I., stands second in the list of her year in the Christmas examinations at McDonald College, St. Anne de Bellevue, Quebec. -In referring to the death of the late Sylvester Burke, Malpeque, which occurred so suddenly, it should have been mentioned that as soon as Mr. Burke spoke of his illness to his employer, Earnest McNutt, the latter phoned at once for the doctor who arrived promptly and said that no human means could have spared his life. His employer and friends deeply deplore his sudden demise. -A. L. Phillips, insurance adjustor, St. John, was in Summerside on Saturday adjusting the loss on the fire in Schurman's Mill on Wednesday evening last and placed the loss at $2,259, which is fully covered by insurance. Valuable Farm For Sale -The undersigned are instructed to offer by private sale a tract of 124 acres, beautifully located near Freetown Station and owned by Malcolm McIntosh. There is a large and well finished dwelling house, two commodious barns, grainary and pigery on the premises. This farm is all clear and in a high state of cultivation. It is also well watered, a beautiful brook running through it on the back, and also two never failing wells of water. There is a nice orchard on the place and about 40 acres ploughed. This is without doubt one of the finest properties in Freetown and the only reason it is for sale is because the owner is removing his family to British Columbia, where he has large interests. COMMERCIAL MEN VS PROWSE BROS (Continued from page 1.) Burns was not thought fast enough for the forward line and was put back to cover point, C. Weeks taking his place. Shortly after the start G. Prowse and A. McCabe were put off, the former for running into McFarlane and the latter for fast skating. Weeks then came down the ice with a lemon in his mouth, handling his stick with one hand and doing other stunts which many of the league players present made note of, shot, but it was "cooked" before it reached its destination. Shortly after this Brown, who was playing the game of his life, scored for Prowse Bros, thus making the score 2-0. At this stage of the game Grady, who was judge of play in this half, gave W. B. Prowse six minutes for sitting on the ice, but owing to it being Saturday night Wallie only took two. Then Cohoon and Condon made some brilliant rushes up the side but failed to score. This time it was Messervey's turn, who got two minutes for cutting corners backwards. The game was nearing the end and the puck was down in the Commercial Men's territory when G. Prowse by a life came near making the third score, but Cook was always on the job and made a nice stop. Then when nobody was looking, Messervey got the puck and came down the ice so fast that before he knew what he was doing, he netted the puck for the only goal for the Commercial Men. Fortunately he was too heavy to bounce and they had to let him go with "you're all right, old man." This ended one of the most exciting games of the season. Earl Grady and Percy Rodd handled the game satisfactorily. NOTES: It is understood that a delegation from one of the senior teams waited on Mr. Acorn after the match to try and secure him for the next league match, and it is thought he will accept if there is enough in it. Weeks, though only young at the game is a coming man, and will no doubt be looking for senior honors before the season ends. McFarlane and Messervey are good defence men and showed good judgment for standing on skates. The line-up was as follows: Commercial Men. Prowse Bros. Cook... Goal... Acorn. McFarlane... Point... W. B. Prowse. Messervey... C. Point... Weeks. Fleming... Centre... Burns. Hughes... Rover... G. Prowse. Condon... R. Wing... Brown. Cohoon... L. Wing... McCabe.

YELLOW JOURNAL METHODS EXPOSED IN LONDON

(Continued from page 1.) you if you have half an hour to spare once or twice a week and would care to turn it into cash by writing me a long gossipy letter about well-known people in English society who stay in houses where you are employed. I pay liberally some American papers which insist on having current gossip, amusing stories, etc., about well-known people over here, I buy large quantities of such letters regularly. If you think you would care to double or treble your salary on this work write me a good specimen letter. I will then write you more fully as to terms. To give you an idea of what I buy, I may say that just now anything about Lady Gerard and the De Forests is good copy, on account of the slander cases between them now coming off; also about Dillon, the jockey, on account of the Marie Lloyd divorce suit, in which he is co-respondent; also about Lord Howard de Walden's suit for libel against Lewis. If you write I wish you would tell me if you have any friends with whom you could put me into communication among the staff of the Howard de Waldens, Lady Gerard, Baron De Forests, Sir Thomas Lipton, Sir Ernest Cassel, Mrs. Geo. Keppel, or her brother, Sir Archibald Edmondston, or Mrs. Leeds, who has taken Mrs. Keppel's new house on Grosvenor St. The Times heads a scorching lead on the subject: "A new pest of society," and says: "The letter is a complete revelation of the existence of a system, the existence of which has often been suspected, but never so fully exposed. It will shock and disgust all decent people, and especially those of the same sex with the debased journalist who wrote the letter. The letter suggests the source of many of those stupid, nasty or exaggerated stories of English society which fill the lower sort of American newspapers. To this point, has come in the hands of the worst kind of American journalists, the art of society reporting. The story and the letter throw a lurid light upon the tastes, ideals, and standards of life which flourish in a modern democracy, and which, we regret to say, are fostered by a democratic press. The heirs of all the ages are thus thought every morning to interest themselves in little tattle about the world, with which they have nothing in common, and to cultivate a snobbishness of which Thackeray never dreamed. This is an odious state of things, indeed, and surely something could be done to stop it, if the reputable American newspapers would take the nature of the news purveyed and the matter up and expose the damaging and detestable methods of the purveyors."

IN BRITISH CONGRESS.

LONDON, Jan. 28 - The scope of the reciprocity agreement came as a surprise to the British public. No one expected so many changes to the Free List or such important tariff reductions as the proposed measure has revealed. The tariff reform newspapers from the commencement had made light of the negotiations between the American and Canadian Commissioners, and predicted practically a failure to reach a mutual understanding. WASHINGTON, Jan. 28 - Snags began to loom up in the pathway of the Canadian reciprocal agreement before it had been in Congress twenty-four hours, and confident predictions of its failure were made. It was said that even should the House of Representatives accept the arrangement it could not pass the Senate.

NAIL IN HIS LUNG BOY'S "PNEUMONIA."

Ignorant of the fact that the most skillful surgeons in New York are studying to find a way of operating on him safely, to cure him of his "pneumonia," five-year-old Vincent Maguire plays one week in the streets and the next in a hospital. Vincent is the son of Peter Maguire, a printer. Four years ago the child became ill and at times it was difficult for him to breathe. A physician diagnosed the case as pneumonia, in due time Vincent was pronounced cured. Three months afterward he died after through a similar illness. Thereafter he had like attacks about four times a year. The illness recurred last August, and the mother took Vincent to Bellevue, where once more his trouble had been termed pneumonia. The second time it was decided he had typhoid. He was placed in the care of Dr. Hill. The doctor studied Vincent closely more than two weeks, and became convinced that "typhoid" and "pneumonia" did not explain the trouble. The constant cough puzzled him. Judging there was bronchial obstruction he had X-ray photographs taken of Vincent's lungs and air passages. The amazing discovery was made that the real cause of the frequent attacks of "pneumonia" was a two-inch wire nail lodged in a lung where the bronchial tube entered. Where there is such an obstruction the patient hardly recovers. But prominent surgeons, on consultation, decided after many weeks that an operation might be risked in the child's case. But they found that special instruments were necessary for the operation. These were made in Germany at the expense of the men interested in the case. They were sent here in due time and the boy was brought from his home to Bellevue for the operation, but just then he suffered from another attack of his "pneumonia." When he got better it was thought the nail could be dislodged with a pair of small forceps; but the surgeons again deferred the operation. The special instruments are still unused, and Vincent still carries the nail in his lung. Meantime he plays around, ignorant of the fact that great doctors do not know what to do for him.
