A Tribute to the Memory of the Late E. Boswell

The funeral services of the late Edward Boswell (whose recent death has been recorded) were held in the Victoria United Church, on Tuesday, p.m., Jan. 19th, preceded by a short service at his home.

Mr. Boswell born in 1860 was 82 years of age last October, 1940, always a public spirited man warmly interested (in his own way) in the church of his adoption and its ministers.

A life long Conservative, he gave loyal support to his political leaders and their representatives. Just here it might be in order to quote some items re his earlier business career recorded at the time of several the most gifted authorities of this Province, as follows: "Edward Boswell, is numbered among the leading and successful merchants of Victoria, Queens County."

When quite young he was taken into the employ of Wright Bros., Summerside, he is now the manager of the Victoria branch of that enterprise (in which later he devoted his entire time. He possesses marked business ability and has won the confidence not only of his employers but of all who have had dealings with the establishment.

During ensuing years he became identified with the extensive shipping interests connected with the firm, later carrying on exclusively in this capacity as skipper for all the farming communities far and near within his territory until the introduction of the "Pure Foods Act" against the three Maritime Provinces, put a ban on all shipping between customers and dealers outside the towns. So great was the storm of indignation aroused by this obnoxious ruling, it was late in 1907, he was elected to the Nova Scotia House of Representatives, and in 1910, he was elected to the House of Commons.

Girl On His Hands

By JOSEPH CHADWICK

John stayed with Virginia and her father only a minute longer. As he returned to his own table, he considered what Virginia had told him—that Roger Dane hadn't asked for the diamonds and seemed quite unworried. Well, that proved nothing. Dane might simply be playing a waiting game.

Harriet and Bert, having finished their dance, were already back at the table. There was a faint tightness about Harriet's mouth as John rejoined them. She said sweetly, "I saw you dancing with Virginia."

"How interesting," Harriet said. "It must have been an epidemic!" "It didn't mean at all," Bert told her. "Virginia can't see any man but Arturo Montero. She's a one-man woman."

John lost his temper. "You're behaving childishly, Harriet! Just because I danced with Virginia for a few minutes, you act as though there were something between us!" "Well, isn't there?" "Certainly not! How could there be when I'm engaged to you?"

Virginia was in the powder room, looking into the mirror. She had the room to herself but, presently, she heard some one else come in. In the mirror, she saw that it was Harriet. She swung around, but Harriet had turned toward the mirror and was busily powdering her nose.

Virginia saw in a flash that the girl was jealous—jealous because she, Virginia, had danced with John and because she had seen that the girl had followed her here. She wondered why. "Good evening, Miss Jordan," she said pleasantly.

"Yes—I know." "John came over to our table to say hello to Dad. They met in Rio, didn't they?" "Ah, yes—Rio," Harriet paused. "John met you there, too, didn't he?" "Yes."

Virginia smiled and started to turn away, but Harriet halted her. "Wait—just a minute, Miss Dane!" "Yes?" "Harriet's face hardened. 'Let's not pretend!' she said sharply. 'I came in here on purpose to talk to you. John is engaged to me, but you don't seem to realize it! I've heard a great deal about you, Miss Dane, and I know it would be fun for you to appear in your cap—come between John and me! I just want to tell you that your cheap little tricks aren't going to work."

Virginia knew sudden, blinding fury. No one had ever talked to her like this before. "Listen to me, Miss Jordan!" she broke in. "I'm going to tell you something! I could take John Stacy away from you by merely raising my hand!" "You're heartless!" and "don't be surprised if I do!"

In Memoriam

MR. SINCLAIR MacGOWAN

On Monday morning, January 25th, after a short illness, there entered rest Sinclair MacGowan, proprietor of the MacGowan House, Malpeque.

With his wife the late Mr. MacGowan retired from his farm at Lower Malpeque in 1928, and has since that time catered most acceptably to transient and resident guests at his home here. For many years they have had also the central telephone office. In these services and by a native friendliness the late Mr. MacGowan became widely known and was accorded a warm scope for the exercise of his native good humor, his genial manner.

