Major J. A. MacKenzie eulogizes Prince Edward Island at Dominion Life 41st annual meeting.

Major J. A. MacKenzie of Charlottetown, the Provincial Manager of the Dominion Life Assurance Company, was recently in Waterloo, Ont. attending the company's Forty-first annual meeting. Head Office officials and shareholders were especially pleased to welcome Major MacKenzie as he has brought the Prince Edward Island Branch to a very prominent place among Dominion Life Branches. Several of the Company's most valued agents hail from Prince Edward Island, or are active in the Island.

In addressing the gathering on the occasion of the annual meeting, Major MacKenzie stressed the scenic beauty of Prince Edward Island and emphasized the fact that the Island is becoming known throughout the North American Continent as the Garden of the Gulf, a fact which draws increasing numbers of tourists year by year. That many of these tourists return season after season, is ample evidence of the place Prince Edward Island holds in their esteem, and their accounts of their stay in the Island carried to all parts of Canada and the United States, are instrumental in bringing others to see for themselves what is to be seen in Canada's smallest province.

Continuing, Major MacKenzie spoke in part as follows:

"I count it an honor to represent Prince Edward Island in this gathering and to put into words the many things which may justly be said of this branch of the Dominion Life.

"Our future in P. E. I. is greater than in the past. We are unique in many respects. The only insular province in Canada; and the only "dry" province in Canada. Coupled with this remember the quality of soil which produces a sure crop annually of certified seed potatoes and supplies the world with its silver black fox breeding stock. Although our area is confined to a length of only one hundred and twenty-seven miles and a breadth of thirty-four miles, we have a road mileage of over forty-five hundred on which front about four thousand families, so we look forward confidently to a better day and to a continued progress in all lines of endeavour."

Church Dedicated

The re-opening and the re-dedicating of the Presbyterian Church, Tyne Valley, some weeks ago was an incident deserving of more than passing notice.

Very seldom has a church had more improvements made upon it at one time than were made upon this one of recent date. Not only was the church building beautifully painted and decorated throughout but quite a number of pieces of new church furniture were secured to further beautify and adorn it.

One of the most inspiring features of this undertaking was the deep interest shown by the Young People's Society of the Church. Their gifts to the church were a handsome pulpit and a very beautiful pulpit Bible. These were given as a memorial in honor of Rev. W. Leslie Clay, D. D., Ex-Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. Dr. Clay, as all no doubt know, was a native of Summerside, P. E. I., and an intimate friend of a number of the families in the Tyne Valley congregation.

It seems rather striking that just at the present time when the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada is seeking to secure one hundred young men for the ministry as an enduring memorial to Dr. Clay that the young people of the Tyne Valley congregation should thus in their own way decide to raise up a memorial to him.

And it might be added here in passing that, also at the present time there is a young man from the Tyne Valley congregation fitting himself for the ministry of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, and that therefore it might be said that Tyne Valley is seeking also to thus erect in accordance with the method suggested by the General Assembly, their memorial to Dr. Clay.

Besides the pulpit and the pulpit Bible the church had also presented to it three pulpit chairs. These were the gifts of Mrs. D. N. Forbes and were given as a memorial in honor of her husband, Mr. D. N. Forbes, who for many years had been an honored Elder of the congregation and the Superintendent of the Sunday School.

To the other furnishings of the church a complete set of new chairs was the gift of the Ladies Aid Society.

To still further add to the beauty of the church furnishings a table cover was given by Mrs. Douglas Stewart. New offering plates were also provided. These were the gift of Miss Constance Forbes and were given in memory of her father, Mr. D. N. Forbes. Even the needs of the service of music were not overlooked. A Hymn Board was presented by the Earnest Mission Band while some four dozen hymn-books were given by the Ladies' Aid Society.

For all of these gifts so kindly and so generously presented to the church the people of the congregation are exceedingly grateful.

On the day of the re-opening there were three services in all, namely, 11 a. m.; 3 p. m., and 7:30 p. m. The service at 11 a. m. was conducted by Rev. Thos. A. Rodger, Belfast Mr. Rodger chose for his text Eph. 1-19. "The Power of God to upward who believe."

Among all things, Mr. Rodger said that "The Resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead is the standard of power in the New Testament and a pledge and sample of what God is able to do for us. The standard miracle of the Old Testament was the deliverance of Israel from the power and bondage of Egypt. The appeal, from Moses to Malachi, is to the greatness of God's power to save and help was the Red Sea.

In the New Testament the Red Sea is superseded by the empty tomb, and the Resurrection of Jesus Christ stands at the forefront of the Christian dispensation as the greatest achievement of omnipotence and a pledge of what God can do for those who believe."

In the earlier part of the service Mr. Rodger formally re-opened and re-dedicated the church building to the glory of God and to the up-building of the characters of the people of the congregation and later dedicated to the same purpose the various pieces of church furniture mentioned above.

