—SUCCESSIONAL PICNIC—The Holman Fellowship Club picnic, held Wednesday afternoon at St. Peter's Shore, Bedeque, was the most successful and entertaining affair of the kind held in the province. More than sixteen motor cars and trucks transported the 125 employees to the grounds and the procession which was headed by the big Rinkophone, mounted on a five ton truck, and the Holman's Jazz and Chown band, was one of the big success stories of the day. At the grounds a very complete program of sports was carried out, full particulars of which will be published in an early issue.

—BAD ROADS—Motorists and horsemen are wondering whether the road work at the eastern end of the town is under the watchful care of the town fathers or the provincial department of public works. The road has a good stone foundation but is as full of holes as a sieve; in fact the motorists say it is the acid test for a car to go over that road without damaging the springs. The road has been in that condition since the spring and it is high time that something was done to better conditions.

CANADIAN LITERATURE

The New York World Expresses the American View.
Canadian literature and writers and their relations or lack of relation to Canadian life have been discussed recently by the New York World.
Canadian literary handicap, it says, has been that she has been unable to keep her authors at home. Compared with the English-reading public that beckoned from across the line to the south or from the Motherland, the home population could offer slight encouragement to budding geniuses.
Canadian loss has been American and British gain. In more than one American city there is a Canadian literary colony and Canadian names dot the tables of contents of American periodicals and the lists of American book publishers. Harvey O'Higgins, George Pattulo, Arthur Stringer, Robert Service, and scores of other current popular American writers are Canadian born and bred.

THREE CENTS A DRINK IN 1837

Long after the last cellar has gone dry and the last drop of whiskey has been consumed there will remain a bottle of liquor that, according to tradition, is entombed in the corner-stone of the Universalist church at Montserrat, P. E. I.
William Swaim, seventy-two, a local historian and former school-master of Montserrat, is authority for the tradition that a quart of liquor is concealed within the corner-stone of the church, which was built in 1837. "In those days liquor was a respectable water," says Swaim. Preachers drank just as other folk did. It was customary to place liquor in a corner-stone for the same reason that folks drank each other's health in liquor." Across the road from the church is a tavern that was a stop-over for the farmers' hauling their produce to the city. "Whiskey sold there for 3 cents a drink," Swaim recalls.—Detroit Journal.

PERSISTENT MILK FLOW.

How rapidly will the milk production decline month by month, assuming the cow is milked ten months and calves at the end of twelve months? The important relation of the manner of feeding should be emphasized first of all. Too often a cow said to lack persistency in milking is really doing all she should. She can not be expected to manufacture milk without a sufficient amount of raw material in the form of feed. The heavy milking cow only too often is underfed when fresh because nature, to make sure the calf will not suffer, has arranged so the fresh cow will continue to give milk freely for some time even if there are deficiencies in the feed, making up the deficiency from her body, says Hoard's Dairyman.

The normal rate of decline in milk during the lactation period then can be observed only when the cow concerned has at all times sufficient feed to supply the nutrients for the milk she is producing. The figures given are compiled from the records of a group of high class cows. These animals had sufficient feed at all times were milked twice daily and dried up after ten to eleven months preparatory to freshening again in about twelve months. With the cows of this class the highest milk yield comes as a rule between the tenth and the thirtieth day, more often may be expressed by 100 per cent. The yield during the second month should be practically the same, declining from that point as follows: 3rd month, 95 per cent; 4th month, 90 per cent; 5th month, 85 per cent; 6th month, 80 per cent; 7th month, 75 per cent; 8th month, 70 per cent; 9th month, 65 per cent; 10th month, 60 per cent. It will be noted that the decline is not regular, being more rapid near the end of the lactation period. If the cow is bred to freshen again in eighteen months in place of twelve, the decline in milk yield will be gradual and almost regular throughout.
