

CLEVER AND CAPABLE.

French Women Easily Manage Home and Profession at Same Time.

French women who go in for professions are numerous and highly successful. In France the cheery "bachelor girl" so often met with in Anglo-Saxon countries, who wants no other husband than her work, is very rare. Perhaps the reason for this is that the French are a feminine rather than a masculine race, and that whereas one type of English and American girl—often a very good type—has a certain manly element in her character, the French girl is womanly to her fingertips, and cannot be perfectly happy except as a wife and mother.

On the whole, this is a pity, for it is, of course, a strain to a woman to be an effective house-mother and to carry on a profession at the same time; but Frenchwomen are so quick and capable that they often manage to combine the two sets of duties with extraordinary success. "But how or with do you do it?" asked an English girl of a teacher, who was, of course, busy in school all the morning, but yet contrived to do all her own cooking. An Englishwoman similarly circumstanced would have probably tried to subsist on a midday bun and cup of tea; but here was a delicious and substantial meal prepared as if by magic. "Ah, we French have clever fingers!" was the laughing answer.

The suffrage movement, as a force to be reckoned with, hardly exists in France as yet, although at least one spirited lady did offer herself as a Parliamentary candidate during the last general election. Still, the cause cannot be said to have made much headway so far with the average progressive-minded Frenchwoman. Perhaps it is because of a serene conviction that she has all the power she wants already, or perhaps she is simply waiting. "We French are watching England," said a Frenchwoman to an English suffragette, "and when you have won the vote we shall certainly follow your example."

NOT TO BE RELIED UPON.

Are Our Senses the Last Thing in the World to Be Believed?

While it is a fact that nine persons out of ten place, or think they place, the utmost faith in the testimony of their senses, when it comes to the more important affairs of life few of us accept this testimony. For instance, we do not believe that the sun moves around the earth, although we see it; and the flatness of the earth is so evident to our unimpaired physical sight that we do not understand. We do not believe our senses, but our reason, in these premises, though we do rely upon them in many matters where we should know better. We have for guidance such truisms as "Don't trust in appearance," and "Believe nothing that you hear and only half of what you see," but still we are often deceived. Illusions and delusions afflict us from the cradle to the grave.

We think that we see and hear a great deal that we do not see or hear at all. On the witness stand and under oath we testify to things that we imagine to have taken place only by that of other witnesses, equally reliable and conscientious, who describe minutely things and occurrences as being reliable to them at the same time and place as those we have described, yet materially different in every important detail. It is contended by many able men and with much reason that the much derided "circumstantial evidence" is, after all, more reliable than that of so-called "eye-witnesses."

ARE YOUR HANDS CHAPPED?

Read How Zam-Buk Heals.

For badly chapped hands, cold cracks, frost bites, etc., Zam-Buk is the best known healer. Wash the hands or part affected in water as hot as can be borne. Dry with a soft towel, and then smear the Zam-Buk well over the part. If it is the hands, wear a pair of old gloves overnight. By morning the pain will be gone. Then use Zam-Buk a few more times and the cracks will be healed.

Alpine Fatalities. The foolish fad of Alpine climbing has caused the deaths of 115 persons during the present year. Of these the majority were Germans—38—while there was only one American victim. A considerable number lost their lives in their search for Edelweiss and other Alpine blooms and nearly all of the tragedies were preventable.

Praiseworthy Self-Control. "What makes you so sure you have a right to consider yourself a good trust?" "The fact," replied Mr. Dustin Stax, "that we have been kind and patient and forbearing. For a while everybody was yelling down with the trusts." But we never retaliated by saying down with anything—not even prices.

Never Fired. "Cook, did you stay long in your last place?" "I never stays nowhere long enough to be discharged. I'm one of these here fireless cooks."

Sartorial Finance. Mrs. Knicker—It isn't what you pay for clothes that make you well dressed. Mrs. Bocker—No, indeed. It's what you owe.

Helps Some. "The professor says that music does a great deal to Rossini." "What's Rossini?" "That is probably Italian for 'rosin'."

As a Sort of Light Training. Upgradation—Your cousin is a practical physician, isn't he? Atom—He has discovered one or two specifics for cancer, I believe, but he hasn't settled down to regular practice yet.

Hugo's Slip. Victor Hugo puts into the mouth of Charlemagne, in "Aymaillet," the words: "You dream like a scholar of Sorbonne." That famous institution was founded in 1254, 450 years after the days of Charlemagne.

A Big Claim. "He's got a lot of nerve, hasn't he?" "It should say. Knows the art of bluffing his creditors, doesn't he?" "Bluffing his creditors? Why, man, he claims he can bluff his wife!"

According to Government Estimates

was made in Western Town Property during the year 1910

Did you participate in these high profits or did you "pigeon-hole" the proposition submitted to you by your western friends for future consideration? In short, are you the man who made a profit or the unfortunate one who had the chance but did not possess sufficient judgment to recognize the opportunity or sufficient courage to close a deal? The man or woman entitled to sympathy is the one who says: "Five or ten years ago I had the chance to buy this or that property at $100 or $500, and now it is worth $10,000." The average person sneers at the person who makes such a statement and says: "I would have bought and made that money." Are you going to say five years from now that you had a chance to buy a lot at Poe, Alta., at from $50. to $100, each, or are you going to be the man who will have from $1,000 to $10,000 in cash as a result of having bought property in this town in this year of grace, 1911?

POE A COMING COMMERCIAL CENTRE.

Poe is located on the main line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway between Edmonton and Saskatoon. It is located in one of the finest farming districts in Western Canada. The surrounding country is settled by a progressive type of farmers and consequently will become the market centre for Northern Alberta. Poe district possesses rich coal mines, is close to river and lakes and large forests are easily accessible from this point. These natural resources insure for the residents of the town, first, low cost of living, and second, great commercial activity, two essentials in the up-building of a large town, thus creating valuable real estate.

POE AS A MANUFACTURING CENTRE

This townsite and contiguous territory has the requirements outlined by large manufacturing concerns for the location of large factories or large enterprises of any kind employing large numbers of people. The rivers and lakes furnish water, the coal fields and forest furnish fuel and cheap building material, the fine farming lands furnish farm products, enabling the residents to live at a low cost.

The town is located on the main line of a transcontinental railway, assuring the necessary transportation facilities. These combined conditions will furnish cheap labor, one of the most important features of a manufacturing centre.
