One-Pound Baby Breaks Record

LONDON, Nov. 3.—Weighing only one pound at birth, an infant, which appeared the other day in a household at Cadogan Terrace, Victoria Park, Hackney, is the lightest in the world.

She is a twin daughter of Mrs. Cox. Her sister, who weighed thirty-one pounds, died soon after birth. The baby is declared to be thriving. Mrs. Clarke, her grandmother, describing how she is faring, said:

"I wrapped her in cotton wool, covered her with a woolen shawl and put her in a sewing machine box. I put in hot water bottles and placed the box before the fire, which is kept going day and night. She is bathed with oil several times a day. Her feet are so small that they could be covered by a pair of doll's shoes."

A doctor said: "Only one other case of a one pound baby who survived is on record in medical literature. The average weight at birth is eight pounds."

SAVING FLOWER SEEDS.

Why not save seeds of the favorite annuals instead of buying each year? Few seeds one buys will germinate as well as those home-grown, and some of the finest flowers will require the best of germinations to produce well. The seeds bought of poppies seldom give a nice bed without a great amount of pecking, while one can save a handful of seeds from a few plants and not have much trouble getting a stand from them. It is much the same with other sorts. Very few double flowers will seldom bear seeds. Balsams, Potunias, rose moss, and stacks belong to this class, but it is only necessary to save some of the finest colors among the singles and semi-final doubles and let them grow with the seeds borne by them will produce the finest double blooms. Balsams will come about one-third double. The writer has seen rose moss (portulacca) come double for several years from seeds that would self sow and come up volunteer each year. It is advisable to weed out the poor colors and most of the singles each year and the blooms will get finer where given good soil and culture.

With most of the garden flowers by saving only the best colors a better variety of color may be produced. Seeds of four-o'clocks yielding mostly solid yellows and reds have been changed into seeds producing many shades and variations and much more beautiful than the original. The same has been done with snapdragons.

Ghostly Outline of An Albino Deer Unnerved Hunter.

(Special to The Guardian.) SARANAC LAKE, Nov. 3.—The first albino deer to be seen in Adirondacks this season has been sighted near Ampersand Mountain. Several hunters and others have seen the buck's ghostly outline, and have been so startled by the strange creature, they have been unable to raise their rifles to shoot.

Dick Disco was one of the hunters suddenly confronted by the white deer, and admits that it so unnerved him that he was unable to raise his rifle to his shoulder. Disco's story of sighting the white deer is corroborated by William Harrington, an observer on the mountain peak. Another hunter saw the deer at dusk of an evening. The animal, as it stood in the murk of the woods, appeared as though carved of marble.

Public Punishment Is Now Advocated

(Special to The Guardian.) ST THOMAS, Nov. 3.—The introduction of public punishment, such as the stocks and the ducking stool, as used in the old days, is advanced by Judge D.C. Ross of the Elkin County Court, as the means of curbing the wave of lawlessness that has been sweeping the country. Judge Ross does not think such punishment should be carried to extremes but he considers a little of it would do no harm and much good. He is also a firm advocate of the lash as a crime deterrent and has expressed his determination to order such punishment if occasion demands it. "I think we will meet follow the example of our forefathers, and use some of the methods that have been discarded," said His Honor.

Another Island Child Cured

The wonderful healing power of the Farador is again proven by the letter of a trustworth lady.

Southport, P. E. I. Nov. 2, 1922

Dear Sir—It is a pleasure to add my name to the long list of those who have found the Farador a real help in overcoming various forms of ill health. My little grand child was a great sufferer from bronchitis almost from her birth and we were at a loss to find a remedy. Having heard of the Farador's splendid record in the cure of such ailments, we decided to give it a trial. The child gradually improved and I can now conscientiously say that she is entirely cured.

I give this statement from a deep sense of gratitude and in order that others may know where best to turn for help in time of illness.

MRS. J. H. MANSON
The foregoing is addressed to W. E. Dunham, Farador Representative, 138 Hillsborough St., Charlottetown. Phone 787—J.

Minister Sleeps As Jury is Picked

(Special to The Guardian.) STATESBORO, Ga., Nov. 3.—Rev. Elliott Padrick, youthful Methodist minister, spent on trial today charged with first degree murder in connection with the killing of his wife and mother-in-law last June 9. A plea of insanity will be the defense. The prosecution said it would attempt to prove that Padrick lured the two women to a lonely road in the country where he killed them. Padrick says he was driven to the crime by the alleged indiscretions of his wife.

Padrick entered court this morning in a hand and took a seat at the table with his counsel, where he adjusted his chair to a comfortable position and went to sleep. He continued to slumber throughout the selection of a jury. Before court opened, he told friends he intended to preach a sermon to the jury as his defense statement, taking as his text the passage from the scriptures, "thy neighbor's wife" and the seventh commandment.

Queen Inspires Woman Nominee

(Special to The Guardian.) GREENSBORO, N.C., Nov. 3.—Queen Marie of Roumania taught Mrs. Lindsay Patterson of Winston-Salem, N.C., Republican candidate for the Lower House of Congress from the 5th North Carolina District, to be a politician. So says Mrs. Patterson, who is conducting a strong campaign. It was admiration of the Queen, the way she managed Roumania, a glimpse of which was given Mrs. Patterson when she visited Europe after the World War, that put the legislative bug to buzzing in her bonnet. She is the first woman to run for a seat in Congress from North Carolina. It is a queer sort of contest that she and Major Charles M. Stedman of Greensboro, the Democratic incumbent, are making. Beauty and chivalry are contestants, with the weapons bouquets, not bricksbats, each trying to outdo the other in saying nice things. Major Stedman, who is a real type of that generally mythical personage, "the Southern gentleman of the old school," couldn't say anything except something nice about a woman if he tried. He is Preparing Beets.

Always boil beets without cutting so they will not bleed and become tough. When tender put them under cold water until cold enough to handle and then rub the skins off with the hands. Choose cabbage by weight rather than size. A pinch of salt adds more flavor to the coffee. Bruise the upper crust of the pie with fresh milk to make it shiny and brown. Stand the potatoes in hot water for a few minutes before baking if you wish them to cook quickly. The coarse stalks of celery need not be thrown into the garbage but added to soup will give a fine flavor. Tarnish From Eggs. Rub a little salt on the spoons tarnished from eggs and then wash in soap and water, drying on a soft cloth. All tarnish will be removed. For the Home Typist. If, when typing an envelope or card, one wishes to fill the spaces down to the very end, by clipping the top to a larger sheet of paper, it will be prevented from slipping out.

Mother and Her Baby Are Relieved of Eczema

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Salt Lake, writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment has relieved me of eczema and piles. I used this Ointment for my baby, who was out in eczema. A few applications of that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me—before using it I had spent a deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Chase's other medicines, the Nervine having restored my health after I was from severe nerve trouble when a girl."
