Restoring The Elk to Canada

OTTAWA, CAN., Dec. 4.—With the establishment of a small herd of twenty-five wapiti (commonly known as elk) from Buffalo National Park, Alberta, in the Pembroke Crown Game Preserve near Petawawa, Ontario, attention is directed to another interesting experiment in preserving our big game. Canada's efforts to restore the elk to their former numbers as one of the principal big game animals of the Dominion is another important chapter in the history of wild life conservation. The saving of the buffalo from extinction, the protection and propagation of the antelope, and the sanctuary given other species of our native wild life by the establishment of national parks and other game reserves is preserving for future generations the wild life resources of this country.

The Department of the Interior's success with the elk is a repetition of its achievements in other lines of wild life conservation. The twenty-five animals—five males and twenty females placed in the Ontario Government's preserve near Petawawa were drawn from a herd of over 900 in Buffalo National Park, Alberta, administered by the National Parks of Canada, Department of the Interior. The nucleus of that herd was a band of about half a dozen which, with a few deer and moose, were found enclosed in the park after the erection of the many miles of fence required to enclose the area in preparation for the reception of Michel Pablo herd of buffalo. The following year seven more elk were added to the small band, which in the meantime had shown a natural increase of four.

In their new surroundings at Wainwright, aided by the protection which is given all wild life in these national reserves, the elk increased in a gratifying manner. By 1918 there were over 100 head in the park, while five years later this number had risen to almost 200. Buffalo park now contains a herd of elk numbering over 900, in addition to over 6,000 buffalo, 2,500 mule deer, and numerous other species of mammalian wild life.

A small outlet for surplus stock provided by the loan or gift to conservation societies or governments of one or more individuals of these species, contingent upon suitable areas for their introduction having been secured. The Pembroke Reserve, located in the county of Renfrew, Ontario, was created by the Government of Ontario as a bird, fish and game sanctuary and contains an area of about 300 acres completely surrounded by a strong wire fence.

The wapiti or elk was once the most widely distributed of the deer family in North America but in common with many other species of big game it has suffered the inevitable result of territorial development and improvident killing. Thousands of these handsome animals were slain merely for the sake of their teeth, which were used for purposes of adornment. The range of the elk at one time occupied the greater part of the central region of the North American continent, including the southern parts of Ontario and Quebec, but today only scattered herds exist outside the national parks of Canada and the United States.

BEDEQUE

Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Morris and daughter, Miss Katherine of Kinross, have been spending a delightful holiday with relatives and friends, in Souris West.

Mr. Ed. Paynter of Lower Bedeque, recently purchased a valuable property at Gamble's Corner, Tryon, and is busy moving his implements, crop, cattle and machinery, and household effects.

The sympathy of the entire community is extended to Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Johnstone, (nee Miss Maria Stavert, R. N., of North Bedeque) of Long River, in the passing of their beloved infant twin daughters, Marial and Myrtle.

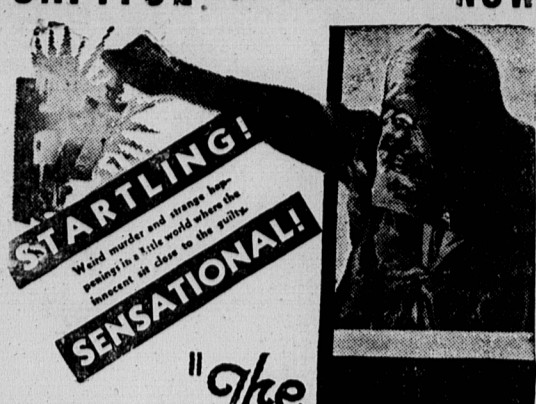

The many friends of Mr. Russell Craig of Chelton are pleased to hear he is able to return to his home from the P. E. Island Hospital.

Miss Hilda Hammill and Mr. Bert Hammill of Central Bedeque, spent the week-end with relatives in Tignish and St. Louis.

A number of folks have made their usual fall trip to Rustico, for a supply of cod and mackerel, the latter which is very scarce all along the North Shore. The fishermen do

Mrs. David Pearson of Chelton who underwent a very serious but successful operation is now on the road to ultimate recovery.