Although the weather in the morning was very unpleasant quite a large congregation was present.

In dedicating the pulpit and the pulpit Bible to the memory of Rev. Dr. Clay, Mr. Rodger referred very feelingly to the bond of friendship which had existed between himself and the late Dr. Clay. In the passing of Dr. Clay he had lost one of his dearest friends. The service was a very solemn and impressive one.

The afternoon service, which was largely attended was conducted by Rev. Chas. J. St. Clair. Mr. St. Clair chose for his text the following verses I Kings VI 11-13. "And the word of the Lord came to Solomon saying concerning this house which thou art building, if with one who has made a mistake thou wilt walk in my statutes and because of some hereditary weakness execute my judgments and keep all my commandments that I will not forsake my people Israel.

Dealing with his subject in a masterly way the speaker said with other things said "The curse of Israel's prosperity was the curse of her danger." The sudden rise of the esteem of the outside world as a subtle and potent drug. The spiritual genius of the Hebrew people began at once to desert them.

Less than a generation the splendid house on Mount Zion had become a place of ineffectual ghosts. It had been emptied of reality. The essential condition had not been fulfilled and where there was no God in the hearts of the people there was no God between the Cherubim. How many little temples in this world today have been emptied of reality for that same reason—the pressure of a new strange world on the hearts of the worshippers! How many are obeying cold and fruitless custom and coming to a shrine that is void of meaning because personal religion has lost its actuality for them! Only one thing will save us from the tragedy of the empty house—no matter how much energy we lavish upon equipment and furnishings "Concerning this house" whatever it may be, the church, the state, the individual life—one supreme and primary condition must be met if it is to have significance and eternal validity—and that is that we surrender ourselves to the Will of God.

The address was a very fitting one and will long be remembered by all who were present.

At the afternoon service the Summerside quartette, Messrs. William Forbes, George Downes, Ewen Nicholson and Albert Huestis rendered two selections very beautifully. These were "The Wayside Cross" and "Just Outside the Door." Mrs. George Pickering also sang a solo. This was entitled "My Task" and was much appreciated by all.

Miss Helen Peters organist of the Presbyterian Church, Summerside, presided at the organ and while the offering was being taken rendered an excellent musical selection.

The evening service, which was the largest service of the day, was conducted by Rev. H. Bentley Slavert, Mr. Stavert preached from Matt. XXIV 46, "And these shall go away into everlasting punishment."

It showed how that the Master was continually treating His hearers to surprises. He surprised people not only by the things he said and did, but also by the things he did not say and did not do, but which, they expected him to say and to do. He also surprised them by the judgments he passed upon certain things. But more particularly did he surprise them by the judgments which he passed upon certain classes of people. This is brought out clearly in the scene of the last judgment as given in this twenty-fifth chapter of Matthew. Some of those who were summoned to appear before the great white throne were pleasantly surprised by the judgment meted out to them while others again were very unpleasantly surprised.

Passing by the consideration of these who were pleasantly surprised we shall for a little make inquiries as to who these people were who were unpleasantly surprised and try to find out the reason for having such a doom meted out to them.

On looking into this question instead of finding, as we would naturally expect to find, that these people were made up of the cruel, the profligate and of all kinds of criminals—we find that they were all good respectable people. There was not a criminal amongst them—not even one who was guilty of any indiscretion, or against whose character any word of scandal could be spoken. Many of them were professed followers of the meek and lowly Jesus and yet the doom pronounced upon them was that they were to go away into everlasting punishment.

Some one here may raise the question and ask why there was such a doom meted out to them? What was the crime they were guilty of?

The crime they were guilty of was the crime of doing nothing—the most popular crime in the world.

These people were professed followers of the Master but they had not done anything to help bring in His Kingdom so that when the day of judgment came around He was compelled because of their having done nothing to say to them "Depart from me ye cursed into an everlasting fire prepared for the devil and his angels."

The Master is here seeking to teach these people, as He is ever seeking to teach all of us of today, that righteousness is a positive thing and that sin consists not only in doing something wrong but that it also may consist in refusing to do something good when opportunity offers. In other words, He wishes to make it clear beyond all doubt that there are not only sins of commission, but also sins of omission of which all may at last be found guilty. Whenever the Master comes in contact with one who has made a mistake and because of some hereditary weakness or sin he deals with such a one, as kindly as a nurse would deal with a patient in a hospital but when He has to do with those self-righteous people—those people who profess to be His followers but who are doing nothing to extend His kingdom among men, He raises His voice and He spares not He lifts the lash and He plies not.

