Continue Search For Quebec Youth

VAL D'OR, Que., July 8 (CP)—A party of Algonquin and Cree Indians, searching for Gillis Gray, agreed today that they would send up smoke signals should any of them find the 16-year-old youth who disappeared since June 25. The 25 Indians, all experienced guides, volunteered to come from near Jackson's Landing to help in the search in which hundreds of townspeople from the Central and Boreal regions have taken part.

Pocket-sized Earthquake?

EXETER, Ont., July 8 (CP)—A possible pocket-sized earthquake rumbled through the town of this Western Ontario centre today, but left no clear indication of its origin.

Residents reported that buildings swayed shortly after noon to the accompaniment of loud subterranean rumblings, but the fact neighboring communities experienced no such disturbances left doubt that a quake actually had occurred.

No damage was reported.

The tremor—if it was a tremor—apparently was confined to the centre of town. Nothing was felt at nearby Central Air Station, nor at a store a mile from the business section. Several construction gangs were at work in the area, but none was blasting.

Recount Requests Made In Four Federal Ridings

QUEBEC, July 8 (CP)—Requests were before the Superior Court today for judicial recounts in the ridings of Dorchester and Hesse-de-Madeline on behalf of the two Progressive Conservative candidates in the June 27 Federal election. The recounts are expected to start Monday.

The applicants are Gerard Courville, defeated by 257 votes by Liberal Leonard Tremblay in Dorchester, and Pierre Sevigny, who lost to Liberal Charles Cannon by 60 votes in Hesse-de-Madeline. It is alleged in the case of the Dorchester riding that 100 ballots were erroneously rejected and the vote count was incorrect. The petition claims that in one poll 242 votes were counted when only 239 persons voted.

MONTREAL, July 8 (CP)—A petition seeking a judicial recount of votes in the June 27 Federal election in Montreal-Papineau was granted today by Mr. Justice Hector Perrier in Superior Court.

The final count reported by the returning officer gave Mayor Camille Houde, who ran as an Independent, a plurality of 85 over J. A. Meunier, Liberal.

The petition was made in the name of Leo Ferrault, a resident of Chambray Street, and the necessary deposit of $102 was made.

Mr. Justice Perrier said July 12 for the judicial recount at which he will preside.

REGINA, July 8 (CP)—Application for a recount of ballots cast in Regina City riding in the June 27 Federal election was made today by C.C.F. officials.

The C.C.F. candidate, J. O. Probe, member of the last House, lost to Dr. E. A. McCusker, Liberal, by an 86-vote margin in official returns announced Monday.

In announcing they have asked for a recount, C.C.F. officials said they are also considering taking further action under the Controverted Elections Act. They charged that at several polls, electors were sworn in on election day contrary to regulations. They also said the Dominion Government had withheld "necessary information" regarding the service vote.

Bishop Boyle Home From Europe In Good Health

"Conditions in Europe were very much better than what we had expected," stated the Most Rev. James Boyle, Bishop of Charlottetown, in an interview last night following his return from an extended visit to European countries including Italy, where in Rome he paid his Ad Limina visit and had a private audience with His Holiness Pope Pius XII.

Enjoying very good health, His Excellency had a pleasant visit. He spent the first month in Rome where he rested considerably and regained the weight he had lost during last spring's sickness.

From Rome he proceeded to Portugal and thence to France, England, Ireland and Scotland.

Although he was surprised at the existing conditions of the European countries, His Excellency felt that the recovery problem was being made more difficult by the influx of refugees into the larger centres. Citing Rome as an example, where he was ordained in 1913, he said the population had quadrupled since that time and had doubled since the war.

His Excellency was also impressed by the willingness of the people.

P. E. I. Women's Institutes Conclude 36th Convention

Makes Plea For New Thinking In World Affairs

"We have taken a tuck in time and a plea in space and if we are to live comfortably in the world of today, we must let out the seams of our thinking," quoted Mrs. Raymond Sayre of Iowa, International President of the associated Country Women of the World in her address at the public meeting of the Prince Edward Island Women's Institutes convention.

Introduced as "one of the best women in the U.S., Mrs. Sayre spoke to the "Qualifications for World Citizenship," of which she mentioned five: first, to understand and realize our interdependence in the world; second, to understand the implications of this interdependency; third, to acquire the exceptional patience needed to live within our closer relationships in the world; fourth, to actively promote goodwill and understanding and finally, to realize that international relations begin with ourselves.

Opening her address, Mrs. Sayre said she was amazed at the work of the Institutes on the Island. Paraphrasing the famous words of Churchill she continued: "Never have I seen so many things done by so few with so little."

