A VISIT TO BROWNE LAND

Commissioner Miss I. Arsenault and Mrs. Jenkins were received into the Land of the "Pixies, Elves and Kelpies" on Thursday at Central Royalty. The purpose of the visit was to judge the singing game for the Browne Shield; the Browns put on a wonderful entertainment, making the judging very difficult. The visitors were welcomed at the door by Sixers, Marian Clark, Anne McMillan and Marion Nichol and escorted to decorated chairs by Anne Carr and Susan Morrison. These little Browns were perfect hostesses and deserve high praise for their charming manners. A general and enthusiastic welcome was given by all the Pack.

A Browne story was told by Mrs. Jenkins while the little girls recovered their breath after singing so heartily. Decorated ladies of candy were presented to the guests who thanked the Browns. Brown Owl Mrs. Osborne and Tawny Owl Miss G. Nichol distributed candy from a surprise silver box and the Browns sang the goodnight song and ran away home. All the other Browne Packs are surely going to have to do well, so practice hard Browns. It may be your turn next.

IN MEMORIAM

MISS FANNIE ROGERSON

Quietly as the beautiful shades of the evening of March 2nd, 1949, were gradually deepening into velvety darkness the gentle spirit of Miss Fannie Rogerson, Victoria, winged its flight heavenward, the news of which cast a shadow of deep sadness over the entire community as it became known that Fannie had somewhat suddenly after an illness of only a few days. She had taken ill on the Sunday previous to her death and the following day went to the home of relatives in the village of Crapaud, Mr. and Mrs. Avred MacVittie where she received medical attention and was lovingly cared for by their daughter Miss Lolita who was a devoted and loving companion of the deceased and where everything possible was done for her comfort until the end of her sojourn here on earth. She went quietly through life bearing sorrows that came to her during late years with a resignation to God's will she being the last member of a family of four to answer the call within the short space of three years and nine months. They were the family of the late Adam Rogerson and his wife Mary Imman Rogerson of Victoria. Fannie will be greatly missed by her neighbours in Victoria and by many friends and acquaintances for she possessed the happy knack of making friends and keeping them. Her cosy home was a comfort to the many who called there for here a quiet restfulness and orderliness prevailed and all around was evidence that she possessed "green fingers" for beautiful blooms could be seen at all seasons of the year and on many occasions people were made happy by her generosity in the giving away of these lovely flowers. She will be sadly missed in St. John's English Church at Crapaud of which she was a loyal member and regular attendant, and where her funeral on Saturday afternoon, March 5th, was largely attended. Her remains were tenderly laid to rest in the beautiful cemetery adjoining the church beside loved ones gone before there to await that glorious day when the dead in Christ shall rise first. To the sorrowing nephews and nieces and other relatives left to mourn, the deepest sympathy of the people of Victoria is extended.

I wish to thank our many kind friends and neighbours in Cardigan and Montague, who helped in any way when my little boy, Allen, was ill with appendicitis; also the nurses and staff of the Kings County Memorial Hospital for their many kindnesses toward him. Very sincere thanks to one and all.

ward him. In a way every woman sets the price tag on her husband and the general public takes him at her valuation. If she is always singing his praises and telling how wise and efficient and wonderful he is we unconsciously accept her estimate of him and think he must be a fine fellow because his wife says so. She ought to know. She sees him at close range. But if, on the other hand, a wife is continually belittling her husband and telling his faults, we set him down as no-account, lazy or stupid, when perhaps he is none of these things. Only his wife has advertised him as such.

Women's traditional way of helping their husbands is by pinching pennies, but they would get better results if they made happy and soothing homes for their husbands, and kept them jollied up and believing that they can get the moon for the woman they love.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am married to a man who has two children by his first marriage and I am very unhappy because I cannot make myself like his children. They look so much like their mother it makes me mad. I fight with my husband over them all the time and our marriage is almost on the rocks.

Should we let the children go to live with their mother? Or should I leave my husband, or perhaps I should try to stick it out? I can't be happy this way.

MRS. M. B.

ANSWER: When you married a man with children, you certainly knew the responsibility you were undertaking and how trying youngsters can be. If you fight all the time with your husband over a situation you knew of in advance, you are making a very unhappy home for yourself, your husband and the kids.

DEMON IN SMITHY

MONTREAL — (CP) — Zoulou, a Montreal police horse will be sold to the highest bidder soon — because of an Achilles heel.

One of the most popular horses with city mounted police, Zoulou could not see the sense of being shod. Whenever this was attempted the otherwise docile animal would kick and become the demon of the city stables.

Whether the children should go to live with their mother or not depends on the kind of mother she is, and whether she wants them back or not. Don't forget what the Bible says about dealing with little children.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My wife is a good woman, but she is so jealous that when I am sick she refuses to let me be hospitalized because she is suspicious of the nurses. Do you think I should give in to her and take chances on my health, or override her decision and run the risk of breaking up home ties?

BEBWILDERED HUSBAND

ANSWER: If your doctor thinks you require hospitalization, you are very foolish to let your wife's jealousy keep you from having the attention that you need and that may be the means of saving your life. Many a wife signs her husband's death warrant when she refuses to let him have a change of climate, or go to a sanitarium, or consult the specialist who might save him from an untimely death.

As for the wife's fear that her husband will be kidnapped by a trained nurse if he goes to a hospital, that's groundless. Few sick men are Lotharios in either looks or temper.
