King Government's Neglect Of Agricultural Interests Exposed By Hon. Mr. Weir

Liberal Incompetency In Face Of Rising Tariff Barriers Against Canadian Agricultural Products Contrasted With Aggressive Policy Of Bennett Administration. Minister Of Agriculture Cites Facts And Figures In Masterly Speech On New Empire Preferences.

A striking contrast between the policies of the King and Bennett Governments as affecting our agricultural trade was shown in Parliament on Oct. 24 by Hon. Robert Weir, Minister of Agriculture. Mr. Weir said in part:

After listening not only to this debate but to the debate on the address in reply to the speech from the throne I have come to the conclusion that it is eminently fair to say that there is one thought which runs through the speeches of hon. gentlemen opposite, delivered both in and out of this house and appearing in the press, and that is that attempts have been made to obtain wider markets by the reduction of tariffs. This has been their refrain, both in and out of session. No definite, specific example has been given as to how this will be brought about; just general statements have been made. The climax of all these speeches was, I think, reached in the remarks of the leader of the opposition when on Monday last he took part in this debate. He worked very cleverly up to this climax; his words were well chosen; he was the actor who was trying to impress not only the members of the house, but also and perhaps more particularly the people in the country, and his climax was reached with almost a look of anguish on his face as he uttered these words: "I feel the dark shadows of the closing gates." The leader of the opposition did not tell us where those gates were situated, but I think, in observing the look of anguish on his face, he was perhaps referring to the dark shadows of those closing gates placed at the exit of the valley of the shadows of humiliation, and he was on the wrong side. If, however, he had reference to the gates of commerce, I am free to admit, as I am sure the majority of the people of this country must admit that, no other member of the house can speak with greater authority on the question of the closing of the gates of commerce, because more was done to close the gates of commerce against agricultural exports from this country during the tenure of office of hon. gentlemen opposite than in any other similar period in the history of this dominion.

While this was going on—and I shall go into this in more detail as regards other countries—why did hon. gentlemen opposite, by a lowering of tariffs, not prevent these gates from being closed? We all agree that it seems easier to do some things before they are done than to cure them after they have been done. It is no wonder there was the feeling of the dark shadows of closing gates. The result of the tariff that was thus put up against our agricultural products entering the United States was this: during the tenure of office of hon. gentlemen opposite the export of cattle from Canada to the United States decreased, due to tariffs being placed against our cattle or, in other words, due to a closing of the gates of commerce, from 250,536 head to 54,716 head. In connection with eggs there was a similar situation. During their tenure of office the exports of eggs from this country to the United States, after the United States tariff had been raised against our agricultural products, decreased from 61,051,000 dozen to 1,489,000 dozen.

OTHER COUNTRIES

A similar situation existed with regard to other countries. Time does not permit our dealing with each agricultural product, but I shall take some of the outstanding ones, especially those with which we have dealt in the trade agreement with the United Kingdom, because it was necessary, those products having been shut out of certain markets before we came into power, for us to make a special effort to secure a wider market somewhere else.

In France, during the tenure of office of hon. gentlemen opposite the tariff on cheese was raised to $3.56 per hundred pounds and our exports decreased from a very considerable trade to absolutely no shipment at all. This was a case where the gates were absolutely closed in one country against our agricultural products. The French tariff against our condensed milk was raised to $2.15 per 100 pounds and our exports again decreased from a very considerable trade to nothing whatever. This is another case during the tenure of office of hon. gentlemen opposite who preached so much about getting wider markets by the reduction of tariffs but who sat in their places doing absolutely nothing while these markets were completely shut against us and the gates closed.

GERMAN MENACES

In Germany their tariff against wheat was increased to 78 cents a bushel and on fresh apples to $2.50 per barrel. The result was that our export of fresh apples to Germany was reduced 3200 per cent, or from 32,769 barrels to less than 1,000 barrels. Here again the gate was almost completely closed against this agricultural commodity. The German tariff was raised against our cattle to $2.90 per 100 pounds, the result being that our export decreased from a considerable shipment to none at all after this tariff had been imposed. The German tariff against our oats was increased to $1.30 per 100 pounds during the tenure of office of hon. gentlemen opposite the result being our export of oats dropped from more than 6,000,000 bushels to 74,000 bushels, or to practically a closed market. The tariff in Germany on our honey was raised to $7 per 100 pounds and the decline in exports was from 461,028 pounds to 160,696 pounds.

In Italy, during the tenure of office of hon. gentlemen now in opposition the duty on wheat was raised to 80½ cents per bushel, the result being that our exports decreased from 12,155,688 bushels to 5,837,918 bushels, a decrease of 200 per cent or more.

1,500 Per Cent Decrease

In Belgium the duty against our cheese was raised to 91 cents per 100 pounds, and our exports decreased from more than 24,000 hundredweight to a little better than 1,000 hundredweight, or decline of 1,500 per cent. As regards condensed milk their tariff was increased to $1.26 per hundredweight, and our exports decreased from 2,685 hundredweight to nothing, another gate which was completely closed during the tenure of office of hon. gentlemen opposite. Yet, although they sat still doing nothing during that time, we hear them crying now that they want us to get wider markets by a reduction of tariffs. They had their opportunity.