In all of His parables there are no sins which He denounces with greater sternness than He does the omission. This is made very evident in the parable of the talents. The crime for which the man who refused to use the one talent given to him, was cast into the outer darkness, was this crime of doing nothing. This thing was especially strongly emphasized in the parable of the Rich Man and Lazarus. The Rich man was not in the outer darkness, not because he had committed some great standing crime, but simply because he refused to feed the beggar at his gate. Thus men are to be judged by the way they have treated their fellow men, more especially the more needy ones of earth. The Master always identifies Himself with all of these needy ones of earth and says to men and women everywhere "In-as-much as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me." But he also adds "In-as-much as ye did not to one of these, ye did it not to me."

Then, because of this neglect, the sense of justice will compel Him to ask them to go away into everlasting punishment. Just what is meant by everlasting punishment, no one knows, but it must have been something terrible or the Master would never have warned any one against it. It may be nothing more than the remorse of conscience but even that will be all the hell that any one of us shall need.

All then should take warning in time lest that by their indifference to the call of the Master, to care for His needy ones here upon the earth they should at last at the great day of judgment be asked to step out into the outer darkness where there shall be weeping and gnashing of teeth."

At the evening service Mrs. Arthur Yeo and Miss Dorothy Yeo sang very feelingly a duet entitled "He holdeth the future in His Hand." This was enjoyed by all.

Preparatory service on Wednesday evening and dwelt especially with the statement of St. Paul to the Corinthians, giving it a personal application. "He died for us that henceforth I should not be unto myself but unto him who died for me and rose again." Dr. Ramsay also preached the Communion sermon from 1 Cor. 10-16. "The cup of blessing which we bless is it not the communion of the blood of Christ? The bread which we break is it not the communion of the body of Christ?" He pointed out that the word communion in its modern thought would be better expressed by partnership. Partnership in the blood of Christ. The sacrament emphasizes our partnership with Christ and our partnership with one another in Christian fellowship in love, service and sacrifice. The choir sang the anthem "O Saviour of the world." The service was broadcast by CHCIK.

In the evening words of congratulation and appreciation were extended to Professor Fletcher on his completing ten years of faithful service in connection with the Church. The Professor may well be proud of the large place he retains in the affections of the people of Trinity.

Rev. Mr. Brown gave a splendid address on the theme "Facing Life with Christ," and took as his text John 18-33. These things have I spoken unto you that in ye might have peace. The choir of 34 voices gave the anthem, "Who knows the eternal thought." Mr. P. W. Small taking the solo part and the music being composed by Prof. Fletcher.

The attendance at Sunday School was 463. Rev. Dr. Clarence Mackinnon returned last week from attending the Pan Presbyterian Alliance which met in Atlantic City. The United Church of Canada was the second largest church to be represented at the Alliance meeting. The theme of the meeting was "The Holy Spirit in the Church" in recognition of the fact that this year marks the nineteenth century of the Pentecost. A strong resolution was passed urging the Alliance to do more to secure union among the Churches.

R. liner "Metagama" and arrived in Saint John last Monday, travelling thence to Montreal on business for the Hudson's Bay Company. The return trip across the ocean was a fairly good one for this time of year. The passengers, including steamer, tourist and cabin voyagers, numbered 700. The Metagama, though a comparatively small steamer, proved an excellent sea-going craft. Mr. McLure expressed pleasure at being home again. He has kept in touch with political and other events, federal and provincial, through the newspapers, and is looking forward with zest to the coming legislative session.

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

Holy Communion was celebrated at the morning service. The sacramental service is always solemn but on this occasion it was more impressive than usual. There was a good attendance. T. W. received into membership by letters from other churches. Three hundred and forty partook of communion. Dr. Ramsay, gave the sermon on the subject of Partnership in the Blood of Christ. Preparatory service on Wednesday evening and dwelt especially with the statement of St. Paul to the Corinthians, giving it a personal application. Motoring With Mary
By MARY JANE MOORE

Every revolution of the engine brings us wisdom for the woman who drives a car, one of them has discovered.

"SHOPPING AROUND"

No man could ever have done it, but Midge and I, being women, saw nothing unusual in dropping into an attractively decorated store specializing in automobile accessories just to "look around." Had it been Bob and Jack, Midge's husband, they would have had to have a specific purchase in mind before daring to put a foot over the threshold.

We were walking down the street when we saw the appealing window filled with a number of things that go neatly on anyone's car. We stopped.

"Apparently cars cannot be so fully equipped as one might believe," I remarked glancing over the display.

"Well, my car is fully equipped and yet there are one or two things right there in that window that it could use," Midge replied.

"And, plainly, this store continues in business which can mean nothing other than that there is a market for accessories," I commented.

From looking in the window to going through the door was a logical step for two women in whom the shopping instinct is so strong, as in what two women is it not?

"What can I do for you?" asked the clerk as we approached the show cases.

"To be frank with you," I replied, "I haven't the slightest idea. The window seemed so attractive that we came in to see the rest of the display."

