IN MEMORIAM

MRS. SARAH WEIR
 After a long period of illness the death occurred on Friday morning of Mrs. Sarah Weir, widow of the late R. T. H. Weir, at the age of 88 years. Mrs. Weir passed away at her home on Havelock Street, Amherst, N.S., and in her years of health was one of the best known and most active women in the town.
 She was prominent in church work and only in recent years did she lay aside her activity in this respect.
 She is survived by two daughters, Laura at home and Mrs. Watson Fife of Charlottetown, and three sons, W. T. in Charlottetown, Gerald in Detroit, and George in Calgary.
 There is also a nephew, George Tupper, of Bear River. There will be deep sympathy with the family in their bereavement.
 The funeral was held from the home on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock with interment in Highland Cemetery.

How His Majesty Will Broadcast

What happens when the King broadcasts to Britain and the Empire on Christmas Day? How is it all arranged?
 I will tell you, writes J. C. Cannell in a British periodical. The technical side of it is in the hands of the outside staff of the British Broadcasting Corporation.
 This outside broadcasting staff is rather a large one. It has to be so many engagements fall to them.
 Actually, on Christmas Day, there are four of these B. B. C. men on duty at Sandringham—three engineers under Mr. Gerald Cook.
 They go on Christmas Eve to Sandringham to place the microphones in position in the King's study, and to test the two lines, by means of which Britain and the Empire will hear the King's voice just after Christmas dinner.
 Double lines are laid so as to guard against the possibility of a breakdown or a hitch of any kind one of them runs through Nottingham to Broadcasting House, and the other through Norwich and Chelmsford.
 When the King comes through from Sandringham on these two lines to the control-room at Langham Place, the engineers have to decide quickly on which line the reception is better.
 In the control-room they will hear the King's voice in duplicate, as it were, and will select the line giving the more effective reception.
 Then the Royal voice will be sent automatically to the Empire Broadcasting Station, and the other transmitting stations in Britain, to be sent out for you in the Dominions and Colonies.
 Other members of the Royal Family, forming a Christmas party at Sandringham, will hear the King's voice in their drawing-room in the same way as the rest of us. His speech will come to them after having made its journey from Sandringham to London and from there to the transmitting stations.
 So great is the speed of radio that the reception will be instantaneous, just as though the door of the King's study, from which he is speaking, were open to allow them to hear his actual voice.
 The King will be entirely alone when he gives this broadcast, for he prefers not to have anyone present in the room while he is talking.
 Incidentally, this method of leaving the speaker alone is observed generally by the B. B. C. When ordinary talks are being given from studios at Broadcasting House.
 Once in a while a talker prefers to have someone with him, but for the most part it has been found that absolute isolation produces the best results, for there is then no distraction.
 After the small team of B. B. C. experts have made their Christmas Eve tests at Sandringham, they will take up their quarters at an hotel in King's Lynn, where they will spend the night.
 On the morning of Christmas Day they will assemble at Sandringham again, to make final experiments to ensure the highest efficiency of the broadcast.
 Meanwhile, the King, who in this as in other matters, is thorough and painstaking, will hold a private rehearsal, for he believes in keeping so far as is possible, strictly to the time allowed for him in the programme. His manuscript is not, of course, submitted to anyone, and even the B. B. C. do not know what the King will say until they actually hear the Royal broadcast being given.
 Sitting at his desk in the study, the King will talk not only to Great Britain, but to the Empire.
 The microphones into which he will speak are made of Australian walnut, to match the furniture in the study. Between the two walnut-encased microphones there is a

East Royalty Dramatic Club

The annual meeting of the East Royalty Dramatic Players was held at East Royalty recently and much enthusiasm was shown by all the members present. The election of officers, for the year resulted as follows:
 Hon. President—Emma Holmes.
 President—Dixon Holmes.
 Vice President—Wallace Andrew.
 Secretary—Treasurer—Emma MacLellan.
 Executive—George Harper, Louis Wheatley, Norman MacWilliams.
 The very successful plays formerly staged by the club were reviewed and it was decided to produce "Denham's Three Act Comedy." "George in a Jam" during the present month. The splendid annex recently built on to Harts Hall will have a heater installed at once and some slight changes will be made to the stage and lighting, a larger advertising play program will be printed and important business matters in connection with the club were discussed. The services of J. Austin Trainor were again secured as drama director.
 Parts were given out for the coming play and the evenings selected for rehearsals. Everything points to a very successful year for the East Royalty Dramatic Club.

SOLVE "WHAT'LL WE USE FOR MONEY" PROBLEM

BERKELEY, Calif., Dec. 14—The barter movement reached a new high last night with a wedding complete from minister to music without benefit of cash.
 In promising "I do," 18-year-old Jessie F. Barclay sealed a co-operative contract that made her the barter bride of Roy G. McDonald, 24-year-old truck driver.
 Nearly everything was obtained by barter—the ring, flowers, trousseau, two orchestras, refreshments and parson.
 Jessie and Roy, who promised to take each other by pledging the words of the customary ceremony solved the old problem of "What'll we use for money" by paying off with "credits" earned at the rate of 60 an hour as work members of the Berkeley Self-Help Co-operative.

CHARM SCHOOL AT REHABILITATION CAMP

BOUN DBROOK, N.J., Dec. 14.
 —The New Deal now dispenses charm in easy doses.
 Borrowing from the sub-debs' copybooks, Camp Northover's leaders have organized a course in "charm" — how to acquire personality by conversation, the fundamentals of "attraction," social relations, and the art of living.
 The course, one of a series, is planned to give almost 100 business and professional girls at the rehabilitation camp a chance to forget—and at the same time accomplish—the camp's main purpose.
 The girls do all the house work except the cooking, and they study dressmaking, political science, current events, natural history, stage technique, physical education, sports, typewriting, shorthand, domestic science, music appreciation, arts and crafts, and charm.

NEW VANITIES LOOK LIKE GRANA/AHER'S
 HEAVY GOLD WATCH

CHICAGO, Dec. 14— Grandfather's heavy gold watch is in a comeback—as one of the smartest new designs in woman's vanities.
 With a yellow gold finish, other reproductions are just about the size grandmother might have worn pinned to the front of her dress.
 Another bright idea is a new hand bag mirror one side of which is intended to be used in daylight and the other under electric lights.
 The idea is that the ordinary mirror in the mellowing glow of artificial light isn't quite as frank as it should be.
 New and welcome are the evening vanities that are in themselves party handbags. In their silk-or satin-lined interiors they have separate cigarette case, powder and rouge container, lipstick, comb each in a definite place, plus a compartment for money.

EVEN SANTA'S NOT

DETROIT, Dec. 14—"Santa Claus, what will these little children think when they see you breaking the traffic laws like that?"
 The voice, thundering from a loud speaker installed at a downtown intersection as part of a police safety drive, was that of Patrolman Robert Brown.
 The jay-walking Santa Claus, a store employe, hustled quickly back to the curb on hearing the admonition to wait for the green light.
