HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER

Apply glycerine to a scald directly the accident occurs and cover it up with strips of rag soaked in glycerine.

Flannels that have become hard and shrunken may be restored to their former softness by soaking in gasoline.

Allow the children to eat almonds. One dozen blanched almonds are equal to about one pound of round steak in nutritive value.

If the top of the kerosene lamp becomes loosened, it may often be effectually tightened by applying a little melted alum.

When the sickroom is being ventilated, a screen should be placed in front of the window to prevent danger of a draught.

When storing cutlery, wipe the blades lightly with a little vaseline Before using, wash in soda water and clean in the usual way.

* * *

When you wash your door panels of lace or net applique to fit the door glass, tack them on the door to dry and they will keep their shape.

To make jam marmalade look clear without skimming it, add a piece of butter the size of an egg before removing the fruit from the fire.

Tarnished silver can be brightened if placed for a short time in boiling water in which a fair-sized lump of washing soda has been dissolved.

A weak solution of carbolic acid applied carefully to ink stains on carpets will remove them. If this changes the color it may be restored by ammonia water.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

SAVE YOUR HAIR! GET A 25 CENT BOTTLE OF DANDERINE RIGHT NOW.

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scruf.

There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not reminded causes the hair roots to shrink, losen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—now—anytime —will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance; an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair— new hair—growing all over the scalp.

AN AMAZING DIVORCE

French Countess Legally Separated Without Knowing Anything About it

A remarkable divorce case, which surely has no parallel in fiction or fact, aroused great attention in Paris.

A lady, described as the Comtesse de B., aged twenty-seven, and living apparently very happily with her husband, was divorced by him without her knowing anything about it. The count succeeded in legally severing the marriage tie without letting her know of it, and actually gave a dinner, with his wife, to a number of friends on the day when the divorce was pronounced by the courts.

Pushing his audacity still further, the count, while continuing to live with the countess, became engaged to marry another lady of great wealth, and had the banns published also before the countess became aware of it. The secret leaked out quite accidentally. A lawyer who was a friend of the countess, met her on the street, and inquired what she planned to do. She was mystified and could hardly be persuaded that the man had seen the papers in the case. Determined to know the truth, she went to the town where her marriage had taken place. There she found her divorce inscribed at the registry. Returning to Paris she found the banns published of the forthcoming marriage of the count. She immediately asked to have a stay in the proceedings. It was too late, the courts told her. The papers had all been duly signed by her, and the divorce had become effective.

Light now dawned upon the countess. She had had a blind, implicit faith in her husband, whose word she had never seen any reason to doubt. One day after luncheon he had told her that he had great worry of mind about some business undertaking of his which was on the point of failing. The only hope that he could see of saving the situation was to apply for a separation of property. In order to obtain this she would on a certain day be asked to go to the house of a friend, and there a process server would present her with a legal summons to sign the papers presented to her, and say she was satisfied. This she did and the count's way was clear.

Too Unhappy at Nine

In the pocket of a nine-year-old boy named René Raymond, who hanged himself at Clamart, near Paris, was found a piece of paper bearing the words: "I am too unhappy; I shall hang myself."

Raymond was a victim of neurasthenia, and feared he would never recover.

WHEN AND HOW TO REST

Everyone, no matter what his or her occupation, requires a certain amount of rest regularly. Part of this is of course taken during the night, but a part ought to find a place during their waking hours. Many people make the mistake of thinking that rest is a rynonym for idleness, but some of the best and most refreshing forms of rest keep people occupied, writes a physician to the Sheffield Independent. It would, indeed, be almost truer to say that rest is a change of work more often than it is idleness. The man engaged in absorbing menial work, for example, may feel immensely benefitted if he makes a point of doing regularly some manual labor, especially if this be of a kind that can be done in the open air. This is where a hobby is so valuable either for men or for women. Women are quite as much in need of rest that shall be a refreshment as men. They are often too much tethered in the narrow bounds of the home, not getting there so much change as a man does by merely going out to his daily work and coming in contact with other people, exchanging ideas and opinions, hearing news and so on.

Many a woman becomes a nervous wreck more from the monotonous character of her daily life than from the actual labor it involves. She might have been saved years of misery if she had but learned how to rest. Fifteen minutes spent in a comfortable chair with the newspaper after lunch would give her something fresh to think about. A book read just chapter by chapter every day provides something to look forward to, and a sustained interest. It is a mistake for a woman to give up her music, her painting or anything else in which she is interested on her marriage. She needs recreation, and as she may not always be able to take it in the form of going out to entertainments, certainly that will be impossible if she has children, she should guard against boredom by keeping interest in some pursuit. Rest for certain people and in certain cases really should be as near complete idleness as possible, but this is by no means true of the majority of healthy persons. For them the best rest is a change of occupation which brings into play muscles and mental processes not much used in the work on which they depend for their daily bread, since this, it is to be, presumed, demands the greater part of their time.

ANÆMIA IS BLOOD POVERTY

cheeks and lips become pale, the body is languid and colds are easily contracted—it undermines the very source of health and must have immediate treatment.

Drugs or alcoholic mixtures cannot make blood. Nourishment is necessary and Scott's Emulsion is always the physicians' favorite—its concentrated medical nourishment charges the blood with red corpuscles, feeds the famished tissues and carries food value to every tiny nerve and fibre in a natural, easy way.

Take Scott's Emulsion to enrich your blood but shun the alcoholic substitutes.
