further word this morning before leaving for Chicago.

Mrs. Lockhart had a charming personality and had many friends particularly in Kensington where she lived for many years before coming to Summerside who will mourn her passing and she was a staunch member of the United Church and a devoted wife and mother.

The deepest sympathy is extended to Dr. Lockhart and their son, Roy, who is a wireless operator in northern Ontario and their daughter, Miss Enid, at home. Also to Mrs. Frank MacEwen, who has lost a beloved daughter, and to Mrs. Lockhart's brothers, Roy MacEwen in Philadelphia and Arthur MacEwen of Summerside and to her sister, Mrs. Mutter.

FINE PIANO

In this splendid piece, particularly in his authoritative rendition of the fugue, left nothing to be desired. The symphonic Etudes of Schumann, also was excellently played. The piece has a certain rhythm running through it from start to finish, which in the end becomes somewhat insistent. This, however, of course is no fault of the interpreter.

The Nocturne and Barcarolle of Chopin were also very lovely as were also the Brahms numbers and the familiar "Reflets dans l'Eau" which was particularly delightful to listen to. "Triana" is a composition by the modern—but not too modern—Spanish composer Albeniz. Liszt's Mefisto Waltz, and the Schütz-Eveler arrangement of the Blue Danube Waltz, replete as they are with Arpeggios, Scales, Bravura Octave passages and such things, were played by Mr. MacEwen in a manner which displayed to the full his great technical proficiency and which must have been most gratifying to those who enjoy compositions of this nature.

In conclusion it may be said of Mr. MacEwen that he has reached a very high level of artistic achievement and that, if he keeps on as he is doing, he is certain to go very far in his chosen art.

New Catholic Church To Open At Kensington

The blessing and opening of the beautiful new Catholic church situated on Main street, Kensington, will take place next Sunday morning October 3rd, at 10 o'clock when His Excellency Rt. Rev. J. A. O'Sullivan will perform the ceremony, assisted by several members of the Catholic Clergy. The new church is to be known as "The Church of The Holy Family." The splendid edifice, designed by Mr. James E. Harris architect of Charlottetown and built by Mr. S. J. McAulay, Souris is of Gothic architecture, beautifully finished in the interior in Douglas Fir and Flex Boards, giving a graceful appearance to the building which is 70x40 feet, including Sanctuary and vestibule, with a Sacristy 22x18 feet. The interior painting was cleverly and artistically executed by Mr. J. E. Inglis and sons Lorne and Major H. Inglis while the exterior of the building, which is Cedar Shingles, presents a fine appearance in gleaming white with green trimming the work of Mr. Hazelton Gillis of Indian River, Asphalt Shingles are used on the roof. The pews are now being made and will be placed in the near future but in the meanwhile Rev. R. F. MacDonald, Parish Priest of Indian River, to which the Kensington Mission church is attached, will conduct services regularly on Sundays in Kensington at 8.30 a.m. and Indian River at 10 a.m. The grounds around the new church are to be graded shortly in keeping with the lovely building. DESTROY JUNK FLEET

Far to the south, Chinese reported Japanese warships destroyed a fleet of Chinese junk at Swatow. Nanking, China's Capital, had its third day of respite from Japanese bombardment. Officials said they believed Japanese withheld their raiders because of hostile world opinion.

(A Japanese spokesman at Geneva said bombardment of Chinese ports would continue, if necessary, in London, the British Labor Party was understood to plan a demand for an emergency session of parliament as a step toward a world boycott of Japanese goods.

(An informed source in London said British colonial authorities at Hong Kong opened an inquiry into the reported sinking of a fleet of Chinese fishing junks by a Japanese submarine.)

Canton, like Nanking had respite from Japanese bombardment. North of Canton, however, a school, several houses, and a Confucian hall were reported destroyed at Tsingyuen. Civilian casualties there were estimated at 200.

The new force of 200,000 Communists was mustered in Kiangsi Province to meet the Japanese advance through eastern Hopeh to the borders of the coastal province of Shantung.

Japanese bombing planes were active on the Shanghai front, dropping explosives along the whole 25-mile line. Similar raids were carried on at secondary positions on the Nanjang-Kiating front. Shell fragments fell inside the International Settlement.

John Early Baker, director-general of China's National Famine Relief Commission, reported that the present conflict has done more to unite western China with the Central Government than anything in the last 500 years.

liti to withdraw Italian volunteers from Spanish Insurgent army.

Italy's objections to participating in a three-power conference were said to be: The contention that European powers should grant Insurgent belligerent rights before withdrawal of volunteers is considered, and an argument that the European Non-Intervention Committee should deal with the problem.

A British-French invitation to take part in the conference was expected to be sent to Rome tomorrow.

Italian sources said other countries than the three proposed negotiators are interested in the problem. Observers presumed Germany in particular was in the minds of Italians offering this objection.

A counter-proposal which Italy is ready to offer before the Non-Intervention Committee was described by Italian circles as follows:

1. Italy would agree to simultaneous discussion of "volunteers" and belligerency recognition.
2. A commission appointed by the Non-Intervention Committee could go to Spain and negotiate these two questions on the spot.
3. Belligerency recognition would be made conditional on the achievement of progress in withdrawing "volunteers", but the point at which such recognition would be accorded ought to be exactly defined by the London committee.

"British Justice"

Mr. Bentley in a short reply declared that it was the fitting and proper thing for a good citizen to attempt to influence public opinion against the system of justice. If there were grievances against anyone or anything there were proper channels through which they might be taken up and the matter would be investigated by the Chief Justice of Canada.

