SANTA PALS

After one o'clock. There are more children in Summerside that are in need than you may think, so don't forget them. You will enjoy your Christmas dinner much more if you have helped some little child who would otherwise have had no Christmas.

The following is a list of suggestions:

- Eva, teddy bear.
- Irma, set of dishes.
- Milford, train.
- Raymond, teddy bear.
- Baby, rattle.
- Tru, train.
- Oliver, set of dishes.
- Baby Winnie, teddy bear.
- Mary Eltha, doll carriage.
- Francis, pair of skates, 11.
- Lorraine, 9 sled.
- Earl, 8, skates.
- Baby, rattle.
- Henry, 5, train.
- Lelia, doll.
- Noelie, 6, book.
- Noelie, doll.
- Lilly, 10, picture book.
- Elma, 8, doll.
- Willie, 6, sled.

the enthusiasm. But when the tumult and shouting had died, there seemed to be fly tracks in the ointment. If old wounds had been healed, new wounds had been created, in rumor reported correctly yesterday. According to accounts, there will be the Anti-Hepburn group, the Anti-Sinclair-Hepburn group, the Anti-Sinclair-Hepburn-Pro-Tweed group, the Pro-Sinclair-Anti-Anything-Else group, the Pro-Hepburn group, the Prohibition group and the Pro-New-Liquor-Plank group. The remainder, it was suggested, may be found lining up behind Hon. Harry C. Nixon, Progressive leader.

Tweed Is Surprised
 Definitely suggesting a schism within the little section of Liberals came the statement by S. C. Tweed, financial critic of the party, that he would have contested the leadership had he known his leader, Mr. Sinclair, was not seeking reappointment. When Mr. Sinclair said in two minutes that he was leaving the fight because he was unable to see a solution even if he were to win, the announcement came out of a clear sky upon Mr. Tweed's amazed ears.

"If Mr. Sinclair had decided earlier that he would not be a candidate, I should have liked to contest the leadership," was the formal statement of the North Waterloo member. And, because Mr. Tweed did not know, he was very definitely placed in the position of watching another man accept the opportunity which he had lost.

Already disappointed by the party's enthusiastic acceptance of the new liquor plank, many members, it was stated, were still further angered when Mr. Sinclair made his last minute announcement. A few nights prior, all the members had gone on record as being unanimously behind Mr. Sinclair. By this gesture each of them was precluded from the leadership contest. But, it was stated, this recording was made when it was understood that Mr. Sinclair was a candidate for the leadership.

By his retirement, undertaken, he stated, because he realized there was a turn of the tide against him and even his selection would not turn the tide, Mr. Sinclair provided the cause for much complaining, it was claimed. It was suggested that he had even obtained the support of the members so as to shut them from the contest, probably, it was stated, to provide an invitation for a stronger outside man because he did not think any present member strong enough.

Motive Is Considered
 Thus, it was said, the old leader hoped a new leader would come over the horizon and keep coming when he saw no stronger opposition from the present House membership. The path would have been made easier for him by the old leader stopping the gates to any of the members who had cast long eyes on the crown. Some have suggested that in his little following of House disciples he may have thought he saw a Judas, and thus acted to shut out all, so as to be sure to shut out that one.

Be that as it may, in his stand, he precipitated the little avalanche which left cuts and bruises here and there. Some of the members, report stated, felt that Mr. Tweed had been left stranded high and dry. Others felt that the leadership had been given to an outsider when the old leader might have plowed his way through and vindicated the members (or at least tried to) when they had placed themselves in the position of having vindicated him.

As a result, it was stated, the little group had been divided into many groups: Tweed sympathizers, Sinclair sympathizers (opinion was strong that the party "machine" had been set to sacrifice Sinclair at any cost), a few who held no strong brief for either Sinclair or Tweed, the dry members and the new plank members.

The new plank, it was flatly stated by more than one member, had definitely spelled doom for a good percentage of the present representation. Many had been elected by the old rural dry vote which is anti-liquor-control whether the opponent is Liberal, Progressive or United Farmer.

CHARGED WITH STEALING FELTS—A young man from Summerside, a dealer in fox furs, was arrested yesterday in the City by the Provincial Police, in connection with the recent fox stealing near Tignish. A suit case of fox furs, answering a description in the hands of the Provincial Police, was seized. The owner of the stolen furs is going from Tignish to Summerside today to examine the seized furs. The man who was arrested had come to the City to dispose of the furs. He had been one of the suspects since the investigation by the police several weeks ago. The Provincial Police have been watching the various fur markets for trace of the stolen pelts.

JUNIOR HOCKEY MEETING—A largely attended meeting held last evening at the Y.M.C.A. in the interest of the Junior Hockey League, it was announced that the Gyro and Rotary Clubs have each agreed to provide sweaters and stockings for one team. Three teams will compose the league, the Junior Rotarians, the Junior Gyros, and the Silver Foxes. A large number of youngsters have signified their intention of turning out for practice. All junior hockey players must be under twenty years of age. Notice of the first practice will appear shortly.