Apparently there was some novelty in this for the clerk. But, novelty or no novelty, he was ready to do his part.

"Look around all you want," he said, "if there is anything you want explained, I'll be glad to do it."

Midge took him up at once.

"What's this a light lap robe?" she asked fingering a neat plaid patterned material.

"That's a rumble-seat robe," said the clerk walking over to it. "It is light, but that was one of the ideas the inventor tried hardest to achieve. He felt that many motorists do not like to sit under the weight of a heavy robe. But he didn't stop there. He made it as warm as a heavy robe by impregnating the fabric with a substance that makes it windproof and also interesting, waterproof."

The robe was exactly what Midge had been looking for. They have a coupe and her youngsters have a passion for the rumble seat. Needless to say, she bought the robe.

While she was concluding the purchase, I continued to look around.

It certainly paid for I discovered an item that is worth while for every woman who drives—a pair of heel protectors to keep the backs of her shoes from becoming scuffed against the floor boards. They were light, inexpensive, and easy to put on and remove. I bought a pair and so did Midge.

On our way out I saw an appealing radiator ornament. It was graceful and novel. Furthermore, it was not just like all other radiator ornaments, which commended it to me. Another consideration was that I have grown somewhat tired of looking at the ornament that had been on the car since we bought it. I purchased it.

Midge voiced my thought when we were driving home when she said "You know, there's a virtue in this shopping instinct."

Bradshaw-Campbell Nuptials

A wedding of much interest throughout the Province was solemnized on Friday afternoon at one o'clock in the Central Christian Church, Summerside, when Miss Cecilia Lillian Bradshaw, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melville L. Bradshaw, was united in marriage to Mr. Thane Alexander Campbell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Campbell, both of Summerside. Rev. Albert Smith, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The church was adorned with a profusion of spring flowers with palms and ferns making a charming setting for the bridal party.

As the bride entered the church with her father, who gave her away, Mrs. Keith Rogers of Charlottetown, played Wagner's Wedding March. The bride was beautiful in a gown of ivory satin a la princess, fitted at the back to form a short train. Her lovely veil of bridal net was fastened with pearls under the chin ending in a cluster at the nape of the neck and caught at the sides with dainty clusters behind the ears in Madonna effect and hung in graceful folds trailing the ground several inches. Her bouquet was a shower of beautiful kolia lilies.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Emma Virginia Bradshaw as maid of honor, who wore a charming dress of cyclone chiffon. Miss Margaret Barnaby of Bridgewater, N. S., was bridesmaid and her gown of chateausse green chiffon was made on the same lovely lines as that worn by the maid of honor. Their hats were of French hand made lace and they carried bouquets of beautiful roses. They were preceded up the aisle by little Miss Desmondia Diane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Downing, dressed in a dainty frock of white satin made in Empire style which reached to the floor, her pretty curls were tied with a large bow of white tulle, and in her hand she carried a basket of rose leaves. The groom was attended by Mr.

Robert T. Holman and the ushers were Mr. J. O. C. Campbell of Charlottetown, brother of the groom, and Mr. Ewen Nicholson.

During the signing of the register Mrs. H. S. Henderson sang sweetly "O Promise Me." The bridal party left the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Processional Wedding March."

Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, at which a large number of guests were present and extended their congratulations to the bride and groom.

The reception rooms were charmingly arranged with tulips and carnations. At the reception the bride's mother wore a lovely French gown of golden brown lace with corsage bouquet of pink roses. The groom's mother was dressed in a Lucelle gown of dahlia chiffon with corsage bouquet to match.

Mrs. Ernest Mills, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. W. K. McGougan, presided over the tea-table which was prettily arranged in pink and white. The bride's cake adorned the centre of the table. Lovely pink rose buds and tall tapers completed a lovely setting. The ices were cut by Mrs. J. O. C. Campbell. Assisting in serving were Miss Enid MacFarlane, Miss Mona Saunders, Miss Avila Mathieson of Charlottetown, Miss Louise Tremble of Mount Allison's Ladies College, Miss Helen Baker, Miss Marion Leard and Miss Harriet Bradshaw.

Amongst the out of town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. J. O. C. Campbell, Mrs. John A. Mathieson, wife of Chief Justice Mathieson, Miss Avila Mathieson, Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Davidson, Miss Agnes Williams, Col. Elliot Full, Miss Margaret Full, Miss Keir, Hon. Peter and Mrs. Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Scales, Mr. and Mrs. James Stavert, Mr. and Mrs. Murdoch McLeod, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Campbell, Miss Ruth Dickleson, Mr. Alder Dickleson and Mr. Richard Dickleson.

Mr. and Mrs. Thane A. Campbell left later for Halifax to sail on the S. S. Alaudia for Europe. The bride's travelling dress was of fisher blue crepe with blue felt hat to match. The happy couple will make their future home in Summerside. The
