Crewed by a six-star cast, 'Blaze of Noon' soars to new screen heights in thrills and romance, as Director John Farrow masterfully pilots his brilliant team through the exciting story of four flying brothers and the girl who finds herself "married" to all when she gives her heart to one.

The half dozen top-flight actors required, and generously used, to do justice to the film's important, "Trailing Danger," which opens at 7:30 at the Empire Theatre today. Johnny Mack Brown comes to the rescue

Bendix, Sterling Hayden and Howard Da Silva.

'Blaze of Noon,' adapted from Ernest K. Gann's best-selling novel of the same name, and based on historical truth, tells of the "Four Flying McDonnalds" (Holden Tufts, Hayden and young Johnny Sands) who give up stunt flying with carnivals to seek even greater thrills carrying the mail. Through adverse weather, in flimsy planes lacking adequate navigational instruments, they blaze a sky-path for the mail, risking life and happiness to fulfill their destinies.

WATCHING POTATO CROP—Laboratory Bulletin No. 10 says: "The recent showers and humid atmosphere have provided ideal conditions for late blight disease. The disease in the laboratory experimental plots has become highly infectious during the past four days, spores are being produced in great numbers, and the unsprayed check plots are rapidly going down. Spraying with the several fungicides under test was resumed on Tuesday. It is recommended that all varieties, except those already treated, should receive an immediate application of spray. Unless very wet weather is experienced during the remainder of the month the spray now recommended will be the last. The killing of the vines by a chemical should be performed not later than October 1. Next week the preparation of the chemicals available in the province will be outlined in the bulletin."

THAT BODY OF YOURS

In the third group of 26 (14 male, 12 female), there was an organic cause for the tiredness such as tuberculosis, at-effects of diseases and disturbance of the endocrine or ductless glands. This means that in three-fourths of these cases the psychological (emotional) aspect was the most important factor.

In the series of 300 cases examined, with all the techniques of one of the world's largest clinics, it was found that only 20 per cent (1 in every 5) was due to organic or physical causes. The organic causes were chronic infections, diabetes, anemia inflammation of the kidneys, heart disease or change in structure of the brain. The nervous or emotional causes of tiredness were neuritis (thinking a disease is present when it is not), mental depression, and highly nervous states.

In the treatment of chronic tiredness due to nervous and emotional states, the patient—after a thorough examination—is told how the emotions are upsetting the body. In the western in which he stars, with Raymond Hatton in a featured role. In the story Marshall Reed is a convicted murderer who is rescued from his prison cell by his cutthroat buddies. Reed is out to get the people responsible for his conviction, and learns that they are on a cross-country stage. His gang attacks the coach and are about to hang a couple of their victims, when Johnny Mack Brown and Hatton intervene. The cowboy hero saves the coach riders momentarily, but the desperadoes are still at large. How Johnny finally traps the killer and his gang is expected to bring many exciting moments to the screen.

THE PACKINGHOUSE STRIKE

In the recent negotiations between Canada Packers and the U.P.W.A. (United Packinghouse Workers of America), the Union was represented by a group of national officers headed by Mr. Dowling, together with one representative from each local (about 20 persons in all).

The negotiations broke down Monday, September 8th. On Tuesday, September 9th, the Minister of Labour for Ontario invited representatives of the Company, and of the Union, to meet in his office to discuss possible methods of averting a strike. The Minister explained that his intervention was unofficial, and was made solely in the hope of effecting a settlement.

After two conferences—September 10th. and 11th—Mr. Fine, chief conciliator for the Ontario Department of Labour, suggested that the Company and the Union agree to outside mediation with a voluntary commitment in advance that any agreement reached would apply at all plants. This voluntary reference would eliminate any possible difficulty regarding provincial jurisdictions.

The Company accepted the proposal, on condition that all plants should be kept working.

Mr. Fine urged Mr. Dowling to keep the plants working inasmuch as strikes, if called, would be illegal.

Mr. Dowling promised to give his reply on Wednesday, September 17th. It is for this reason that the following statement has been withheld until today.

Packinghouse workers have been called out in 28 plants in 8 provinces.

In all provinces but two (Prince Edward Island and Saskatchewan), laws exist which lay down procedure which MUST be followed before a strike can be declared.

In six provinces—British Columbia, Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick,—the strikes have been called in defiance of these laws.

Before the Company-Union negotiations broke down (Monday, September 8th), the Companies made an urgent appeal to the Union representatives to refer the points at issue to some form of mediation.

This appeal was made on the following grounds:

That 3,000 Swift employees were already on strike. These employees had been without pay for two weeks. That strike had been useless inasmuch as it had retarded rather than advanced a settlement.

That a small group of 20 persons were now taking it upon themselves to call out a further 10,000 men and women.

That the strike would undoubtedly last 2 or 3 or more weeks, during which time those 10,000 men and women would be without pay.

That at some time mediation would have to be resorted to. Therefore why not try at once to find a basis and keep the men at work?

After discussing proposal for an hour, Mr. Dowling telephoned that it had been rejected, and that instructions were being sent out to take a strike vote at each plant.

N.B. This was Monday, September 8th,—six o'clock P.M.

On Tuesday morning, September 9th, Canada Packers wired Mr. Dowling, requesting:—

- (1) That, the issues be explained fully to the employees before voting commenced. (2) That, at each plant, the strike vote be taken by secret ballot under Government supervision.

A further statement explaining the issues will be made at an early date.
