SOCIAL SERVICE CONGRESS

There has been in session in Ottawa, from the 3rd to the 5th inst., one of the largest conventions in the history of the Capital, namely the Social Service Congress of Canada. The object of this congress was to arouse interest and enlist all Canadians in behalf of social righteousness with the purpose of improving social, economic and ethical conditions in Canada. The Congress was planned under the direction of the Social Service Council of Canada, (formerly the Moral and Social Reform Council of Canada) in which all the evangelical churches of Canada and the Salvation Army are federated, also the Dominion Grange and Farmers' Association, the Trades and Labor Congress, the Canadian Purty Education Association and the Evangelical Association of North America.

In its representative character, embracing as it does all the religious and moral reform associations and many of the industrial organizations the Social Service Council has practically the whole dominion to back up its efforts.

For political support the Council has with it the leading men of both political parties. On the programme, we note the names of Right Honourable R. L. Borden, Prime Minister and Right Honourable Sir Wilfrid Laurier, ex-Prime Minister, and a number of lesser lights from both sides of the House. Politically, therefore, as well as from the religious, educational, industrial and generally representative stand point, little more could be desired to make the Council the supreme power in the land.

And to the creed of the Council all good men and women will subscribe without any hesitation. It is as follows:—

"The Social Service Council believes that righteousness can be realized in the complex conditions of modern life only through the application to all human affairs of the principles of the Kingdom of God.

"The Social Service Council declares for the application of Christian principles to the operations of industrial associations whether of labor or of capital; for a more equitable distribution of wealth; for the abolition of poverty; for the protection of childhood; for the safeguarding of the physical and moral health of women in industrial life; for the adequate protection of working people in cases of industrial accidents and occupational diseases; for the Sunday rest for every worker; for conciliation and arbitration in industrial disputes; for proper housing; for the adequate care of dependent and defective persons; for the reclamation of criminals; for wholesome recreation for the protection of society against contagious diseases; for international peace."

The aim is a worthy one, worthy of the best efforts of the best men and women, worthy of our Christianity and of our civilization. And, from the telegraphed reports of the proceedings, as published in recent issues of The Guardian, the need of the reforms sought is very great. Social, commercial, industrial and political impurity rampant to an almost incredible degree—with all the forces above mentioned crying out for purity! And neither the discovery of these evils nor the fight against them is new. The evils have been in progress for many years, for many generations in fact. The forces calling out for betterment have been similarly calling out for many years, for many generations, and it is still an open question in many minds as to which is making the more progress. The story told by the General Supervisor of Redemptive work of what she had discovered "under the shadows of the towers of Parliament in the beautiful City of Ottawa" indicates a condition which could not have been worse at any time since the dominion was founded. The stories of corruption in other directions were so discouraging as almost to tempt the enquiry if the stories were true, or if the organized forces arrayed against the evils were in earnest.

"One of the most significant statements" says our brief summary of the proceedings, "was that by Mr.

Good, President of the Dominion Grange and Farmers' Association, that he looked for no improvement or reform through the medium of the press, principally because it is in the hands of people who are leading figures in political parties."

This declaration must have fallen like a cold and disheartening fog upon the men and the women who had, all their lives, used the press freely in their good work, and many of whom must have learned to look upon Canadian newspapers generally as elevating and educative and always ready to help along any reasonable reform. One naturally wonders, on reading Mr. Good's charge, whether the "political" newspapers of both political parties came under the same condemnation, or if it is merely a repetition of the question of the man of Bethsaida—"Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?"

The reforms asked for are, many of them, reasonable and, if our civilization is what it professes to be, should be realized; some of them are sweeping and their early realization is doubtful, such as it might be desired, as, for instance, "to prevent the manufacture, importation and sale of cigarettes in Canada."

That the results of such a representative gathering should be far-reaching and beneficial cannot be doubted although it may be assumed that, with a less comprehensive bill of fare, the process of digestion and assimilation might be somewhat accelerated.

