Large audience Attends Red Cross concert

St. Paul's Hall was filled to capacity last evening, when the Women's Music Club sponsored a splendid concert consisting of ensemble and piano numbers, in aid of the Red Cross Society.

The chorus of thirty voices under the direction of Mrs. G. Elliot Full, did splendid work in the various numbers, the "Ave Maria" from Verdi's "Otello," "None But the Lonely Heart," and "The Waltz Song" from "Faust" being worthy of special mention. This chorus has been working together for several seasons and their work last evening in the various groups that were presented, was particularly commendable.

The Serenaders, well-known to Charlottetown audiences, contributed a lovely group of songs.

Miss Rena Wood and Miss Suzanne Brenton's very fine piano numbers added greatly to the delightful program as did the lovely [illegible] by Mrs. Full and Miss Lillian MacKenzie. Two duets by Miss Margaret Sterns and Miss Pearl Burns and a quartette, were also well received.

Wives May Believe, But Widows Know

MANY wives realize that money saved and invested in a Confederation Life policy is money put by for the protection of themselves and their children. They are prepared, if necessary, to go without certain things rather than sacrifice that financial protection.

But only widows know just what adequate life insurance means and—what is even more important—how tragic it is to be without it.

Confederation Life Policies may be had with Monthly Income Total Disability Benefits.

Tracy Scores In First Dual Role

Once again Spencer Tracy proves his right to his place as a two-time Academy Award winner with his portrayal of that favorite of fiction, "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Sharing honors with the star in the new picture, currently playing at the Prince Edward Theatre, are Ingrid Bergman and Lana Turner.

Surprise of the M-G-M production is the casting against type of the two leading ladies. Contrary to expectations, Lana Turner is the sedate Beatrix Emery, and Ingrid Bergman the little barroom entertainer, Ivy Peterson. Both prove their versatility in the unusual roles. One of the highlights of the drama is Miss Bergman singing "You Should See Me Dance the Polka" to the befuddled Mr. Hyde. Miss Turner, in her best role to date, proves herself a front-rank performer.

Tracy Dominates

But it is Tracy's performance which dominates the film. Admirable in his restraint, Tracy resorts to no gargantuan make-up to denote his transformation from the good Dr. Jekyll into the evil Mr. Hyde. With a minimum of facial horror, the star achieves his personality change through change of expression.

The Robert Louis Stevenson novel tells the story of young Dr. Jekyll, scientist interested in man's dual personality. He believes that in all men are good and evil. In some evil predominates over the good, in others the reverse is true. Over the objections of friends, colleagues and sweetheart, Jekyll continues his experiments in this field. He drinks the resulting potion. It is then his evil self asserts itself and he becomes Mr. Hyde.

About 200 citizens of Charlottetown, as well as a number of people from Summerside, Montague and other outlying districts, attended a showing of A. R. P. films in Prince of Wales College Auditorium last night. Earlier in the evening several hundred Boy Scouts, Girl Guides and school children were entertained and instructed by a similar showing.

The sound pictures were of great interest to all Air Raids Precaution workers as well as to citizens. Behind the scene "shots" of wartorn Europe and England during the air "blitz" were included in the three timely films.

The first picture was entitled, "The Battle of France". It was a vivid account of the terrible destruction wreaked by the dreaded German Luftwaffe in the offensive which preceeded the fall of the French Republic. The epic of Dunkirk, where the British wrested glory from defeat, was vividly portrayed on the screen. The heroic struggle put up by the French soldiers, outnumbered ten to one, while their government moved from city to city was shown. The merciless bombings of innocent civilians by the Germans was clearly demonstrated in this remarkable film. Finally the face of Marshal Petain was flashed on the screen as the surrender of France was described.

The second film was entitled, "Warning" and it held an important message for the peoples of all free lands living under the threat of invasion. The picture was prepared to show the protection the British Government had taken to safeguard its populace. Following mobilization and the outbreak of war, the English people were quickly organized for A. R. P. work. Wardens, decontamination squads, auxiliary firemen, Red Cross workers, police, and other services were formed rapidly from civilian volunteers.

The very efficient system with which these workers handled the serious air raids, which consequently hit their homeland, was amply demonstrated. Every possible measure was taken to ensure the safety of the people as wave after wave of enemy planes poured their destructive cargoes on the defenseless populace. The A. R. P. workers, coolheaded, tireless men and women, went about their tasks with thoroughness and were responsible for avoiding more wide-spread loss of life and property, as well as succeeding in keeping up the morale of the people.

The final picture was called, "Fighting Fire Bombs", and it clearly demonstrated the safest and surest means of dealing with incendiary bombs. The way these bombs operated was clearly shown as well as several effective ways of coping with them.

The films were shown by Mr. N. D. MacLean, and were obtained through the efforts of Mr. C. A. Beer of the Civilian Defence Committee, A. R. P.

In Memoriam

SISTER ANNE, S.S. J.D.

News has been received from Toronto of the death of Sister Anne—Anne Elizabeth Fairclough—on April 22nd. Sister Anne was a member of the community of St. John the Divine, which she entered forty-six years ago.

She endeared herself to the patients of the Weston of Tubercular Hospital by whom she was affectionately called "The Lady of the Lamp". In spite of advancing years she most regularly performed her duties there, as she had done for the past twenty five years, except for the last few months before her death.

By all her fellow members of the community she was regarded with love and esteem. Before joining the Sisterhood she was a resident of Charlottetown and a devoted member of St. Peter's Cathedral.

Her funeral was held on 24th April in the Chapel of the Convent of St. John the Divine in Toronto.

Her many friends here will learn of her death with deep regret.
