IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Wilhelmina (Auburn) who passed away September 24th, 1948.

Sweet are the memories that linger. Dear are the ones that are gone. In memory we'll hold you dear sister. As long as the years roll along.

Lovingly Remembered by Anna and Mary.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of THOMAS STEWART Kensington who passed away September 25th, 1948.

Inserted by Wife and Son.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear husband and father, John A. Chandler, who departed this life September 27th, 1948.

The rolling stream of life goes on. But still the empty chair. Reminds us of the face. Of one who once sat there.

God saw the road was getting rough. And the hills were hard to climb. So he closed his weary eyelids. And whispered peace be thine.

So calm and peaceful he is sleeping. Sweetest rest that follows pain. We who loved him sadly miss him. But trust in God to meet again.

Lovingly Remembered by Wife and Family.

SPECIAL CASH and CARRY STORES 187 St. George St. Phone 747 We Deliver C.O.D. Canadian Gamblers

TORONTO, Sept. 26 - Canadians, betting an estimated $10,000,000 on various rackets annually, are North America's biggest gamblers - spending twice as much money per capita on gambling as do Americans, according to a copyrighted article in Coronet. If gambling were considered an industry, the article says, it would be listed in Canada's statistics just below gold mining and considerably above shipbuilding, fisheries and machinery. A cross-country survey of gambling in Canada, made in co-operation with police and anti-vice investigators showed the following: In Toronto, despite police action which brought about the conviction of 800 persons on gambling charges in the past year, an estimated 1,000 active bookmakers continue to operate one of the largest betting centers on the continent. On one street alone, there are approximately three bookmakers to every block. In Montreal, one investigator describes gambling as "the city's biggest single industry." A recent court conviction of one of Montreal's leading gamblers disclosed that he had an annual turnover from three betting parlors of $2,500,000. In one two-month period, he cleared $100,000 from baseball and horse-racing bets. The convicted bookmaker was only one member of the city's gambling fraternity, which was described as controlled by a five-man syndicate employing 12,000 people. Driven underground for a time by the raids, Montreal gamblers are again coming out of hiding. In the Windsor area, gambling is centered in the suburbs out of jurisdiction of city police. These suburban establishments also serve as the "back end" or "bookkeeping" quarters for Detroit bookmakers, effectively out of reach of Detroit's anti-gambling squad. Ontario provincial police are now investigating a tip-off from Detroit authorities that some 20 Windsor district hide-outs are co-ordinating the operations, via telephone and messenger, of American gambling rings. In the Maritimes, the R.C.M.P. has information that no fewer than ten gambling syndicates were operating last year in the province. In a recent series of 32 raids, at Halifax, Sydney, North Sydney and Amherst, $125,000 of lottery tickets were seized. Each of the syndicates was running a different type of lottery, mostly based on the outcome of baseball and hockey games. Describing the racket as flourishing for years, the R.C.M.P. disclosed that a group in Halifax had a turnover of 30,000 tickets a week, with "chances" being sold in stores and barber shops all over the town. In Vancouver, recent police raids revealed the West Coast city as headquarters of at least one Canada-wide lottery chain. The police disclosure recalled a Police Commission inquiry of two years ago which obtained evidence that at least 1,500 illegal establishments were operating then in Vancouver; one self-confessed operator testified he had a turnover of $15,000 to $20,000 in an average night. Although police across Canada attempt to bring gambling under control, the magazine describes how, by various methods, the gambling syndicates "go underground" to protect their continued existence. JEWEL BOARD LONDON - (CP) - London's famous Hatton Garden jewel market is to have its own bomb and burglar-proof strongroom, the only one of its kind in Britain. More than 1,000 merchants will use the strongroom, where about $40,000,000 worth of jewels will be kept. THREE STATISTICIANS, From $2,880 to $4,740, depending on position, Ottawa. A TECHNICIAN, (MACHINE SHOP AND WELDING), $2,880 to $3,880, Ottawa. AN ASSISTANT PHOTOGRAPHER, $1,860-$2,160, Ottawa. Details and application forms at Civil Service Commission, National Employment Service and Post Office. A COUNTRY GARDEN (Continued from Page 2) Nice plump mushroom, and she saw it too, but did not know I saw it! I am sure I was more embarrassed than she. I was so afraid I might say or do something to let her know that I knew she had the mushroom. I did enjoy the joke after she had gone home (to eat the mushroom I suppose).

McInnis-Brazel Wedding St. Joachim's Church at Vernon River and the scene of a very pretty wedding Tuesday, August 16th when Mary Ann, daughter of Mrs. Laura McInnis and the late Joseph McInnis of Barncliffe became the bride of Lawrence Wilfred, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Urban Gillis, parish priest, performed the ceremony and celebrated the Nuptial Mass. The altar was tastefully decorated by friends of the bride. During the Nuptial Mass appropriate hymns were sung by Mr. Martin Power and Miss Margaret Brazel, accompanied by Mrs. Leo Myers, church organist. The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. P.M. McInnis, Regina, Sask. who gave her in marriage the bride looked very winsome in her long white satin wedding gown. Her only ornament was a double strand of pearls a gift of the groom. Her shoulder length veil held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms. She carried a hand bouquet of red roses. Miss Helen Brazel, sister of the groom was bridesmaid and looked lovely in a gown of powder blue satin on same lines as bride's, her shoulder-length veil fell from a coronet of flowers, and was the same color as her dress. She carried a hand bouquet of white roses. The groom was ably supported by Mr. Michael McInnis, brother of the bride, Mr. Melvin Brazel and Mr. Joseph McInnis acted as ushers. The bride's mother wore grey with black accessories with a corsage of mixed sweet peas, while the groom's mother wore black and white print with grey accessories and corsage of mixed sweet peas. A delicious wedding breakfast was served to about sixty guests at about one hundred and fifty dollars. The table was centered with three tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The toast was proposed by Rev. L.P. Callan, rector of St. Joachim's. The bride party left on a short motor trip and returned later that evening to the home of the groom where supper was served to about one hundred and fifty guests including Rev. L. P. Callan, Rev. V. Murnaghan, J. Lester Douglas M.P. Music and dancing was indulged in till the wee small hours when all departed wishing the bride and groom many years of happy wedded bliss. effectively out of reach of Detroit's anti-gambling squad.
