THERE passed peacefully away on November 3rd, an old and respected citizen in the person of John Higgins, in his 82nd year. He was the youngest son of the late David Higgins, Esq., of Covehead. The family consisted of five sons and one daughter, none of whom are now living. The late John Higgins was known and respected through a large portion of the Province. He was, for a long time, engaged in business on Great George Street, Charlottetown, and was for many years collector of land tax for the Province. He was a man of good ability and of a genial friendly disposition which made him a favorite with all with whom he came in contact. He was married over forty years ago to Frances, eldest daughter of the late John Byrre, of Charlottetown. To the widow and relatives The Guardian extends its sincere sympathies. The funeral will leave his late residence Prince Street, on Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock for St. John's.

Some very handsome interior views of a Minneapolis home are illustrated in the November number of Keith's Magazine, followed by the beginning of a new series of articles contributed by real estate editors of the leading papers throughout the country, on the best examples of architecture in Metropolitan cities. The first paper, "The City Home," is by Mr. Chas. F. Wallraft, real estate editor of the Washington Post, Washington, D. C. Special study all is devoted to the wall decoration of a small house, with floor plans shown, and description giving suggestions on some tasty decorations for a modern little home. One or two examples in this article of the wall paper decorations as suggested, are shown. The usual departments on. Out Door Art, Decoration and Furnishing, Household Economics, and full answers to inquiries are given, and last but not least, 14 designs of moderate cost homes. The November number is unusually replete with interesting reading for the home builder.

ON the evening of Sunday, October 28th, R. H. Stavert, B. A., preached his closing discourse at De Wolfe, N.B. to a very large and attentive congregation. During his stay here Mr. Stavert has made many warm friends. By his kind and genial manner he won the affections of the people; by his ability as a speaker he drew many to hear him and by his earnestness as a personal worker he led quite a large number to grasp the true meaning of life. He has been indeed a most zealous worker and his labors have been crowned with marked success. Since his coming here seventeen have been received into full communion in the Presbyterian church and twelve children have been baptized. Mr. Stavert's expenses have been paid in full, and besides $10.00 have been paid to home missions, $10.00 to foreign missions and $4.00 to Presbytery fund, making in all upwards of $270 raised in the short period of six months. Many words of regret were expressed on his departure and as a mark of the esteem in which he was held he was presented with several quite valuable gifts. At a congregational meeting held lately it was unanimously decided to ask Mr. Stewart to come to this field next summer. On Friday evening last, on the eve of Mr. Stavert's departure from this vicinity, J. E. and Mrs. Slater gave a large party in his honor. Over fifty of the young people from the surrounding districts were present and, according to report, all thoroughly enjoyed themselves. Music, games and amusements of various kinds were indulged in until shortly after midnight when, after having wished Mr. Stavert every success in his future career, all wended their homeward way.—St. Croix Courier. Mr. Stavert leaves this morning for Pine Hill after spending a few days at his home in W. Inot Valley.