A variety concert was presented in the hall at Central Bedeque, last Tuesday evening, by the Women's Institute of Central Bedeque. Mr. Theophilus Inman, capably discharged the duties of chairman, he also spoke of the splendid work of this Society in carrying on. The following is the programme: "The Fairy Rose Operetta," by a number of the school children, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas Moyses, (encore); A pantomime "Over," nicely rendered by Mrs. Charlie Green and Mr. Frederick Moyses, (encore); A pantomime "Cinderella," was given in three scenes by a number of young ladies; Instrumental selections were rendered by Mr. Johnny MacKenna; a flag drill was given by several school children. Instrumental selections by Mr. Frank Kohaut, (encore). A playette "Who Kissed Barbara," was admirably carried out by Miss Doris Muncey, Miss Florrie Green, and Messrs. Fred Moyses, Harold Bagnall and Jack Green; Little Miss Margaret Arsenault, favored the audience with a splendid exhibition of step-dancing (encore). The "Camp Fire Scenes," were given by nine young men, brought to a conclusion a very interesting programme. The efficient pianists, for the program were Mrs. Earl Leard, Miss Ruth MacKenna and Miss Eileen Dawson. All joined in singing "God Save the King," which brought to a close a well prepared entertainment. The leaders must have given freely of their skill and time, in practicing this concert. The large hall was filled to capacity, with people from the surrounding districts, and a number from Summerside. A sale of home-made candy took place during the intermission. This concert proved very successful, socially and financially.

The many friends of Mrs. John Burrows of Wilmot Valley, who underwent an operation in the Prince County Hospital last week, will be pleased to hear that she is steadily re-gaining strength.—B.

Eskimos Are Not Primitive People

TORONTO, Dec. 4.—"Eskimos are not refrigerated, blubber-saturated savages, but happy, intelligent and hospitable people, the finest, most generous and most likeable people of all uncultured races," according to Richard Finnie, of Ottawa, who accompanied T. L. Burwash on his Franklin expedition to King William Island.

"The Arctic climate," Mr. Finnie said in an address here last night, "is by no means unbearable. The summers are short, but warm and pleasant. The winters are cold, but I have suffered far more with cold in civilization, wearing its 'ridiculously inadequate clothing."

"The tourist has begun to discover the Mackenzie River," Mr. Finnie said. "There are 2,000 miles of magnificent waterway through absolutely unspoiled country, to be travelled in comfort by aeroplane, steamboat or canoe.

"The aeroplane has changed the whole situation in the Arctic. It is possible that across the fringes of the polar ocean, towns and cities may grow up in the course of the next four generations, the nucleus of a new empire."

Mr. Finnie is official archivist and photographer of the Canadian Arctic under the Department of Interior, Ottawa, and is a son of O. S. Finnie, former director of the Canadian Northwest Territories branch.

Japanese Naval Plan Disclosed

GENEVA, Switzerland, Dec. 4.—Japan's naval disarmament plan, soon to be submitted to the Disarmament Conference, proposes abolition of aircraft carriers, reduction of capital ships to 25,000 tons and of their gun calibre to 14 inches, and retention of submarines.

Vice-Admiral Osami Nagano disclosed these provisions today. He added that reduction in the size of cruisers and destroyers also is advocated but he would give no details. Japan also will propose prohibition of decks and platforms on capital ships from which aircraft might take off.

"Our plan," he said, "aims to fulfill the principle, to which the Disarmament Conference is committed, of increasing defensive arms and reducing offensive power. But we must consider the geographical situation of each country.

"We think the submarine is a defensive weapon and therefore we oppose scrapping it, but we suggest reduction in its size. We do consider the aircraft carrier offensive, and after abolishing that weapon, we suggest it be made impossible for other ships to be used for the same purpose."

VALLEY OF THE ILLECILLEWEAT

The little town of Glacier, British Columbia, is the headquarters of Glacier National Park. Situated in the green valley of the Illecilleweat—which derives its musical name from the Indian word meaning "swift water"—it has a magnificent setting of forest and park. Predominant among the mountains, is Sir Donald, which rises to a height of 10,808 feet.