The International President at times convulsed her audience with humorous anecdotes and anecdotes. She urged rural people to "throw off the 'can't-have-it' complex and replace it with a 'can-have-it' determination by working together.

"The fundamental problem of the world today is to get food to people who may not be able to pay for it," she continued.

"Food means life to millions and has tremendous political power. In

Stowaway Determined Not To Return To Europe

MONTREAL, July 8 (CP)—A young Austrian passport clerk who threatened to kill himself if he was sent back to Europe, today was granted a 15-minute stay of a deportation order.

The reprieve came for Robert Radowicz, 22-year-old Austrian, and his Polish friend, Paul Rasalski, who shortly before they were to be put aboard the Swiss freighter Anunciada on which they reached Canada as stowaways last Wednesday.

Radowicz, who claimed to have helped 1,200 of his countrymen escape from behind the Iron Curtain, and his friend hid aboard the Anunciada in Antwerp and were granted asylum in Canada.

They applied for asylum in Canada and were put aboard the Anunciada scheduled to sail tonight, they were told they would be allowed to remain in Canada while authorities studied their appeal against the deportation order.

If they are turned down a second time, they probably will be sent back to Antwerp when the Anunciada calls here again in five weeks.

Radowicz, 22-year-old clerk who claims to have used his position to help refugees escape the Russian occupation zone of Austria, told a reporter: "I can't go back. I'll kill myself before they take me back on the ship. Please, do something quickly for me if you can."

One-Legged Air Cadet Hopes To Learn To Dance

MONTREAL, July 8 (CP)—Sixteen-year-old Jimmie Dawson of Saint John, N.B., may have only one leg—but officers of the R.C.A.F. 436 Squadron are betting that soon he will realize his ambition to learn to dance.

Jimmie came to the squadron Thursday night as a week-end guest while being fitted for a new artificial leg. A bond, slim boy, he said that up to now his hobby has been collecting stamps, but once the leg is fitted he wants to learn dancing.

"My sister will teach me," he said. "After all, that is what sisters are for."

Ten years ago Jimmie was hit by a car. The accident forced the amputation of his right leg, just above the knee. He was unable to work, could do little for him but Jimmie continued his schooling—now he is in grade nine.

A year ago he joined the Air Cadets. He was so interested in getting around the base with his camera this morning that he took nearly a dozen officers and several newspaper men to track him down for an interview.

He gets around on an artificial leg he received in 1945. But now it is getting a little small as it has grown a lot in the last four

Canadian, British and U. S. Experts Meet In London

LONDON, July 8 (CP)—An "excellent" atmosphere prevailed here today as Canadian, British and United States financial experts opened preliminary talks on ways and means of easing the financial tension between the world's sterling and dollar areas.

Talks ranged over the whole field of the sterling area's gold and dollar position but delegates maintained silence as to details. Import and export trade between the sterling and dollar areas was an important subject.

Britain Continues Grain Deal With Russia

LONDON, July 8 (CP)—Britain has agreed to import some 35,000,000 bushels of coarse grains and a quantity of wheat from Russia during the next year, official sources said today.

Officials said the deal represents no change in policy, since Britain bought about 6,000,000 bushels of coarse grains from Russia last year under a pact concluded in December, 1947.

Under the new agreement, said to have been initiated in Moscow a few days before Sir Stafford Cripps "dollar" statement, Britain will send Russia machinery and other equipment badly needed by the Soviets.

It is understood "the next year" will begin when the agreement is formally signed.

While the pact involves no new policy, it involves a new grain—wheat—which Britain has been buying from Canada and the United States for dollars, with the gold and dollar reserves running low. Britain has been seeking sources of supply in non-dollar areas.

Russia and Soviet-satellite countries are demanding a large payment. Rather than dollars they need industrial machinery. Britain, on the other hand, finds it difficult to sell such goods to dollar countries.

British officials did not say how much wheat is involved except that it is a "big amount." In reply to questions, they said that as "a matter of course" Britain will furnish Russia with no items of potential military value.

GRANTED REPRIEVE

MONTREAL, July 8 (CP)—Marcel Marcotte, 38-year-old lingerie salesman under sentence to be hanged July 22 for the murder of his friend Marcel Boileau, today was granted a stay of execution until November 1.

The body of the 44-year-old Boileau was found half-buried in a north-end field early in 1947.

Awards Presented At Canadian Authors Banquet

HALIFAX, July 8 (CP)—The Governor-General's awards for the best literature produced in Canada in 1948 were presented at the annual banquet of the Canadian Authors' Association here tonight.