In Czechoslovakia the duty on wheat flour was raised to $3.90 per barrel and our exports decreased by 250 per cent or more.

STRIKING CONTRAST

This is the picture, in the shortest form that I can put it before the house, of the markets as this government found them when it came into power. A promise that we made during the election, and that has been well kept, was that we would give the markets of Canada to the farmers of Canada. What has taken place in connection with the market in Canada for our agricultural products as a result of a tariff that was placed against other countries shipping their products into Canada, especially countries that had put a prohibitive tariff against our agricultural products? This is the result, as shown in a table of car arrivals of seven commodities on twelve principal markets of Canada. These commodities are apples, celery, grapes, lettuce, onions, pears and plums, and the increased number of domestic carloads of these products sold in Canada was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Commodity and Quantity. Apples 444, Celery 45, Grapes 278, Lettuce 12, Onions 263, Pears 7, Plums 3.

The decrease in the number of carloads imported in the same year of these same commodities was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Commodity and Quantity. Apples 40, Celery 405, Grapes 515, Lettuce 442, Onions 294, Pears 100, Plums 38.

That is the first outstanding instance of this government's attempt to do something in respect to these particular commodities. We attempted to widen the market for our agricultural products. We started in where we had power to do something, and that was in the markets of our own country.

Not only that, but we find our exports to foreign countries increasing very much in spite of the handicap that we had to work against by foreign markets being shut against our products. I will name some of the most important products in which we have increased our exports:

EXPORTS INCREASED

Table with 3 columns: Commodity, 1929-30, 1931-32. Canned fruits 4,254,466 to 7,263,489, Onions 26,466 to 195,813, Canned vegetables 17,249,042 to 22,477,523, Barley 14,817,071 to 24,337,678, Buckwheat 186,558 to 741,041, Oats 6,406,181 to 13,841,300, Peas 43,808 to 66,056, Rye 1,526,368 to 4,359,813, Wheat 177,006,369 to 191,315,933, Bran, shorts and middlings 1,988,356 to 2,018,332, Oatmeal and rolled oats 407,050 to 798,840, Maple sugar to United Kingdom 13,212 to 29,284, Clover seed to United Kingdom 41,794 to 97,146, Flax seed 772,831 to 1,046,474, Tobacco leaf 6,811,391 to 8,222,922.

That was the second step. We did increase our exports to foreign countries, and in that way also we widened our markets.

ANOTHER INSTANCE

But further, hon. gentlemen opposite, and no one will say that they are prepossessed in our favour, in various speeches in this debate have blamed the right hon. leader of this government for having, when in the United Kingdom in 1930, by some magical power that hon. gentlemen opposite think the Prime Minister possesses, forced the fiscal policy of this country on the United Kingdom;

at least, they claim that that was the reason for the increases made in the United Kingdom tariff against farm and other products. If that be true, we are quite willing to admit it because of the results, and this is the third instance in which we have widened our markets for agricultural products. Here are figures comparing our exports to Great Britain before and after the Import Duties Act was passed by the United Kingdom, for the five months ending August, 1931, as compared with the same five months ending August, 1932. The figures speak for themselves:

EXPORTS TO GREAT BRITAIN

Table with 3 columns: Commodity, August 1931, August 1932. Agricultural and Vegetable Food Products—1931 1932, Fruit juices and syrups 118,839 to 204,367, Bran, shorts and middlings Cwt. 8,337 to 456,743, Flour of wheat Bbl. 851,485 to 960,627, Tobacco, unmanufactured Lbs. 1,404,558 to 3,708,562, Animal and animal products—Cattle, one year old Head 12,413 to 15,048, Poultry, dressed Lbs. 46,322 to 216,132, Bacon, hams, shoulders and sides Cwt. 21,015 to 163,437, Cheese Cwt. 282,051 to 379,623, Fibres and textiles—Socks and stockings, all kinds Doz. pairs 1,426 to 8,536, Raw wool Lbs. 455,714 to 1,002,169, Wood, wood products and paper—Wood, unmanufactured $2,151,401 to $2,405,937, Planks and boards M. ft. 52,509 to 94,443, Wood pulp Cwt. $1,512,707 to $1,886,154, Paperboard, n.o.p. $340,168 to $697,264, $182,429 to $324,816.

I have a longer list here, but I think I have read sufficient to prove my point. That is the third instance in which this government has got wider markets as a result, as admitted by hon. gentlemen opposite, of the attitude taken and the speeches delivered by the leader of the present government when in the United Kingdom in 1930. (The remainder of Hon. Mr. Weir's address was taken up with discussion of the advantages of the preferences to Canadian wheat and bacon producers of the Imperial Conference agreements.

LITTLE THINGS TO FIGHT

Dr. Lionel Stenqvist, Provincial Zoologist for Ontario, in a recent review of work being done in connection with the control of internal parasites of animals stated that those which give principal cause for concern in the livestock industry are comparatively few. Of these he named six principal internal parasites in sheep, two in swine, two in cattle, three in horses, two in poultry, and five in fur-bearing animals. In the case of most of these parasites it is possible to check their ravages by simple control measures.—Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.
