FRIDAY, JUNE 27, 1900.

JAPAN AND CHINA.

The London Express recently interviewed Mr. Tatsui, an intelligent Japanese official, concerning the trouble in China. This polished Oriental spoke bitterly of the conduct of the European powers at the close of the China-Japan war of six years ago. It had been admitted that Japan had just cause for going to war at that time. Members of the Japanese legation at Peking had been murdered, and other Japanese subjects maltreated, and China refused any redress. When Japan had destroyed the Chinese navy, whipped the Chinese armies and had her enemy quite humbled, Japan demanded the territory she had actually conquered, and that Korea should be made independent. But the European powers would not permit Japan to have her way. This is how Mr. Tatsui puts it:

"All Europe turned upon us like a tiger and called, 'Hands off.' Not one of the objects for which we fought were allowed to have. We yielded and in a little more than six months all our troops were withdrawn from China. Except that we had crippled China's power to injure us, we had gained nothing by the war. For all this we had to thank Europe. And you western wisecracks thought you had done a very clever thing. We had settled the China question for you, and you were to reap the advantages. Russia proceeded to take Port Arthur, which we had conquered. The English took Wei-hai-wei, which we had bombarded, and where the remnant of the Chinese navy surrendered to our admiral. Germany took Kiai Chou, which was rightly ours. Thus practically the whole of the coast around which we had fought fell into European hands. Not a thought was bestowed upon Japan. And you thought it was all settled beautifully."

And the statement thus made cannot be denied. It might be explained, however, that Russia was the principal and first aggressor, and did most to keep Japan out of her rights. Germany took Kiai Chou because Russia got Port Arthur. Britain acquired Wei Hai Wei because of what Russia and Germany had insisted upon. And Japan got nothing but the Island of Formosa and a money indemnity.

Mr. Tatsui thinks the powers are now being fairly punished for their greed and unfairness in snatching from Japan the fruit of her victory in 1895. Japan, he thinks, should have been left a free hand to settle with China in her own way at that time. "It is not the Western way; it is the Eastern," he says. "If we march to Peking we will not leave a living thing for miles on either side of the road. Atrocities must be killed by atrocity. If you object to these things you had better shut your eyes and stop your ears. I tell you, however, that we would settle the question once and for all."

Even now, he says, Japan stands ready to settle the Chinese trouble definitely and alone, provided only that the powers will give a joint guarantee that Japan shall not be robbed of the fruits of victory. Mr. Tatsui has made quite clear the methods that Japan would pursue, and they are not gentle methods. And yet at this distance it would seem that much might be said in favor of playing off the Oriental powers against each other.

Some weeks ago THE GUARDIAN offered a prize of a free trip to Halifax and return for the best article of 2,000 words on "Prince Edward Island as a Summer Resort." A number of papers were sent in for the competition and these were submitted to a prominent and capable citizen who decided upon their relative merits

WHEN IT HURTS TO COUGH

The cough that hurts, the cough that gets tight in the chest, is daily getting deeper and deeper into the bronchial tubes and is making directly for the lungs, to become pneumonia, inflammation of the lungs or consumption. Such coughs yield only to the wonderful efficiency of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine which loosens the tightness and cures cough and cold together. 25 cents a bottle. Family size 60 cents, sold everywhere.

Your kind attention to that little account will be considered a great favor by Moore & McLeod.

without having access to the names of the writers. The first place in the order of merit, with the prize was awarded to the paper by Inspector McCormac, which we publish in another column this morning. The second paper, very close to the first in order of merit, and much more fanciful and imaginative, is from the pen of Miss E. W. McMurray, teacher in Prince Street School. This will also be published in THE GUARDIAN at a future date. The two papers are singularly unlike each other in style and in their methods of treating the subject, but both are of interest and value.

A FAILURE OF JUSTICE.

The facts disclosed in another column in regard to prosecutions under the Liquor Regulation Act in this city are of a most unpleasant nature. The law has been flagrantly violated and the Prosecutor, instead of bringing to justice the person whom he had first charged and no doubt believed to be the principal offender, apparently connived at the substitution of the bar-tender in place of the proprietor, thus defeating the law and saving the proprietor's license from forfeiture.

The Prosecutor is not an officer of the Court but of the Government, and the Government is responsible for his official actions and neglects. The duty of the Government is clear to promptly investigate this matter, to see that the Prosecutor performs his duty, or, failing that, to promptly remove him from office and appoint another who will enforce the law. The Government has claimed credit for the enactment of a prohibitory law to come into force next year, with a promise that it shall be strictly enforced. If in the meantime plain provisions of the Liquor Regulation Act are permitted to be violated with impunity, as they have been by more than one of the licensees, what confidence can people have that any honest effort will be made by the Government to enforce the Prohibitory Law?

Eczema in Its Worst Form.

Back Covered With Blisters—Terrible Itching—No Sleep Possible—Dr. Chase's Ointment Simply Marvellous in Its Curative Powers.

Mr. John Kelly, 75 Trinity street, Toronto, in an interview made the following verbatim statement:—"I have been troubled with eczema in almost its worst form for the past three years. At times my back and shoulder blades were literally covered with patches like water blisters, and these, accompanied with terrible itching on my legs, put sleep out of the question. I tried various well-known ointments (names mentioned), and did everything possible to obtain relief, but with little success. I had frequently heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment, but meeting with so many disappointments, I had not tried it. Seeing the advertisement one day I concluded to get a box. Since using Dr. Chase's Ointment, I am like a new being. Its soothing and healing properties are simply marvellous, and I am honestly grateful to Dr. Chase's Ointment for the release from long suffering."

Dr. Chase's Ointment, a positive cure for all itching skin diseases, 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates and Co., Toronto.

High Class Grocers.

The death was recently announced of Dr. Frederick Humphreys, the widely known Homeopathist, physician, and writer, who was also the manufacturer of the proprietary medicines known as Humphrey's Specifics. Dr. Humphrey was born and died in New York state, and attained the ripe age of 85 years. He made considerable contributions to medical science during his long and successful career. The New York Tribune gives a lengthy editorial review of his life work. He was trained to the ministry of the Methodist church and for five years, 1840 to 1845 held successive pastorates. He remained to the last deeply interested in religious work and contributed liberally toward its support.

Supreme Court.

THURSDAY July 26

The Chief Justice this morning gave judgment in the following suits tried in Summerside last June term and in which judgement was reserved.

R. T. Holman vs Rubeen Roblee—action on promissory note. Defence being that the note was signed "Reuben Roblee & Co." by one Thos. Roblee acting under a power of attorney from Reuben Roblee. The court held defence good, and plaintiff was nonsuited.

J. E. Wyatt appeared for the defendant, Roblee.
W. A. Brennan vs. Pascal Herbert. Judgment for the plaintiff for $73.70.
Eugene G. Craswell vs. Collins Craswell Judgment for plaintiff for $107.38.

Lieut. Borden's Insurance.

The late Lieut. Borden, killed in South Africa, had $8,000 insurance in the Standard and $2,000 in the New York Life. The day before he left Halifax he had this $10,000 placed as above.

Cromwell's Baby Clothes.

LONDON, July 25.—A lock of Grace Darling's hair sold here at auction this week for $9. Cromwell's baby clothes, including a cap embroidered with the words "Sweet baby, don't cry," dated the year of his birth, brought $5.
