LUNCH BOX MEAL SHOULD NOURISH

How to feed the war worker has become an important question in thousands of Canadian homes. Our first suggestion is going to be something you may feel that you personally can do nothing about. But don't dismiss it on that account. You alone may feel helpless. But you and your friends and your friends' friends are public opinion; which can still do plenty.

Dorothy Dix Says—

BOY WITH INFERIORITY COMPLEX FEELS HIMSELF A MISFIT

Parents Should Realize Importance Of A Social Education

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a boy in my late teens, but due to family reasons I have never had much of a social life. I am popular with other fellows, but my inexperience and inability to converse with girls of my own age make it very hard for me to make any kind of acquaintance with them, yet I would like to go out on dates and have some enjoyment that belongs to my time of life. Besides this awkwardness, I am a rather ugly guy.

This situation has given me an inferiority complex in which I have lost faith in myself and my work. I am popular with other fellows, but my inexperience and inability to converse with girls of my own age make it very hard for me to make any kind of acquaintance with them, yet I would like to go out on dates and have some enjoyment that belongs to my time of life. Besides this awkwardness, I am a rather ugly guy.

ANSWER—Listen, son, no man is beaten until he thinks he is, and for a boy to throw up his hands and quit before he is 20 is sheer cowardice. Why haven't you begun to fight yet. So roll up your sleeves and sail into the battle of life determined to win out, instead of running up the white flag of defeat at the first sign of trouble. The worst thing about this darned old inferiority complex, is that it makes cowards of all who are afflicted with it. They haven't enough backbone even to tackle a mouse.

SOCIAL POISE AN ASSET

Now, let's examine the disabilities under which you say you have. You have a handicap, of course, because one of the biggest assets in life is knowing how to get along with other people. A good address, an easy manner, the ability to do and say the right thing are just so many keys that open the doors of opportunity to any boy.

I have never been able to understand why parents who are solicitous about their children's education, and who make all sorts of sacrifices to send them to college, never think it worthwhile to give them a social education. Yet for Johnny to have been taught, from his cradle up, how to enter a room, how to meet strangers graciously, how to handle the small change of casual conversation, how to be sure of himself, yet never obtrusive, and how to adapt himself to any company in which he happens to be, is just as important as it is for him to have a smattering of Latin and Greek and higher mathematics.

It is a pity that you missed that invaluable training in your childhood, but as you did, it is fortunate that you realized your lack in time to make up for it. So begin at once to fit yourself into the picture of modern life. You cannot expect other young people, and especially girls, to be eager to join your society if you do not adopt the ways of the things that they do. You can't expect a girl to want to go to a dance with you if she has to sit it out on the side-lines with you because you don't know how to dance, or if you mangle her feet stepping on them when you attempt to do some thing which she knows how to do. You must learn to play bridge with you if you are such a bungler you get them beaten.

GIRLS LIKE SOPHISTICATED TYPE

So the first thing for you to do is to fit yourself for the society you wish to go to. Take private lessons. Learn how to do the things the young people, in whose set you wish to belong, do. The reason that you now have such difficulty in talking to a girl is because you don't know any of the things that she knows. You will bubble like a brook when you can talk to Susie about the things you have done together.

As for your looks, don't give them a second thought. Girls like to look at handsome men in the movies, but in real life they prefer to monopolize the good looks themselves, and they care little whether a man is handsome or homely, provided he is always well-dressed and looks spick-and-span. What girls fall for are the sophisticated men who know a pleasant evening, who knows where they can go to get something different to eat, or drink, or see.

You may not be able to change the shape of your nose, or the color of your eyes, but you can change the shape of your mind, and the way in which you treat with respect. And that is a sure winner with the unfair sex.

TELL ADOPTED CHILD THE TRUTH

DEAR MISS DIX—Twenty years ago we adopted a baby girl. No more than three people knew it at the time and she had never had the slightest suspicion of it. However, she is about to be married, and the other day she told me that her fiancé had come to her and told her that she was adopted. She is now a very nice girl, but she is very suspicious of me and I was not her father and mother.