He is survived by his widow Winnifred (Crozier), a daughter, Mrs. Huber Arneve, Wilmet Valley, and a son Duncan on the old farm. Mrs. Flora MacGowan of Malpeque and Mrs. John MacKay of Sea View are sisters and Mrs. Owen MacGowan of Malpeque is a brother. There are eight grand children.

ALFRED F. GAUDET

The people of Tignish and vicinity were saddened when it was learned that Alfred F. Gaudet had passed away at his home on Thursday, January 7th, 1941, at the age of 87 years.

He is survived by his wife Winnifred (Crozier), a daughter, Mrs. Huber Arneve, Wilmet Valley, and a son Duncan on the old farm. Mrs. Flora MacGowan of Malpeque and Mrs. John MacKay of Sea View are sisters and Mrs. Owen MacGowan of Malpeque is a brother. There are eight grand children.

Sun Life Annual Meeting

MONTREAL, February 9th. The assets of the Sun Life of Canada, representing the combined savings of more than one million policyholders, exceeded the billion dollar mark during the past year and now amount to $1,046,962,000.

The total annuities in force of the Sun Life of Canada now amounts to $3,044,000,000. Payments to policyholders during the year represented an average daily disbursement of over a quarter of a million dollars each working day, or over $77 1/2 million, bringing the total benefits distributed since organization to well over $1.3 billion.

The broad diversification of the assets which now stand at over a billion dollars is disclosed by the following classification showing the percentage of total assets under each heading: Government Bonds, 21.6 per cent; Municipal Bonds, 4.7 per cent; Industrial Bonds, 4.5 per cent; Railroad Bonds, 2.7 per cent; Public Utilities, 18.4 per cent; Preferred and Guaranteed Stocks, 1.4 per cent; Common Stocks of Industrial and Financial Corporations, 6.4 per cent; Common Stocks of Public Utilities, 8.6 per cent; Mortgages, 4.8 per cent; Real Estate, 2 per cent; Policy Loans, 7.3 per cent; Cash, 4.4 per cent; Other Assets, 3 per cent.

Every spiritual and temporal blessing is ever coming to a calm and peaceful close. Ever a loving and unselfish father, home was a haven of peace and happiness, where the purest of a sincere welcome and he will be gratefully remembered for his char-ours in assisting friends and neighbors in their time of need.

His funeral which was largely attended was held on Saturday, January 9th at 10 A. M. to Sts. Simon and Jude Church, Tignish, where Requiem High Mass was sung by the Reverend J. A. Gaudet, O.M.I. The committal service at the grave were performed by his pastor the Rev. J. A. MacDonald.

Friends of Mr. John G. MacDonald, will learn with regret that he has entered the Charlottetown Hospital again after being confined to his room all summer and fall.

Friends here will hear with regret that Mr. Bruce Davison well known painter has entered the P. E. Island for treatment. Mr. Davison and his wife have made their home in Bristol, now for a number of years but still carry on business in the city, where they are both so well known.

Mr. Arthur Aldershaw, who entered the Charlottetown Hospital, last week for an X-ray, was released on Friday and returned home.

Mr. John J. Dwan, St. Peter's, was a visitor to her old home last week. Mrs. Dwan was employed as teacher in Bristol school last term and this year is teaching in her home district owing to the great shortage of teachers.

Mr. Gerard McInnis, was in the city on business. Mr. McInnis, is in charge of the Morell hockey team, and his trip to the city was in the interest of games for his boys. But he reports the prospects very slim this season.

Hats Off to Your Grocer!

He's offering you another important service

YOUR grocer's task is a heavy one today. Because of wartime conditions he has difficulty getting certain products for you. Sometimes he can't get them at all. He has to handle ration coupons. He has to restrict the sale of certain items. He has many other extra duties. Yet he has less help to assist him in doing all these extra things. Don't blame him if he can't meet your needs now like he used to. Help him. Remember his difficulties when you shop.

And now, busy as he is, your grocer has taken on another important job. He's putting his store right in the front rank of the Food Industries' March to Berlin. All this month he will devote valuable space in his store to the display and sale of War Savings Stamps!

He is doing this as an added service to you. It means that you can buy your War Savings Stamps more conveniently than ever before.

So hats off to your hard-working grocer as he takes on this added job! Join him in the March to Berlin! Every time you shop, take part of your change in his biggest February Special—War Savings Stamps!
