First Maritime Herd

BONNYDALE HERD OF H. W. CLAY MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN TYPE CLASSIFICATION

The honour of being first herd in the Maritime Provinces to be classified under the Ayrshire Type Classification Plan goes to the Bonnydale herd of H. W. Clay, Charlottetown, P. E. I.

The inspection was made by Wm. Hunter, Chief Inspector, Advanced Registry, and nine cows and first calf heifers were presented for his inspection.

One of the cows - Daisy Pride - 177143 - by Royal Quintin made the highest score and was therefore rated as "Excellent". This class calls for a conformation of 90 or more points according to the official score card.

Two cows and one first calf heifer scored between 85 and 90 points each and were rated as "Very Good" These were Fairvue Queen 4th by Douglas Hall Reliance, Primrose Maid by Lochend Gold Coin and Orwell Queen, a first calf heifer by Steeplepoint Major. First calf heifers cannot be scored higher than "Very Good".

Two cows and one first calf heifer scored between 80 and 85 points each and were given a "Good Plus" rating. These were Bonnydale Ella by Springburn Royal King; Orwell Helen by Steeplepoint Major; and the first calf heifer Bonnydale Dainty Gleam by Brightside Windsor.

Two first calf heifers scored between 75 and 80 points and were rated as "Good". These were Fairvue Mabel by Springburn Royal King; Bonnydale Grace by Long Hill Jock.

It is interesting to note that Orwell Queen, rated as "Very Good" and Orwell Helen, rated as good Plus" are full sisters. Also that Primrose Maid, rated as "Very Good" is the dam of Bonnyvale Grace rated as "Good".

These ratings gave Mr. Clay's herd an average rating of .841 or a score of 84.16%.

Compared with a similar plan for Ayrshires in the United States only nine herds, out of a total of the 97 herds involved scored higher than Mr. Clay's herd. Similarly in the class for herds with less than 15 cows only five herds scored higher than that of Mr. Clay's.

Beveridge Speaks At Convocation

MONTREAL, May 26 (CP)—Sir William Beveridge, noted British economist, told more than 500 graduating students at McGill University's annual convocation today that peace and war are "indivisible" and "one must plan and think about peace now, during war."

"When stuffy old gentlemen in England tell me that we ought to concentrate on war and think about nothing but war,' said Sir William, "I tell them that may be all right for stuffy old gentlemen, but that that is not how the young people—who are giving most to the war, and preparing themselves for the war and risking all—that is not how the young people are thinking."

Sir William, delivering the annual convocation address, spoke briefly after receiving the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters.

Honorary degrees were conferred upon Alexander Loveday, director of the economic, financial department of the League of Nations, Doctor of Letters; Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley, Doctor of Laws; Provincial Treasurer J. A. Matheson, Doctor of Laws; Huntly Drummond, chairman of the Bank of Montreal, Doctor of Laws; and Lt.-Col. J. M. Morris, officer commanding the McGill contingent of the C.O.T.C.

Sir William, noting that the world did not achieve permanent peace after the Great War, said: "This time I believe the world can and will make the victory of the United Nations the gateway to certain peace."

He called upon the graduates to "carry on into the peace all that you can of the heroic mood of war."

BIG MESS HALL FOR GIRL HOST

GOOSE AIRPORT, Labrador, May 27—(CP)— Section Officer Mary Stephens of Saskatoon, messing officer at this new Canadian air base, will soon be taking over a newly completed mess hall with a kitchen to do justice to a city restaurant. The base commander said the place was built with an eye to the future. "If 100 big planes drop in," he went on, "that's almost 1,000 people to feed."

Meanwhile army men in Labrador get better rations than any other army men on this side of the Atlantic because they can't bolster their army meals with restaurant meals. There's no potato-peeling fatigue because most of the vegetables come in dehydrated form and only have to be soaked in water before cooking.

New arrivals suffer from hunger at first but soon get used to getting by without off-station snacks. Army doctors found the bright Labrador snow was harmful to the eyes so each man now gets one vitamin-loaded pink pill at breakfast time to counteract the ill-effects.

Wives are out at this new Labrador base but a few got in just the same. The story goes that the skipper of a coastal vessel, asked to keep an eye out for workmen—"no families"—didn't hear all his instructions and came back with a shipload of natives, more women and children than men. They're still here.