Earlier in the meeting Mr. Bentley had discussed the legal aspects of the case and declared that "justice untrammelled and disinterested was part of our heritage as British subjects and we don't want to give it up." Today, however, that right was being invaded.

He referred to the impossibility of discussing the details of the individual cases at such a meeting because of the amount of time that would be involved. What was wanted was public support in demanding the right of appeal to an independent tribunal.

A "Gold Mine" Crop

Mr. Bentley referred briefly to Mr. Ranier who received his education in England and came to Canada where he specialized in agriculture in Alberta and later was interested in journalism in Ontario. He became interested in a specialized crop, ginseng, and studied the crop and growing methods for five years. He believed it could be grown in Prince Edward Island and came here and purchased land three years ago. The method of growing, keeping the crop covered by a lattice work of lathes, was referred to briefly. No returns from the crop could be expected for at least five, more possibly six years. Then however, the value was about $20,000 per acre. Or if treated by a special process known to a few of the Chinese, the value could be increased three or four fold.

Mr. Bentley was financing himself and carrying on such experiments and the people of the Province stood to benefit from an industry the profits of which would surpass that of the fox industry.

Mr. Bentley said he presented the matter to the Premier, the Minister of Agriculture and Mr. MacGowan and they listened while he pleaded that the matter should be kept here and that officials said "get out." Mr. Ranier has spent $7000 in carrying out the work and improving the property and in addition had been deprived of a $2000 a year salary, making $17,000. The government had offered him less than $3000 in compensation.

Although nothing of the recommendations of the High Commission had been revealed, he understood Mr. Bentley said that it had recommended that in addition to the value of the property Mr. Ranier be recompensed for the time he had spent.

At an interview with the executive committee some time ago Hon. Mr. LePere had said, referring to Mr. Ranier, "I didn't know it was such a highly valuable business you were in."

The government had offered him $1000 for 20 acres. Mr. Jeremiah Simpson said that included a stream of fresh water and shore rights. He wasn't trying to rob anyone but he could rest for summer cottages a few acres along the shore and make more than that.

On six acres of the property he had oats this year which yielded 60 bushels to the acre. The 14 acres of cultivated land involved was similar in fertility.

Mr. D. L. Mathieson in the course of an address in which he pointed out that an insidious theory was gaining ground, that of uniting the administrative and judicial powers. "It's convenient and it's cheap but it's dictatorship," he declared.

Large areas had been expropriated in Cape Breton for a National Park and the Dominion Act respecting the Nova Scotia and the Prince Edward Island parks. In the former provision was made for the granting of leases to settlers in the cultivated areas. Why didn't the government put that in the Prince Edward Island act? Was it negligence? Don't get the idea that these people are greedy and are looking for money from the government. All they want is to go before an independent tribunal where they and the government can submit evidence.

The Rev. Mr. Tilly said that after hearing the addresses he had no doubt at all that the government would change its policy and give redress. He felt the government must be composed of sensible people. He was not interested in politics but in British fair play.

Earth Shock Felt In New Brunswick

(C. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

FREDERICTON, N. B., Sept. 30—No injuries and only a small amount of minor damage were reported tonight following a light earth shock in New Brunswick early today.

Starting at about 4 a. m., the disturbance was strong enough to awaken a few residents. It started a rock slide at Sugar Loaf Mountain, overlooking Campbellton and toppled a chimney from an old building at West Bathurst.

The tremor was variously reported as lasting from 30 seconds to two minutes. It was felt at Fredericton in central New Brunswick, Moncton in the east and Bathurst and Campbellton in the north. Saint John and other southern districts were unaware of the shock.

Previous lighter tremors at 11.15 p. m. and 3 a. m. were unofficially reported at Bathurst. The next one shook houses, rattled windows and broke dishes. Farmers said the disturbance terrified livestock.

LOYALISTS PUSH DRIVE

Claim Successes In Offensive On Aragon Front.

(A. P. by Guardian's Special Wire)

HENRY D. YEA, Franco-Spanish Frontier, Sept. 30—Spanish Government officers said tonight that insurgents were rushing heavy reinforcements into Jaca, near the French border, to meet an unchecked Spanish Government drive less than 20 miles away.

Recent threats the French border may be opened to munitions shipments for Government forces gave the railroad centre at Jaca strategic importance.

Further south on the Aragon front Government troops advanced to within 11 miles of Zaragoza, key city at the confluence of the Ebro and Gallego Rivers. Fifty government airplanes launched an offensive in the Zuera sector, a few miles north of Zaragoza.

The Government drive in the Aragon, which is designed in part to relieve pressure of insurgents in Asturias Province to the west, virtually has encircled Sabiñanigo to the northeast and has cut that town off from Jaca, the Government said.

The Government said that in four days its northwest advance had covered about 70 square miles. Government airplanes raised a dozen insurgent territory in Asturias Province, setting fire to several towns.

Prolong Closing Of N. B. Schools

FREDERICTON, N. B. Sept. 30 (CP)—Development of seven new cases and a fifth postponement of school opening marked the infantile paralysis situation in New Brunswick today. The school closing will continue until at least Oct. 12, with children under 16 banned from attending public gatherings until then.

Four children in Saint John, two in Gloucester County and an adult in King's County raised the total provincial case list to 119. All the new cases were in early stages and none showed paralysis. Announcement was made that night classes at the Saint John Vocational School would start Oct. 13.