Col. C. P. Stacey of Ottawa, chief army historian, received the academic non-fiction award for "The Canadian Army 1939-1945."

Col. Stacey said he accepted the award as a tribute to the book to which many had contributed and not as an award to himself. He mentioned Capt. Joseph Engler of Ottawa as one of the team of historians that helped to produce the book. Capt. Engler was killed in action.

The creative non-fiction award went to Thomas H. Raddall of Liverpool, N.S., for his book "Half-Way Warden of the North." Mr. Raddall said he accepted the award with "great humility." Posterity would be the final judge of the merit of his writing.

A. M. Klein of Montreal won the poetry award with his "The Rocking Chair And Other Poems." He was not present to receive the award.

Hugh MacLennan of Montreal was awarded the prize for the best novel during the night and there is an inherent sense of responsibility in Canada authors which critics throughout the world recognize. Canadian authors have respect for fact when writing fiction.

Roderick Haig-Brown of Vancouver won the award for the best juvenile book: "Salt Water Summer." He was not present.

All prizes were presented by Premier Macdonald of Nova Scotia, deputizing for the Governor-General. Chairman was Will R. Bird of Halifax, president of the Association.

Large Barn Burned At Carleton Siding

A large barn, the property of Arthur MacMillan, Carleton Siding, was completely destroyed last night in a fire which caused considerable damage to another nearby barn. A henhouse complete with hens was also saved through the efforts of the bucket brigade.

The barn contained a large amount of hay which was lost. The small shed nearby which was used for storing machinery was saved through the efforts of a water brigade. The neighbors around the MacMillan farm formed the brigade and their efforts were aided by a wind which was blowing away from the house and shed.

The fire started around eight o'clock and was put out around ten p.m. The origin of the fire was not known at the time of writing. The barn was partially covered by insurance.

Aphids Threaten 300,000 Acres Of Grain In West

WINNIPEG, July 8 (CP)—Grasshopper control committee held an emergency meeting yesterday to discuss combat plans. Experiments are being conducted today on the best ways to rid the fields of the pests.

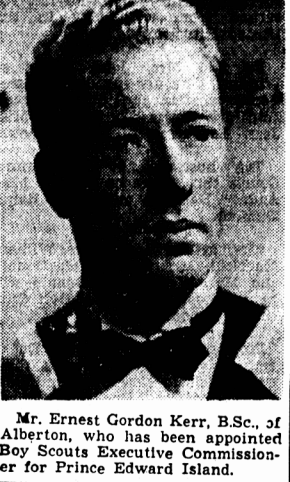

Tests with a phosphorous compound were said to have been satisfactory. However, the compound is under import restrictions and supplies presently in this country are insufficient to permit large-scale spraying operations.

However, agricultural officials said word has been received by the Provincial Government that Ottawa will relax import restrictions so additional supplies can be brought in from the United States to meet the current emergency.

The insects working on the underside of plant foliage, destroy leaves and the plants weaken and die in a manner similar to those suffering from a severe attack of leaf rust. The aphids are believed to have invaded Manitoba from South and North Dakota.

Flight against the insects was said to be hampered by lack of suitable poison. The Manitoba

Gov't Threatens To Declare State Of Emergency

By MICHAEL O'MARA
LONDON, July 8 (CP)—London dockers today boycotted a secret ballot held by their union to determine whether the union would return to work or continue the tie-up which has brought to a virtual standstill the port of the world's largest city.

Meanwhile the Government threatened to call a state of national emergency if work is not in full swing again by Monday morning.

While these developments took place, more troops went to work in the dockyards. They moved perishable food cargoes while another 1,400 laborers quit work, some in support of the Canadian Seaman's Union in its battle against Canadian ship owners and the Seafarers' International Union, others in protest against service labor being employed in the docks.

The National Dockworkers' Board gave these figures: Idle ships, 105; under-manned ships, 7; Dockers out, 10,213.

The Stevedores' Union which staged the ballot numbers about 600 members but the final result of the poll was for resumption, 338; against, 169. Twenty-five voting ships were declared spoiled and the balance of the membership just didn't vote.

Before the result was known, Home Secretary J. Chuter Ede told the House of Commons that the Government had decided that unless the port is fully working, without discrimination between ships, by Monday morning, they will advise His Majesty to issue a proclamation under the Emergency Powers Act of 1920 declaring that a state of emergency exists.

Union spokesmen made no comment on the strike vote or on the threat of royal intervention. The dockers declare the stoppage is a lockout, since the Dock Labor Board has refused to call for workers to unload any ships until 7.