BREAKING AND ENTERING—Some time between Saturday night and Monday morning the warehouse of Auld Brothers, on Fitzroy Street, was broken into, by some persons, yet unknown and a quantity of butter and a number of geese stolen from the refrigerator. The police are investigating the matter, but, as yet, have made no arrests.

By it must seek some platform which is free from the stigma of favoring liquor control administration—even if the people demand it by a referendum. To this end, it was stated, some of them are already casting eyes at the party led by Mr. Nixon. The Progressives might as a result gain votes at the cost of the Liberal group which sought to gain by its new plank. Whether this gain would outweigh the loss was doubted by the members elected on dry principles.

Just how much oil can be poured on the troubled waters between now and the opening of the next session will determine just how peaceful that session will be, it was suggested. With pressure brought to bear from the powers that rule the party, it was stated, much could be done to smooth ruffled feathers. The oil, it was intimated, and the pressure will be forthcoming.

"We have been crucified to satisfy a demand for something new," stated one member to The Mail and Empire. "The new plank means that I, for one, am through, and there will be others in the same position I'm in. There won't be any use our even running at the next election."

Many of the rural members, it is stated, were elected on a sort of abstract understanding that the Liberal party represented an aridity which it upheld despite proclamations of the party and its leader denying it. With the party pledged to administer government control and remain entirely aloof from liquor problems, this vote is gone.

BEARCATS FRANK
 The Pete Mill-Frank Lavigne bulwark must have been a Gibraltar for the "Wolvey Wolves" to hurdle last night at Halifax Forum. Truro, and the men of Matte must feel jubilant today over the Bearcat 3 to nil shut-out of the Wolverines.

Bill McCall writing in the Herald, says that it was a surprise to many how the Abegweits got five markers past Leo Sargent, Bearcat goalie.

Nova Scotia sport writers name Sargent as the "ace of net-minders."

This gives the Abegweits an edge or a little notoriety, at least. They nicked Leo for the above mentioned five, and had him clanking to save on many other occasions.

KELLY IN TOWN
 Fred Kelly, former stellar athlete of this city and now coach of Acadia's athletes, is at present in the city and spending his Christmas holidays with his mother, Mrs. (Dr.) Kelly, 130 Fitzroy Street. Fred says he's in the pink of condition—and looks it.

Bill Power, rangy defence man of the Abegweits, who has been under bandages for the past week, was relieved of the stickers yesterday. He states he is just about feeling his old self again and looks forward to turning in a hard game against Crystals Christmas night.

With "Chick" Williams going like Christmas turkey, and Spillet gradually ironing out the kinks, things look good inside the Abegweits blue line.

Out front, the red and black are tearing things up for speed and shooting, and are looking their best to date.

Jack McEachern, who has been out of the game due to a bad cold, is expected to be back in the line shortly.

GYRO MEETING—The Gyro Club held its Christmas meeting last evening at the Parker House, where Mrs. McKinnon furnished a fine chicken dinner served in inimitable style. There was a very representative attendance. The Gyro Skating Club was the chief subject of discussion. Chairman Arthur Gaudet reported that he and other members of the Skating Club Committee, Gyros Carl Tibert and Sydney Green, had received many requests for information concerning the project. The chairman stated that Wednesday evening had been selected as the night on which the Skating Club could avail itself of the use of the new Forum and that final arrangements with the Forum management would be completed this week. He also reported that Wednesday, January 7th, would be the first night of skating for the club. Gyro George Buntain proposed that the club encourage the formation of a Junior Hockey League and assume the responsibility of equipping one of the Junior teams with uniforms. His suggestion was received enthusiastically and it is expected that some definite action to this end will be taken this week. President Charlie Williams announced that arrangements had been made with the Canadian Legion, whereby the names of the winners of the Gyro Pagan program contest will be announced at the annual Legion ball on New Years Eve. Prizes will also be distributed at that time. It was also announced that the winners of the barrel jumping contest at the parent would be announced shortly. A committee consisting of W. D. Gillis and F. B. Clark was appointed to take charge of the usual Christmas treat to the children of the two orphanages. Arrangements were made and committees appointed for a special party programme for the Gyro Club meeting on Monday, Dec. 29.

QUEEN HOTEL STAFF IS BANQUETED

The staff of the Queen Hotel was feted last evening on the occasion of the annual Christmas banquet and Christmas tree. The distribution of presents from the latter was accompanied by the usual wise cracks and merriment. Mr. Harry Brown, the manager of the Queen, was presented with a fine fishing rod. The tree was gorgeously decorated with varicoloured lights and the Christmas spirit everywhere prevailed. His Honour Lieutenant Governor Dalton, who graced the occasion by his presence, entered into the spirit of the festival, took the violin and played several popular tunes.

The floor was cleared and all entered into the light fantastic. Two of the former directors, Mr. W. K. Rogers and Mr. S. A. McLeod, were present with the staff for a short time. Their remarks were greatly appreciated, and both were loudly applauded.

The serving of the refreshments was one of the major events of the evening. The sumptuous repast was enjoyed to the full.

The radio installed for the evening by Mr. Rankin McLean provided music when required.
