BECOMING BETTER.—There is a general feeling of optimism in regard to the fox industry, and the correspondence which has been reaching the Publicity Agent, Mr. J. E. B. McCready, during the past couple of weeks has resumed something of its normal volume after the curtailing effect of the first weeks of the war. Mr. McCready has just received a letter from Mr. Dougan, a prominent New York business man who was in Charlottetown last week, expressing unbounded confidence in the fox industry and keen interest in Prince Edward Island Stock. It is Mr. Dougan's intention to form a company in New York, and in all probability Island foxes will form the basis of the concern. Mr. McCready has also received several enquiries in regard to the industry generally to all of which he has given satisfactory replies.

WEDDING BELLS.—St. Bonaventure's Church, Tracadie, was the scene of a happy event on Tuesday, September 22nd, when Miss Jeanette Boyd, Blooming Point, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Mr. John A. McDonald, after which the happy couple drove to the home of the bride, where a number of guests were invited to dinner including the Reverend Fathers J. B. McIntyre and Theo. Gallant. In the evening a reception was held to which a number of friends and relatives of the bride and groom were invited. Dancing and various other amusements were indulged in to the strains of sweet music furnished by McInnis brothers, the up-to-date violinists of Blooming Point. The large number of costly and valuable wedding presents which were received gave marked testimony of the popularity in which the contracting parties were held, the bride having taught school for the past five years in different parts of the Island with enviable success. It can be truly said that she was a teacher of no mean ability and in losing her, the educational department of P. E. Island has lost one of its most worthy and successful servants. The groom, Mr. John A. McDonald, is one of Mount Stewart's most successful young farmers and is ever on the alert for anything that tends to make farming life pleasurable. After the reception the happy couple left for their future home in Mount Stewart attended by the best wishes of their numerous friends with whom the Guardian joins in wishing them a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.—S.

DAILY SELECTIONS FOR READERS OF THE GUARDIAN

Not what we do, but the reason for doing it, largely determines our real success or failure. The preaching of an eloquent sermon which thrills a thousand people may, by this standard, be not nearly as successful as the washing of a few dishes after a meal. "No service in itself is small Or great, though earth it fill; But that is small which seeks its own, And great which seeks God's will." There is no such thing as failure in doing God's will if we are surrendered to him and if we trust him fully to accomplish his own will through us. There is no such thing as success in anything that is done for any less motive than to please God directly. "Therefore . . . whatsoever ye do, do all to the glory of God," is the formula which, if followed in trustful obedience, means an unbroken success of our life on earth. How good God is to have made it possible for us always to succeed.
