

THE CHARLOTTETOWN GUARDIAN

TUESDAY MORNING, MAY 26 1908.

THAT WHICH WE HAVE.

The great dramatist took note of a common mistake in life when he wrote, "That which we have we prize not to the worth." Especially is this true with regard to many of our young people, in regard to their Island home and the circumstances that surround them here.

The Canadian Northwest has attracted many from their homes in the Eastern Provinces, and of them this may be said that if our young people cannot content themselves at home and must go abroad it is better to go to the western Provinces and remain under the flag and institutions of Canada than to migrate to a foreign land.

It would be well to give consideration to these words. No one who knows Professor Robertson—and who does not?—will doubt either his knowledge of the facts or his candor in making the statement. Our Province has many advantages that our people do not prize to their worth.

work, so few tramps or fewer annoyances of any kind. It is well, once in a while to take stock of the many good things we have which others have not, and by so doing we may the better "prize them at their worth."

VICTORIA DAY.

The observance of Victoria Day as the birthday of a Sovereign, years after she had passed from life's activities, is in several respects unique and remarkable. In the ordinary course of things for many hundreds of years in many countries the anniversary of the Sovereign's birth has been observed as a public holiday, but only during the lifetime of such Sovereigns.

This posthumous honor is, as we have said unique in kind, and furnishes a noble example of great nation's tribute to one who was both wise and good. She was revered and honored during life not only by her subjects, but by all who heard her name.

Her court was pure; her life serene; God gave her peace, her land reposed; A thousand claims to reverence closed

In her as Mother, Wife and Queen. Who can doubt that the light of her pure life was of incalculable benefit to her people, to the myriad homes in her broad dominions not only while she lived, but that it is still bearing fruit, now that she is numbered with the dead? Who can

HAD A STAB-LIKE PAIN THROUGH THE HEART.

MILBURN'S HEART AND NERVE PILLS CURED HER AND SAVED HER LIFE.

There is no one, we imagine, sets about deliberately to do injury to the heart, yet in the excitement and excesses of present-day living, the nervous system is done violence to, and the heart and nerves being so intimately bound up with one another, disorganization of the one means disease and disorder of the other.

When you find your heart the least bit out of rhythm, your nerves unstrung, don't wait until you are prostrated on a bed of sickness. Take Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. They'll put you in such condition you'll never know you have a heart, make your brain clear and active, your nerves strong, your blood rich and pure, and your whole being thrill with a new life.

Mrs. John C. Yenson, Little Rocker, N.B., writes: "I was troubled with a stab-like pain through my heart. I tried many remedies but they seemed to do me more harm than good. I was advised by a friend to try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, and after using two boxes I was completely cured. I cannot praise them enough for the work of good they did me for I believe they saved my life."

doubt that our good and wise King is wiser, better, and more beloved by his people because of his noble parentage, and the wise precepts and lofty example of both his father and his mother? As a good son he honors their memory and is following in their footsteps. And it is a noble tribute that he pays, well-approved by all his people, in giving royal honors to his dead Mother on each anniversary of her birth. This example of filial reverence adds lustre to his kingly crown and exalted station.

Surely we have cause for thankfulness throughout the British Empire not only for the loving and beneficent reign of the good Queen Victoria and the great example she set before her children and her people but that she is succeeded by a King who follows in her footsteps, ruling so diligently and so wisely and who like her has wrought his people lasting good. Happy in their rulers is the people among whom Edward the Peacemaker has succeeded to Victoria the Good.

Canada is feeling the prevalent trade decline much less than the United States, and in no part of Canada is trade relatively better than in the Maritime Provinces.

Mr. Aylesworth has a bill to make it a criminal offence with heavy penalties to sell cigarettes to boys under sixteen years of age. And he proposes to find the boys who buy cigarettes also.

Mr. Hughes M. P. who recently arrived from Ottawa says the construction of the Elmira branch railway, twelve miles, and the connection between Montague and the Murray Harbor road is assured and that tenders for these works will be called for as soon as the supplementary estimates are passed. This is good news.

It not infrequently happens, that persons who patronize the foreign mail order houses will call upon a city merchant for a subscription to some local charitable object. In a case of this kind the merchant declined to give, simply observing that the application should be made to the foreign mail order house requesting, say, fifty dollars for the object in question. Thus the applicant got a wholesome lesson, but no money. The mail order houses in Toronto and other outside cities are about as chary of giving to our local charities as they are of paying taxes.

Moving pictures of the latter class have an assured place among the popular entertainments of the time. They may be instructive, or of historic, or artistic, or of broadly humanitarian interest. Many such have been presented from time to time at Wonderland in this city. We commend the good judgment of the manager of this popular resort in reverting to the original plan of giving wholesome pictures of an interesting and elevating class, to the exclusion of the vaudeville features which have not always met with the approval of judicious persons. A manager can usually feel more certainty as to what he is getting in pictures than in vaudeville.

A country patron of one of the foreign mail order houses came to the city the other day and calling at one of the stores for a needed article, declined to purchase, affirming that the same article could be obtained for a less price from a foreign mail order house which was named. Later the same person came to the merchant with a choice article of farm produce and offered it for sale at a good round price. The merchant declined to buy, as he could get an equally good article at considerably less price by sending abroad. This led to a brief discussion about sending abroad for things, and gave new light on the subject to the party of the first part who said, "I never saw it in that light before, and in future I will make my purchases right here." It is a poor rule that will not work both ways.

Mr. Justice Longley, of Nova Scotia, has been indiscreet. Recently when speaking before the Canadian Club at a banquet in New York he let fall some words which were eagerly seized upon by the reporters, and when published read as if the eloquent speaker foreshadowed the possible independence of Canada if occasion should make it inevitable. In Great Britain the Press commented freely upon the matter—the general opinion expressed being in effect that Judge Longley should have had more judgment—while the leading English journals dismiss the matter by saying the eminent speaker deserves no attention. Probably Mr. Justice Longley, who used to be in the vogue as a thinker, has been giving utterance to his thoughts, stimulated and perhaps infected by the spreadeagledism of the time and place. It is not likely that his remarks will have any more weight than mere idle words.
