

WOMAN OF FORTY VICTIM OF CONSTIPATION

Mrs. Fannie White of 678 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Almost every morning, for the last five years I suffered with sick headaches. I felt this was due to nervousness, never dreaming that faulty intestinal elimination caused my suffering. I felt wretched, my appetite was gone, I lost interest in preparing my meals, life was not worth living. A few days' treatment of Pills worked wonders. They are small, easy to take—no griping—and leave pleasant after effects."

WINTER FLOWERING BULBS.—(Experimental Farms Note.) Hyacinths, tulips and narcissi can be grown successfully for winter bloom with very little care, if planted now. A good friable garden soil, with a little sand added for thorough drainage, is satisfactory. The desired number of pots should be obtained in the following sizes: four and one-half inch for hyacinths, one bulb to a pot; five-inch for tulips, five bulbs to a pot; and six-inch for narcissi, three or four bulbs to a pot. Other containers can be used satisfactorily, provided there is a hole in the bottom for drainage. First place bits of broken pots or small flat stones in the bottom of the pot to facilitate drainage, then partly fill the pot with soil well pressed. Place the bulbs nose down on this cover with soil and press firmly all around with the tips of the fingers. When finished the tips of the bulbs should be just showing and the soil should be about one-half inch from the top of the pot.

After potting, a thorough watering should be given, filling the pots with soil and press firmly all around with the tips of the fingers. When finished the tips of the bulbs should be just showing and the soil should be about one-half inch from the top of the pot. From six to eight weeks is required for root formation. About the first of December those bulbs buried outdoors should be brought into the cellar, otherwise they may become frozen. If flowers are wanted, the bulbs may be planted in boxes and treated as described for pot culture.

The best way to understand our fellow men is to see them through the medium of goodwill. A happy heart lightens your own life and every one with whom you come in contact. Don't be discouraged if slandered by others. Remember that birds always peck at the choicest fruit.

relary of Commerce in the Coolidge administration, has played a prominent part in them, but recent insistence of Washington that Canada's alleged illegal diversion at Niagara Falls be investigated after Canada had secured the Chicago diversion has raised a doubt as to the friendliness of the Coolidge party for the St. Lawrence scheme. Would the Democrats, if successful, manifest a more generous attitude toward the project.

As previously announced the G. W. V. A. are holding their annual Armistice Dance in the Prince of Wales College Hall on Monday evening, November 10.

It is a fact well known by those who have attended functions conducted by this Association that they have always been of a first order and have always been prepared for in the best way possible. The same will hold good for this years affair for which elaborate preparations have been made. The hall will be beautifully decorated, the floor is one of the best if not the best in the city and the music will be provided by the Casino Orchestra, the playing of which is unsurpassed in this city. This years dance which promises to be the best yet will be looked forward to by lovers of dancing and a record attendance is expected.

By attending, you will not only be celebrating the signing of the armistice but will also be helping an organization which is highly recognized for the charitable work it has been performing during the past number of years.

Christian Unity

this very pertinent interpretation of this text: "This text is often cited by those who seek to promote the union of churches. But we find it belongs to a very different category and of a much higher region. That all churches should adopt similar government, should adopt the same creed, should use the same forms of worship, even if possible is not supremely desirable; but real unity of sentiment towards Christ and of zeal to promote His will is supremely desirable. Christ's will is not the will of the universe and can be fulfilled only by endless varieties of dispositions, functions, organizations, labours. We must expect that as time goes on, so far from being contracted, it will be more and more increasing diversities of thought and of method and will be more and more differentiated in all outward respects. If the infinitely comprehensive purposes of God are to be fulfilled, it is not by uniformity, will exhibit in increasing diversities of thought and of method and will be more and more differentiated in all outward respects. If the infinitely comprehensive purposes of God are to be fulfilled, it is not by uniformity, will exhibit in increasing diversities of thought and of method and will be more and more differentiated in all outward respects.

There were other grounds of interpretation besides the merely scriptural. When we turn to the other teachings and examples of Christ's spirit and method we certainly find no justification for the formation of a huge ecclesiastical legal corporation. "He promised to be with the two or three gathered in His name." "He was to be worshipped not merely in Jerusalem or in the mountain holy to the Samaritans but wherever anyone called upon Him in sincerity and truth." We should remember that it was organized religion who put Christ to death and that His followers He gave not the spirit of a uniform restraint but an individual liberty and freedom to seek to do the will of the Father in all things and in all places, without needs and fashion. Mr. Mulligan claimed no particular knowledge of the mind of His Master but nevertheless in all his studies of the New Testament he had not found any teaching which led him to believe that Jesus willed all men should think and act and worship alike. Rather more was it in the opposite direction. When His disciples (M.A.R. 9, 23) complained about the man who was doing good in the name of Christ by casting out devils but did not follow with them they were told to "Forbid him not" and "He that is not against us is on our part."

