

WAS SO NERVOUS SHORT OF BREATH COULD HARDLY SLEEP

Louise Baglin, Golden Lake, writes: "For several years I was greatly troubled by my heart, so nervous and short of breath, and could hardly sleep at night, and I sleep for a while I had had managed to keep at my work, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I had to give up many kinds of medicine, and no help until I got a box of After the first box I found a great change, and after two boxes I was as well as I could be. "I told my mother, who had choking sensations, about them and she helped her greatly." "I bought a box at all drug stores and mailed direct on receipt of $1.00. The T. Dr. W. J. P. McMillan Speaks On Draft Address

(Continued from Page 9.) treated and solicited through the Temperance Alliance Bulletin to get clear of this mire and to retract from our position, to amend our policy, or we will never rise again. Well, if that is the situation, don't you think it is awful the condition that they are in, in the rest of Canada? Isn't the condition of the Province of Quebec something desperate? Isn't Ontario headed for destruction? What about Manitoba and Alberta and Saskatchewan and British Columbia? All headed for destruction. I believe that the apostates of Prohibition in this Province are negligent of their plain duty when they do not return the compliment and go out as missionaries into those other provinces; because a good many of their friends from the other provinces came as missionaries to preach the gospel of Prohibition in order to save this Province. Now I think the prohibitionists of this Province should return the compliment, because there is a great work to do. And when they have saved Canada they certainly ought to go and try to save the poor old Motherland; because they are headed the same way. And what about the other countries in Europe? They have tried Prohibition and they have gone back on it. Aren't they worthy of any solicitude on our part? We are told that this is absolutely right, that there cannot be two sides to this question, that it is a great moral issue; and there are no two sides about a moral issue. One is right and the other must be wrong. The Premier has said that that is the reason he asked the clergymen of the Province to go out and preach to the people about it, because it was a great moral issue and it was their duty to do it. But what do we find? We find that there must be a great many clergymen in this Province who do not have a proper appreciation and conception of a moral issue; otherwise they would not have remained silent on this question. We know, Mr. Speaker, that there must have been some reason why those other Provinces discarded Prohibition. They were not led by a poor, misguided Tory Government such as the Stewart Government! Why was it that those provinces with Liberal Governments, with Progressive Governments, with every form of Government that you can mention, went back on Prohibition? And is their moral sense so dim that there is no effort now among any of the political parties in those Provinces to return to Prohibition? It is certainly a very serious condition of affairs, to think that their moral sense is so perverted and that they are all headed for ruination. That "Wonderful Campaign"

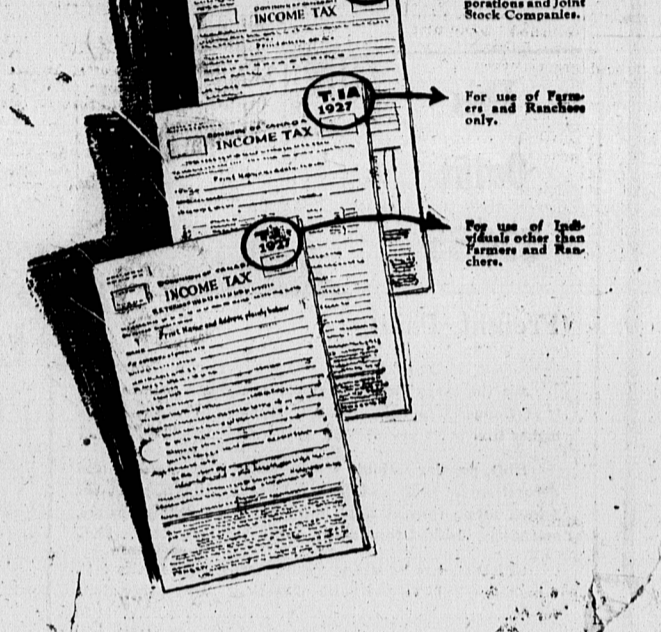

The Premier says that this was a wonderful campaign, that it was fought out so fairly and squarely by those who supported Prohibition. It was the fairest and the squarest campaign, he says, in the history of this Province! (Laughter.) His very first utterance as Premier, on the floor of this House, was to try to make the people believe that there is a unanimous feeling of co-operation between the Temperance Alliance and the Government of which he is the head; making, at the same time, the admission that there are serious differences of opinion—that there are grave breaches—between himself, as Premier, and the President and Secretary of the Alliance. What a position to be in! Does he imagine for one moment that he can persuade the people that he can dissociate himself from his position as Premier of the Province for the time being, that he can take the President and Secretary of the Temperance Alliance and dissociate them from that body, and tell the people of this country that the differences of opinion are between those two gentlemen and himself personally, and that there is no difference of opinion and the Temperance Alliance and the Government of which he is the leader? If he can successfully defend that position before the country he will be accomplishing a task which I do not believe is possible.

One might talk for days—yes, and years, on this subject; but I think the people will analyze the situation for themselves. They will find now that the intriguing campaign upon which my hon. friend embarked on a certain Sunday night previous to the last election is giving results which are a campaign of that nature, naturally be expected to bring about the "fair and square" campaign with which we had to deal, and which resulted in the return of twenty-six Liberal members.