PL 16540 Parading in front of a twin-engined training aircraft, these 'Flying Scotsmen" from No. 9 Service Flying Training School at Centralia, Ont., are the first pipe band in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The band traces its origin to a Burns Night dinner at which Air Force officers of Scottish descent voiced regret that the Land o' the Heather and the Haggis had no representation in the R. C. A. F., although there were many Highland regiments in the Army. Present was Group Captain E. G. Fullerton, who conceived the idea of adding three pipers, Corporal Jimmy Ross, Leading Aircraftman P. H. Ince and Leading Aircraftsman W. J. Mutch, to the station band. Later when No. 9 S. F. T. S. was transferred from Summerside, P. E. I. to Centralia, the pipe section was considerably augmented by the addition of several pipers and drummers from the Cameron Cadets of Winnipeg. No. 14 strong it is a separate musical organization but its members still do their regular air force jobs.

Their tartan, woven from the official R. C. A. F. colors of azure blue, navy blue and cardinal red, was specially created for the Air Force by Group Captain Fullerton. The design was approved by the Air Council and registered in the archives of the Court of Lord Lyon at Edinburgh, Scotland, official repository of the weaves of the Scottish clans. The costume is that of the traditional Highland regiments, translated into R. C. A. F. colors. They wear Glengarry caps of navy blue, with checked "flashings" of light blue, dark blue and red, a feather cockade and silver R. C. A. F. cap badge. Their tunics are of Air Force blue, but of special cloth and design, cut away in front to accommodate their sporrans. Buttons are of silver and the silk epaulets are also in Air Force colors. Hose tops are the same color as the cap "flashing."

New Bonaventure Station Modern In Every Detail

MONTREAL, May 26—Newspapermen, press photographers and radio news casters were today given a preview of the new Bonaventure Station of the C.N.R. prior to the inauguration for public service of this central station. The guiding figure in the planning and execution of the work of modernizing and expanding the Montreal terminals is C. B. Brown, consulting engineer for the National Railways, who was formerly located at Moncton, N. B. as chief engineer of the Canadian government railways. While the new Bonaventure station which owes its name to old Bonaventure located on a site used as a railway terminal since 1847 figures largely in the picture, grade crossings have been eliminated, yards have been extended, coach yard accommodation developed and the vast network of tracks within the metropolitan area co-ordinated so as to provide for faster handling of freight, an imperative need for the quick movement of wartime supplies. Provision is made for the travellers' aid with special facilities for members of the armed forces. Immigration and customs have special quarters conveniently situatcd adjoining the baggage room. Access to the tracks of which there are 17 is by stairs and escalators from the main concourse.

There are fourteen regular passenger train tracks, one for mail and express and two auxiliary which can be used for special troop trains. The longest main line tracks can accommodate a train of 20 cars. Platforms are of the high level type and all train operations over the approaches and within the station area will be by electric locomotives. A train approaching from the Maritimes will reach the new Bonaventure station over a viaduct leading off from Victoria bridge.

WONNACOTT-EATON WEDDING

CANNING, N. S., May 26—A wedding of interest to many friends throughout Nova Scotia and Prince Edward Island was solemnized Sunday afternoon, May 23, when Eunice Deborah Eaton, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Eaton, Canard, was united in marriage to Earl LePage Wonnacott, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wonnacott, Charlottetown, P.E.I. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas Palthorpe of the Canard United Church, and took place at the home of the bride's parents.

To the strains of the wedding march, played by Joan Starr, the bride entered the dining room on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. She was tastefully dressed in navy tailored suit with corresponding accessories, and carried a bouquet of tulips. Margaret R. Eaton and Olsen E. Stechie Eaton, R.C.N.V.R., sister and brother of the bride, were in attendance.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held. Ruby Blanchard, Phyllis Brown, Phyllis Burbidge, Mrs. W. B. Burbidge, Mrs. W. B. Eaton, Mrs. Robert Chase and Mrs. Wm. Newcombe assisted in serving.

The bride is a graduate of Prince of Wales College, Charlottetown, P. E. I., and of Mack's Business College, Kentville. Previous to her marriage she was employed at the Plant Products Laboratory, Sackville, N.B. The groom is also a graduate of Prince of Wales College and has been attending Acadia University previous to his military call.—Halifax Herald.