There was a third factor to be considered in the consideration of this matter. What had been the teaching of experience in the history of the Christian church? But the speaker's opinion it had not been such as to warrant the contention that we should return to corporate union. A comparison of the religious life of Britain and America with their numerous denominational churches most certainly showed a religious vitality, zeal and generosity the superior in many respects to the religious life of other lands, both Catholic and Protestant where the corporate idea of the church was still maintained. Even the students of today who were supposed to be Orthodox Union enthusiasts if not Unionist speakers were to be taken as authoritative had changed from the Y. M. C. A. to the Students' Christian Movement. Showing that not only did the students do their own thinking but they did their own choosing.

Moreover the claims of Organic Unionists implied that the Reformation had outlived its usefulness. He had listened to men deny the Reformation—Presbyterian and Methodist teachers and leaders—"The Reformation was a mistake." "The Reformation was a crime." It was high time that a protest were entered against such an attitude of mind.

The speaker believed the Reformation was a movement of God if ever there was one for it not only created modern Protestantism but was a means of purifying Catholicism. We should remember that not only was there "The Reformation" but there was "The counter-Reformation."

Again "The Inquisition" was in substance a movement and a method to keep the organic unity of the church. So was St. Bartholomew's Day, the persecutions of the Waldenses, the Act of Uniformity, the Conventicle Acts and the Covenanting Persecutions of Scotland. The sailing of the Mayflower was due to the desire to keep organic unity in England. All these only show us today the futility of endeavouring by legis-

Energy for Men in Fry's

A DAILY cup of FRY'S Cocoa will do wonders in giving that energy of body and clearness of mind you need for a good day's work.

To read the analysis of FRY'S Cocoa is ready to believe the claims of Dr. Andrew Wilson, F.R.S.E., Dr. Robt. Hutchison and many other scientists, that it is the nearest thing to "liquid energy" that exists in the world to-day. Food for every department of the human body, and Nature's kindest stimulant for heart and nerve—theobromine—is found in FRY'S. Tea and coffee are mere flavours but FRY'S is a complete food.

FRY'S has that delicate "chocolate" flavour that comes only from a blend of the choicest cocoa beans and the experience of 200 years.

Remember: "Nothing will do but FRY'S."

Worth $100 to Me Relieved Eczema and Piles

Mrs. Peter A. Palmer, Saltburn, Sask., writes:

"Dr. Chase's Ointment has completely relieved me of eczema and piles. I also used this Ointment for my baby, who broke out in eczema. A few applications were all that was necessary in her case. Dr. Chase's Ointment has been worth a hundred dollars to me,—before using it I had spent a great deal more than that in unsuccessful treatment from doctors. We have also used Dr. Chase's other medicines, the Nerve Food having restored my health after suffering from severe nerve trouble when a girl."

Conference To Combat Opium Smoking

(Canadian Press.) GENEVA, Nov. 3.—The international opium conference today began under the auspices of the League of Nations its task of devising means of checking opium smoking.

The conference, representation at which is confined to Far Eastern countries where opium smoking is prevalent and to those countries which have far eastern possessions is the precursor of a second and more important international consideration of the opium question which will open November 17 with wider participation. The present meeting is expected to furnish the second one with an estimate of just how much opium is used for smoking purposes so that the meeting on the 17th may be enabled to formulate measures limiting the production of opium and narcotic drugs to the extent needed for medical and scientific purposes. The nations represented today were Great Britain, China, France, India, Japan, Holland, Portugal and Siam.

There were certain other factors which should be considered. Did a legal corporation union necessarily mean "unity of the spirit." We might easily point to parties in other churches where there were distinct cleavages in spirit though not in organization. But there was no need to go outside one's own church. Presbyterianism in Canada was one so far as organization was concerned but today it was as divided as if they were almost separate. In fact there were not a few able thinkers who held a clear cut division were better for all concerned.

In conclusion the speaker stated he had no wish to dictate to or coerce any one. But nevertheless he had no wish to be dictated to or coerced by anyone or any body of the Christian church? But the speaker's opinion it had not been such as to warrant the contention that we should return to corporate union. A comparison of the religious life of Britain and America with their numerous denominational churches most certainly showed a religious vitality, zeal and generosity the superior in many respects to the religious life of other lands, both Catholic and Protestant where the corporate idea of the church was still maintained.
