Mitchell said here tonight that Canada must cut and bring to the surface more coal from her own resources to meet the demand of a possible shortage of fuel in future, and appealed to industry, farmers and others who are able to cut fuel-wood to do so.

In an address carried over the National Network of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, Mr. Mitchell said that in the last fiscal year Canada used nearly 37,000,000 tons of bituminous coal, slightly less than half of which was produced in the Dominion. More than 19,200,000 tons were imported from the United States.

Under the circumstances, we are through back on our own resources. We must cut and bring to the surface more coal from our own mines.

Check Discharges From the Bowels Statement Re Casualties

OTTAWA, July 14 (CP)—The army announced today that a Canadian address will be given in casualty lists for all army men who become casualties overseas, even when a soldier's official next-of-kin is a wife in the United Kingdom.

The announcement means a change in practice for army casualty lists. Up to now the only address given has been that of the next-of-kin. Some 8,000 Canadian soldiers have married in the United Kingdom since the war began, it is estimated, and in an increasing number of cases this meant the only address given in casualty lists was an address in the old country.

FOR PACIFIC OFFENSIVE Australian shipyards are building hundreds of landing craft barges and other small boats for use by Allied Nations forces.

Bowel troubles, although happening at any time of the year, are more prevalent during the hot summer and early fall months.

Summer flu is one of the worst troubles, but diarrhea, dysentery, colic, cramps and pains in the intestines, or any looseness of the bowels should have immediate attention.

The action of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is pleasant, reliable and effective in helping you check the unnatural discharges.

It has been on the market for the past 94 years, so why experiment with new and untried remedies? Get "Dr. Fowler's" and feel safe.

A warm welcome was awaiting for the four young fliers shown above when they arrived back at their training station on the East coast of Canada. They spent 24 hours in a rubber dingy drifting in the open waters of the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Their plane had developed engine trouble and pancaked into the sea. They were rescued through a combined search of the R.C.A.F. and Royal Canadian Navy. From left to right are: Flight Sergeant C.B. Mess Room Chatter

WITH THE R. C. A. F. SOMEWHERE IN NORTH AFRICA, July 10 (CP)—In the western desert, as in other theatres of war, R.C.A.F. members formed a large percentage of air crews and earned a proportionate share of the glory and honors of aerial warfare.

From November until May, R.C.A.F. members formed a large percentage of air crews and earned a proportionate share of the glory and honors of aerial warfare.

At the climax of the campaign there were in the Western Desert Air Force approximately 1,000 R.C.A.F. crew members, again not including members of the R.A.F. ground crew and technical and administrative officers and other ranks.

During these same months from Alamein to Tunis 12 R.C.A.F. members in the Desert Air Force were reported killed or missing. Virtually all of these were air crew, and the proportion of loss was the top-ranking crew or damaged and hazardous role Canadians performed in the elimination of the Axis from Africa. Many more were wounded or captured.

Not only do R.C.A.F. personnel thickly populate every R.A.F. squadron and crew room, dominating many lighter units, and being represented in practically every British bomber and flying boat in the air, but the ubiquitous Canadian wireless also has been to be found even in units of the United States Army Air Force.

One U.S. bomber squadron which had to borrow R.C.A.F. gunners when it first went operational now is battling to retain them permanently, and the commanding officer has recommended the entire batch for commissioning.

Australian and other Dominion squadrons have also retained R.C.A.F. pilots, despite the general trend towards nationalization of units in the desert, and Canadian air gunners have proved as popular as the top-ranking crew or damaged and hazardous role Canadians performed in the elimination of the Axis from Africa. Many more were wounded or captured.

Individual exploits have forced other Canadian fighter pilots somewhat reluctantly into the limelight, because the average Canadian flier, like his English pal matches his keenness for a scrap with an equal degree of embarrassment when he finds himself a casualty even for a day.

HAD THRILLING

Rescue Service From Scouris Too soon flying became impossible and most planes in the area were abandoned. At the home station impatient crews waited through the night. They heard constantly the high speed launch of the R.C.A.F. Air-Sea Rescue Service from Scouris and from naval vessels.

The bad weather broke up around noon next morning and the order for take-off was given. Eight minutes before the Commanding Officer of the station had started out on his own search. He had studied the charts and suddenly pointed to a map, saying: "I think they're around that spot. I'll just take a look at it," and he was away on the first of the many planes to leave the station.

Just after 2 o'clock the welcome signal "Men sighted" reached the home station. Three minutes later came another - "Located dunsy". Two planes had reached the spot almost at the same time. The Commanding Officer, Lt. Col. H. C. Macdonald, R.C.N.V.R., and Halifax was within six minutes of the ship. The four men were seen on board the mine-sweeper.

Commanding Officer of the home station had started to all planes "Men found." A distant aircraft replied "Whoopie!" (This signal won't be recorded in official log books). Nine planes gathered in a cluster above the rescue scene.

On the ship the survivors were wrapped in blankets, given food, (they had nothing to eat for 24 hours) and placed below decks to rest. "It would be hard to describe how well they treated us... everybody without exception," W.O. 2 McKay declared.

None of the four had anything worse than cuts and bruises they had received in the forced landing. All they needed was food, sleep and warmth after the ordeal of the dinghy. The Commanding Officer of the home station flew to Sydney himself to bring the four men back. He piloted the plane and met them at the hospital.

"We were a bit nervous when we walked in for we were rather conscious of the fact that we had lost one of His Majesty's aircraft," said Sgt. Watts. "But the Group Captain came over, shook hands with all of us and said 'Good Show'. We feel it's a pretty great thing to belong to an organization like this."

Pt. Sgt. Thomas Adamson, Vancouver son of two socialist British M.P.'s W.W. Adamson and Mrs. Joseph Adamson has been awarded the Distinguished Flying Medal.