Family Of Six Wanted 1500 Pounds Of Canning Sugar

OTTAWA, May, 26—(CP) — E. W. Rodomar, assistant deputy administrator of consumer rationing for the Prices Board, said today that Canadian housewives had "exaggerated" their 1943 requirements for canning sugar in making applications to the board.

Mr. Rodomar attended this morning's session of the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and municipilities, and was questioned by delegates on the canning sugar situation.

He said the plans for a canning allotment were made last autumn —just as No. 3 ration book was being prepared now although it would not be distributed until August.

It was decided about 100,000,000 pounds would be available, the amount available last year. Reports from the department of agriculture were to the effect the normal use of sugar for canning was 80,000,000 pounds.

Housewives were asked to estimate their requirements but unfortunately had misunderstood," the request and "exaggerated."

The amount of canning sugar asked for to date was 210,000,000 pounds. A family of four in Edmonton had asked for 700 pounds. A family of six somewhere else in Alberta asked for 1,500 pounds.

It had been expected 40 or 50 per cent of the population would need sugar for home canning but nearly 9,000,000 people had applied, Mr. Rodomar said.

Urges Canucks In U.S. Be Recruited

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP)—J. G. Diefenbaker (Prog. Con. Lake Centre) said in the House of Commons today there are 91,800 Canadian men in the United States between 18 and 38 who are not United States citizens and have given no indication they will accept United States citizenship.

Of these Canadians only 801 had joined the Canadian army up to mid-January, and he asked what was being done to obtain these men for service in the Canadian forces.

About 5,000 Canadians were serving in the United States forces.

Under present arrangements he understood that when a man was called for compulsory service in the United States, he had an opportunity of saying whether he would serve in Canadian or United States forces.

"We established a number of recruiting agencies in the United States, we sent Canadian army officers and non-commissioned officers to undertake recruiting, and in the period I suppose from when the United States went into the war, that is over a matter of 24 months, we secured only some 800 men in that country," Mr. Diefenbaker said.

"I suggest there is a productive field there; there must be a large number of men available.

"I would like to know what is being done to assure their availability, and also what has been and is being done to secure the transfer of Canadians serving in the United States army into the Canadian forces for active service."

Corvette In Rescue Job

OTTAWA, May 26 —(CP)— The Royal Canadian Navy today told how the Canadian corvette Kitchener, one of the "stars" in the motion picture "Corvettes In Action," recently saved 73 merchant officers and seamen from almost certain death when their ship ran aground on a rocky coast in heavy seas.

The merchantman was in immediate danger of breaking up, the Navy said. Kitchener, dispatched to look for the ship, had to avoid a reef-ridden area and manoeuvre close to shore to pick up survivors.

Except for the danger of making our way through treacherous waters, there was actually very little to it," said Kitchener's commander Lt.-Cmdr. William Evans of Toronto. "We couldn't go near the ship, and although her boats could get away they couldn't make headway against the storm.

"The trick was to manoeuvre into position down-wind so they could drift down on us.

"This was accomplished successfully, all 73 getting away in their own boats."

The survivors would have faced two dangers—almost equally grave —if they had not been rescued, the Navy said. If they stayed aboard the merchantman they would have been lost when she broke up; and ashore high waves were breaking over rocks in such fashion that small boats could not hope to live.

"Just one of the chores of the sea," was Cmdr. Evans' comment. "All our jobs aren't war jobs."

H.M.C.S. Kitchener was built at a St. Lawrence River yard and christened by Mrs. I. O Breithaupt, wife of the Liberal member of Parliament for Waterloo North. The ship was commissioned June 28, 1942, and during and immediately after her working-up trials took part in the making of the movie.

King George Honors Two U.S. Officers

LONDON, May 27 —(Thursday) —(CP)— The King bestowed today upon two United States military commanders, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, the honorary rank of Knight, Grand Cross, of the Order of the Bath, Military division.

Gen. Eisenhower, Allied Commander-in-Chief in North Africa, and Gen. MacArthur, Commander-in-Chief in the Southwest Pacific, were honored "in recognition of most valuable services in command of troops of the Allied nations."

In the case of British citizens these appointments would permit the generals the title "sir" but United States citizens holding office are forbidden by the American constitution from accepting foreign titles without the consent of Congress.

The Order of the Bath is the senior order of British knighthood which has a military division. The rank of Knight, Grand Cross, is the order's first class.

