To Probe Removal Of Japanese Assets

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP) —Secretary of State James Byrnes announced today that Edwin W. Pauley, President Truman's reparations expert, will go to the Orient to find out what Japanese assets the Russians have removed from Manchuria and from Korea.

Asked whether Mr. Pauley would be able to get into the Russian-controlled area of Korea, Mr. Byrnes told a news conference that, at least, was Mr. Pauley's mission.

Mr. Pauley, he related had been denied entrance to Russian controlled Manchuria during his previous visit to the Far East but Mr. Byrnes expects that with the Russians evacuating the territory he will have no difficulty getting in now.

The subject came up when Mr Byrnes was asked about his talks with Mr. Pauley and President Truman.

Mr. Byrnes said Mr. Pauley is going back to finish the work he started some months ago. He said he had asked Mr. Pauley for full information regarding Japanese assets that remain in Manchuria and Korea and those which have been removed.

This has been a controversial point between Washington and Moscow. American authorities have contended that Russia had no right to remove industrial equipment from Manchuria, particularly. The Soviet Government has ignored the latest American note on the matter.

Select Best Plants When Thinning Out Garden Row

Thin out excess plants gradually, and allow the best plants to live using discards for table when possible

When more plants come up than there is room to mature, the excess plants must be eliminated; and this is a task which most amateurs dislike, and many neglect.

It should be regarded as an opportunity, since it permits the finest plants chosen to survive, and inferior ones to be eliminated.

For best results, thinning should be done gradually. In the case of a crop which grows best when the plants stand six inches apart, do not at first thin it to one plant for each six inches. There are two reasons for this.

First, many vegetables, such as carrots and beets, are most delicious when half-mature. By thinning at first only enough to insure that each plant stands well alone in the row and then allowing them to grow awhile, many will soon reach the stage when they can be harvested for the table.

Second, it is foolish to discard all excess plants prematurely when accidents, insects or disease may destroy many which are left. If thinning is done by stages as the plants grow, they will finally stand at the optimum distance from each other, and there will be small chance of vacant spaces in the row.

Lettuce plants, thinned to stand an inch apart, will soon reach a size when alternate plants can be removed to make a salad; and this process may be continued until the spacing is right for the remaining plants to mature.

Carrots may bethinned the first time when they are as thick as a pencil; and a dish of the thinnings will give those who have never eaten such tiny carrots before, a new idea of this vegetable.

Beets may be allowed to grow until about six inches tall, when their roots have just begun to swell. If thinned out at this stage, the thinnings should be cooked roots and tops together, for a delicious dish.

Church Union In New Zealand

The following item is from a New Zealand paper:

AUCKLAND, N. Z.—A movement for the union of the Methodist, Presbyterian and Congregational Churches of the Dominion was discussed at the session of the annual conference of the Methodist Church of New Zealand when the committee's report on Church union was presented by the Rev. W. A. Burley (Wellington).

The Moderator of General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (the Rt. Rev. J. W. McKenzie) and a representative of the Congregational Church (the Rev. A. Bond James) were present at the invitation of the president of the conference (the Rev. W. T. Blight), and spoke on Church union to the conference after its discussion. There remarks were most cordially received.

The report stated that a spirit of optimism had prevailed at the meeting of the joint committee representing the three negotiating churches. Sub-committees had been appointed to explore the possibilities of united action along the following lines: the union of the Churches, the alignment of the curricula of the three theological colleges, and the interchange of Church membership where a member of one of the churches resided in a district in which his denomination was not represented. Co-operation in women's work, in literature, and publicity, and the interchange of ministers were also investigated.

It was stated that combined youth camps had already been held, and a common Bible class syllabus was in use. The Presbyterian and Methodist youth departments had begun work on a joint publication, "Christian Education."

After adoption of the report the conference keenly debated a resolution approving the official statement of the basis for union as a focal point for further negotiations with a view to the ultimate union of the three Churches.

The resolution was eventually carried with no dissentients.

Subpoena Out For Arrest Of Sam Carr

OTTAWA, April 17 — (CP) —J. R. Cartwright, Crown Counsel, said tonight a "subpoena has been sent out for some time" for Sam Carr, national organizer of the Labor-Progressive Party, to testify in one of Canada's espionage trials but "he has not been located."

"We have done our best to locate him but without success," he told Magistrate Glenn Strike after completion of evidence in the case of Dr. David Shugar, former navy anti-submarine expert, charged with conspiracy.

He made the statement after more than an hour's testimony by Igor Gouzenko, former Russian cipher clerk, who again identified Carr as a Russian agent.

Mr. Cartwright said letters had been sent to Carr without any response.

R. C. M. P. officials said today they were ready to detain Carr when orders come frfom the Royal Commission on espionage.

After cross-examination of Gouzenko, short, blonde, 26-year-old Russian A. W. Beament, defence counsel, contended that Crown evidence showed that after months of "trying to lure the accused from the path of virtue they (Russian agents) didn't even know his phone number."

The evidence consisted of five documents taken from the Embassy last September by Gouzenko and relating to efforts to get information from the accused.

IT'S no fun to be conspicuous or different and if Nature gave you a "big frame" you will feel conspicuous if you wriggle into a tight swim suit that pushes all your flesh into the wrong spots. Or a wide expanse of YOU between the bra and the trunks will accentuate that "big girl" look. So don't have too tight fit and don't reveal too much in bare fashions. Do have enough suit to be harmonious with your healthy, athletic build.