Louisa M. Alcott Is Paid Tribute

CONCORD, Mass., Dec. 4.—An old-fashioned brown-stained house beside a modern highway in the outskirts of historic Concord was a gathering place today of childhood memories. Here, to Orchard House, from whose doors Meg and Jo and Beth and Amy trooped from the mind of their creator, Louisa May Alcott, 64 years ago, came a pilgrimage of men and women and children to pay tribute to the author of "Little Women" on the centenary of her birth.

One hundred years ago today Louisa Alcott was born in Germantown, Pa. Little of her life was spent there, however. Her father, Bronson Alcott, impractical dreamer and visionary, brought his family to New England soon after Louisa's birth and thereafter much of her life was spent in Boston and Concord.

It was in the house here—bought with a legacy received by Mrs. Alcott—that Louisa May found the means, with her pen, to provide a livelihood for the family. Here, at the behest of the publishers for whom she had been turning out none-too-popular stories, she sat down, not over-enthusiastically, to write a book for girls.

It was "Little Women." Since that day millions in every civilized country have read the book and are reading it today. No one knows how many copies have been sold—more than a million and a half in this country. The copyright has expired, but it is still printed.

Bulbs for Winter

STEADY SUPPLY OF FRESH FLOWERS IS POSSIBLE

A steady supply of fresh flowers all through the winter is possible in any part of Canada. Moreover to do this does not entail any great expense or mean much labor. All that is necessary is a supply of good sized Dutch bulbs—hyacinths, narcissus, tulips, daffodils and similar things—a little fibre or potting soil, some pots and a cool, dark cellar. This kind of gardening is probably the most satisfactory of any because results are sure and quick and flowers are produced at a time when they are most appreciated.

Almost invariably any trouble in growing bulbs indoors traces to a poor start. It is essential that the pots be placed in a cool dark place until the roots develop. Unless the temperature of this is down around 50 degrees, and lower is still better, the bulbs send out the upper flower bearing stalks too soon, with the result that the bloom is stunted or else the whole plant goes to leaves. Under natural conditions bulbs would be planted outside in the fall. Here the temperature runs down to at least freezing, and a layer of soil and snow keeps the bulb in perpetual darkness. Even when the stem comes through the soil in the spring the nights are often the days, too, are quite cold.

Large sized, fresh stock, from a reliable seed house is also most important. There is not a great deal of growth to bulbs. The flowers are already packed inside when planted. Because of this it is most important to get good stock at one has little opportunity to coax them along.

While bulbs may be planted in soil, sand, pebbles and some of them

Life Insurance Service

One of a series of messages sponsored by Life Insurance Companies

In ordinary water, the cleanest and easiest way is in fibre. This material which may be bought at any seed store is inexpensive, and may be used over and over. It requires no draining so may be used in fancy bowls, and other water tight receptacles. A good plan is to plant in fibre in old tins, or cheap granite bowls and store away in a dark corner in the fruit cellar or garage. Then before bringing out into full light to flower, turn out of the tin and transfer to a fancy bowl. In this way the latter may be used continuously.

STANCHEL AND VICINITY

Mr. J. R. White is remodeling his commodious dwelling.

His many friends will be pleased to learn that Capt. McLean has returned home after being eight weeks in the P. E. I. Hospital.

Mr. Malcolm McDonald, Springfield, was a recent visitor to Cra-paud.

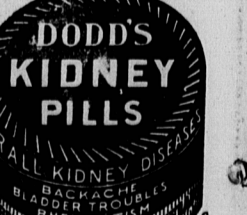

Miss Verna Frizzell, teacher of Springfield School, spent the week end at her home in Stanchel.

Mr. George Dixon has installed a water system in his home.

Her friends are glad to see Mrs. Malcolm Nicholson around again after a severe cold.

Congratulations to Mr. Douglas Todd on being the lucky winner of a large fruit cake lotteried by the Women's Institute at Rose Valley.

The Rose Valley Women's Institute held a very successful concert recently.