HON. MR. LEPAGE: Twenty-four, yes; it's a wonder there were not twenty-six. It's a wonder there were not thirty! I don't see how we survived the flood, because it was certainly a campaign of "death and destruction." But they are getting the results which they courted. Any body of men seeking the suffrage of this country, who, first and foremost, would bind themselves by a secret pledge to any organization, deserve just what they are getting now.

DR. GRANT: We don't mind it. DR. McMILLAN: A secret pledge, which one hon. member of the Government said should never have been known? I wonder how the cat was let out of the bag. There was a violation of secrecy somewhere. We generally find that those secret intrigues get out sooner or later. I believe probably the hon. gentleman is right, that had it got out soon enough he wouldn't have been elected. And perhaps the next time he seeks the suffrage of the people he may find some difficulty!

Secret Pledges. It was an unfortunate thing that the "cat" ever got out, because it is little to the credit of any body of men who presume to obtain the reins of power in this Province that they should make a secret pledge of any kind to any one. Where is their freedom, when they are shackled before they come into power? It is not much wonder that we are getting some results now. Those secret pledges may be more or less binding, and they may have been violated; and probably that is the cause of the trouble they are now engaged in—that those gentlemen of the Alliance expected too much, and took too much for granted. The Premier in his speech on the Address said that if the President or the Secretary of the Alliance went out and made fifty or a hundred speeches and made certain statements in those speeches, they should not have done so; that they did not do it with the consent or approval of the Government. It is pretty late in the day for an admission of that sort to be coming to light! Probably, if he had been wise, he would have said that those gentlemen had no authority to go out and speak for the Liberal party or for the Government. But there was a serious misunderstanding somewhere, and the results of it are not very edifying. Very strong statements have been made by members of the Temperance Alliance on this subject, and even by the former President of the Alliance. It shows that faith has not been kept somewhere.

Of course, all this is naturally what we would expect, because the Liberal party played a double game, and they must expect the consequences. We are told that we are going to have a plebiscite in 1929; and if the policy of Government Control should carry I wonder will my hon. friend the Premier resign from his position? Do you think he would? I don't suppose he will tell us whether he would or not. Do you think that he would resign? I submit, Mr. Speaker, that that is the only consistent course which he can take if Government Control carries in 1929, because on June 24th he put out this letter to the electorate: "In the closing hours of the campaign an attempt has been made to read into a letter written by me as Leader of the Liberal party, that I was ready to adopt either Prohibition or Government Control according to the expediency of the situation. "In answer to this charge, I solemnly declare that from, and previous to the opening of this campaign, I publicly announced myself as absolutely opposed to Government Control, and my intention of standing firmly by Prohibition." (I suppose that refers to the letter which my hon. colleague from Charlottetown read the other day, and of which I have a copy on my desk.) "To this end I invited meetings and requested opinions from the workers and leading supporters of the Liberal party, and I assured them that if they decided upon a policy of Government Control, then I would be compelled to resign as their Leader."

"Now, Mr. Speaker, if there is any consistency at all in that statement, naturally, if Government Control ever carries on a plebiscite in this Province, we would expect the Premier to resign. And if Government Control carries and he does not resign, then we shall be perfectly justified in saying that when he made that statement he was not sincere, and that there was nothing in it, (Applause.)

Have You Made Your Income Tax Return for 1927?

The law provides penalties for those liable to taxation if a return is not made by April 30.

GET copies of the official form applicable to your case without delay. They may be secured at any Post Office in Canada, or by writing the Inspector of Income Tax for your district. Fill in all the details requested. Make up the amount of your tax. Mail two copies to the Inspector in your district, together with an accepted bank cheque or money order as mentioned below. Keep a third copy for your own reference. If your income for 1927 is more than $1,500, but you think you are not liable to taxation because of exemptions, it is best to file the return in any event. You have only till April 30 to make your return.

Three Kinds of Forms. There are three kinds of Dominion Income Tax Forms, one of which will apply to any tax payer. The different forms are: Form T-1—For all individuals, other than farmers or ranchers. Form T-1A—For farmers and ranchers. Form T-2—For corporations and joint stock companies. If you so desire, the Inspector of Income Tax for your district will send you upon written request a revised copy of The Income War Tax Act, Consolidated, Chapter 97 (R.S.C. 1927).

Income from All Sources Must be Declared. The public is especially reminded to report all income from bearer bonds—whether Dominion, Provincial, Municipal or Industrial. The interest from these bonds is taxable. The 1928 legislation enlarges the powers of the department which is now enabled to trace the ownership of all bearer bonds.

Personal Exemptions. Personal exemptions should be noted carefully. They may be summarized as follows: (a) $3,000 in the case of a married person or householder, or any other person who has dependent upon him any of the following persons: 1. A parent or grand-parent. 2. A daughter or sister. 3. A son or brother under 21 years of age; or incapable of self-support on account of mental or physical infirmity—except where the husband and wife each have a separate income in excess of $1,500, then each shall receive not $3,000 exemption, but $1,500 exemption. (b) $1,500 in the case of unmarried persons. (c) $500 for each child under 21 years of age who is dependent upon the tax payer for support, or if 21 years of age or over is incapable of self-support on account of mental or physical infirmity.