The honorary appointments are reserved for non-British persons.

The American Generals will be presented the insignia of the order, a 30-ounce gold collar with nine imperial crowns but will not receive the accolade—that is, they will not kneel before the King and be called knight.

The Order of the Bath was created in 1639 but subsequently lapsed and was revived in 1725. On ceremonial occasions its members are entitled to wear a scarlet-lined mantle covering them from neck to toe.

Expects Move To Protect Property Of Servicemen

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, May 26 (CP)—Defence Minister Ralston said in the House of Commons today he expected some action would be taken by the Dominion Government on the protection of the civil property and interests of men in the forces.

The Minister said a check now was being made of provincial legislation providing such protection, to see what action would be needed by the Dominion.

In view of the fact the creditor—not the public—was being asked to make the adjustments, he considered it desirable that Federal authorities take some responsibility in the matter, with uniform action across the country if possible.

The House spent most of the sitting discussing protection of fighting men's property at home, with several advocating Canada accept provisions similar to those contained in the Sparkman Act covering United States forces.

Howard C. Green (Prog. Con. Vancouver South) said men in the forces should be free to devote their entire mental and physical energies to their military tasks. They should have legal protection against the economic consequences of their service.

L. P. Pickard (Lib. Bellechasse) said Quebec had just brought down a measure providing that a mortgage against a farm belonging to a man in the forces could not be foreclosed. In other cases concerning property, permission had to be obtained before a lawsuit.

The Dominion would have power to pass a general law covering such protection but such power should be used sparingly. The provincial governments and the Dominion should meet and seek to arrive at an understanding rather than force rulings through under the War Measures Act.

"Passing The Buck"

Clarence Gillis (C.C.F. Cape Breton South) said anyone who suggested the protection of soldiers' rights was a matter for the provinces "is merely passing the buck."

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative House Leader, said some provinces were only initiating legislation and a man overseas might have lost his home by the time the legislation became effective.

The constitutional question was not a serious one, said T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn) if the Federal government could act as it had to give debt protection to a farmer to keep him as a producer of food.

Mr. Picard said the British North America Act should not be treated lightly. The proper procedure should be observed in obtaining the desired protection for men in the forces.

Mr. Blackmore asked Mr. Picard if he considered it would be contrary to the B.N.A. Act if the Dominion passed a grant of money to be extended to provinces, and from which they would be able to advance $15 a week to soldiers who enlisted within their boundaries.

Mr. Picard said such action would be similar to the old age pension act. There was nothing to prevent the Dominion passing an act, but it could not force the provinces to apply it or enact similar legislation.

"We have fortunately in Quebec this situation, that although it is entitled to the benefits of the old age pension act the Prime Minister in a supposedly Liberal government positively refuses to apply it," he continued.

The duty to soldiers did not warrant a government setting aside the constitution when other remedies could be found. The provinces probably would have to be approached to pass required measures and enact them immediately.

National Responsibility

G.B Isnor (Lib. Halifax) said the responsibility was national, not provincial. It was unfair to place the responsibility on provinces with their varying ability to meet financial obligations.

In Nova Scotia there were enlistments of about 44.5 per cent of men in the age groups and categories required by the forces, but in some other provinces the percentage was much smaller.

Col. Ralston said the protection of soldiers' property had been under consideration of the service departments for some time.

No one would suggest the Dominion might not take jurisdiction to deal with such protection, but the Dominion would be entering on a field distinctly provincial under the B.N.A. act and it seemed only proper the provinces should be consulted.

Liguori Lacombe (Cdn. Laval-Two Mountains) said the measure under discussion (the $3,390,000,000 war appropriation resolution) revealed that while there was no money for construction works before the war "there is plenty to kill and destroy."

War factory workers were condemned to idleness because of lack of material and poor administration. Scandals unearthed in war factories, as in a recent Montreal case, condemned the government's war policy. War profiteers "completed their treason" by entering fictitious names on their workers' lists.

With the wood-fuel shortage likely to be aggravated by a serious shortage of coal next winter, some Canadian municipalities are working out plans for community woodpiles. In addition, many individual householders are making their own arrangements to cut at least a part of their wood supply. As a guide to inexperienced cutters, the Munitions and Supply Department offers the above chart, which indicates the proportionate usefulness of the more common firewood trees in Canada.