Naturally it was a great shock to us all, because the relationship between us and our daughter had always been particularly close and it seemed like a man who had adopted a child and then told her that she was adopted, was a man who had deceived her. She is now a very nice girl, but she is very suspicious of me and I was not her father and mother.

That is why people who adopt children should always tell them before they are adopted. This child grows up with the knowledge that it is adopted and is spared the shock of learning, when it is grown, that the mother and father she looks up to as a man and woman who have reared in an atmosphere of deceit; that he doesn't even know his own name.

Often this revelation almost unsettles the child's reason and makes it forgetful of the benefits it has received from the man and woman who have given it truly a father's and mother's love and saved it from the hard lot of children who are brought up in orphanages. Sometimes it even makes a child turn against its benefactors.

But how can you tell a man or woman on Judgment Day who has to answer for the sin of telling a child that the mother and father it loves is not its own.

show that industrial workers' meals served by a plant-operated cafeteria on a no-profit basis are far better than those served by a profit-making one. The committee might rectify the situation if it's wrong in your plant.

And another thing, for those very necessary between meal snacks, the best and most telling stimulants are milk, fruit juices, and soft drinks (chilled tomato juice) or cocoa—no soft drinks. It is inconceivable that a general demand for milk or fruit juices in place of soft drinks, would be ignored.

Now if your plant isn't one of the ideal ones—and some of them are—you know it's possible to get the sort of meals mother simply didn't know enough to produce; and if yours isn't one of them you'll have to fall back on the lunch box.

Lunch Box Rules

Here are some rules that will make that lunch box meal a proper one.

1. See that it contains these three ingredients—protein, vegetable (not potato) or fruit and milk. Vegetables, fruit and milk won't give you any trouble. And remember that your best source of protein is—meat, fish, eggs, cheese and dried vegetables (like beans).

2. A theme for the week is—fruit or cocoa may just hit the spot. This is purely a matter of taste. The necessity of one hot dish has been shown in recent experiments to be just another superstition. But your war worker likes one it obeys rule two, which is palatability.

Arrange for the lunch box meal to be as fresh as possible. Don't make it up the night before. And do wrap everything carefully in wax paper to prevent drying.

Another tip—be sure your sandwich fillings are moist, but not wet. Avoid soggy sandwiches on the one hand and dry ones on the other. Use whole wheat bread.

GOOD FOR FIGURE AND HEALTH

You're going to do more walking this winter and the wax so on. So why not

A Morning Smile

AND SO IT OUGHT

Did I tell you about the time my pal Sandy McPhairson went up to Aberdeen? He sat in the train for three hours without saying a word. Then the bloke opposite thought he'd start a bit of a conversation, and he said, "A very tiring journey, isn't it?" "Ave, Sandy said, "And so it ought to be for three pounds fifteen and elevenpence."

SAME ONLY DIFFERENT

"Now remember, Pat," said a sergeant to an Irish soldier, "the Password in Saxe—after Marshal Saxe, you know." "Shure," said Pat, "O'll never forget; Wash's mother a miller and my uncle a coalman." Later in the day the Irishman was challenged. "Bags," he replied.

Do Your Manners Pass Date Tests?

TO-NIGHT

She Lets HIM Say "Excuse Me!"

Crude manners can creep up on you unawares. Like germs they can be catching—little habits like leading the way through a movie crowd instead of letting your beau do the leading, murmuring "Excuse me!" to people you pass, when only he should say it. These things are painfully embarrassing to most men. They want their girls perfectly, beautifully, politely.

But, our booklet on etiquette makes it easy to correct crude habits. You don't have to agonize. "Did he notice my faux pas?" In the movie you let your escort step out of the row of seats first, then you precede him up the aisle. Getting out of buses and cars, he gets first to give you a hand.

You, of course, never say "Thank you" to such courtesies, or for dances either. It is taken for granted that YOU are conferring the favor!

Our 32-page booklet has etiquette tips for both girls and men need to know. Tells how to behave on dancing, dining, theatre, motorizing.

Send 20c in coins for your copy of "Etiquette for Young Moderns" to Charlottetown Guardian Home Service Address. Be sure to write your name, address and the name of booklet.