FOX AND FUR COMPANIES

REPLIES TO CORRESPONDENTS.

(Replies are given free to subscribers. Non-subscribers must forward 50c for reply through this column, or $1 for an extended reply by mail.)

W. M., Charlottetown: The company intends applying for incorporation, but has not yet lodged its application.

Raynard, Alberton: The company is just being promoted and has no foxes. The prospectus refers to options obtained, and is not misleading. Subscriber, Tignish: We are sorry you are so disgusted with the booming of the fox industry, and are writing us on the subject.

Port Hill: (1) We have given the names to Mr. McCready, Publicity Agent, who will furnish the literature requested. (2) You say you have received a cheque for a considerable amount to invest in foxes, and ask about the standing of two companies. We have no prospectus of the first mentioned, and inquiry at the Fox Exchanges and Publicity Agent has failed to discover one. The second mentioned is the name of the firm which is handling the shares of another company which is well spoken of. It owns two pairs of silver foxes capitalized at $17,000 per pair. They are said to be eligible, but have not yet been registered as Class A.

F. J. C., Vancouver: We have communicated the contents of your letter to Mr. J. Walter Jones who will communicate with you directly.

J. K., Beaton: Kingston Hillier, Publisher, Toronto, will be sufficient, it is merely a record of some of those interested in the fur business, and does not pretend to be comprehensive and official.

D. M., City: (1) No. (2) It is not misleading so long as no claim is made to pedigree. (3) You can now judge for yourself whether it is over-capitalization.

Foxywise, Charlottetown: We are not surprised at the present boom. If decent dividends be earned this year the boom of 1915 will be greater than ever. Make no mistake about that.

Amateur, Summerside: No, we do not claim to know all about the stock in the varied ranches. Our replies will be based on what reliable information is obtainable, and will be such as most foxmen on the spot are familiar with.

W. H. P., Murray Harbor: Thanks for letter and prospectus. See reply to above. We shall be pleased to convey to inquirers your personal guarantees that the company you are interested in is "a sound proposition with absolutely no graft or water in it."

A HANDSOMELY APPOINTED STORE

On Saturday a Guardian representative had the pleasure of going through bPatons newly renovated store, which is now one of the finest in the Province.

In fact, a gentleman, who entered the store, since its completion, stood still a minute and then said, "well I wouldn't know it was Patons if it was not for seeing you Mr. —"

One really has to visit the store to appreciate its brightness.

White paint and enamel have been so lavishly and artistically used by the painter, Mr. Burke that the store is now simply glistening with bright loveliness.

The new heavier board ceilings, meeting the shined walls, gives a most pleasing appearance of vastness and make a decidedly attractive background to the handsome new spring goods that are being daily piled on the shelves.

The lighting system has also been rewired and splendid results have been attained all over the building by the addition of many handsomely globed lights.

The renovations which have been made during the past five weeks by contractors Parkman and plumbers Currie & Murnaghan, are almost completed and the store reflects greatly to their credit.

The old stairway in the main store has been moved back and the elevator office enlarged to assure comfort and convenience to the bookkeepers, while the cashier will in future preside over one of the most up-to-date cash carrier systems, The Gipe, were installed, and on which the firm's representative is now busily engaged. Each department has its own cash carrier, the central for which is situated near the upstairs office and commands a view of the entire store.

Handsome "silent salesman" have been added to the centre of the store while in the ready to wear department at the rear, long highly polished counters have been added on which the millinery models will be shown, with the reserve stock nicely arranged in shelves underneath. This system will do away entirely with the old centre tables laden with hats, which so often confused and made the choosing of a hat a most difficult matter.

The ready made suits, dresses, etc., will also have new homes, and for them have been built handsome white enameled cases along the sides, (note) the glass doors, so that no dust or dirt can reach them. In fact so numerous are the minor improvements that the customer will experience only pleasure in shopping at Paton's big, bright, beautiful store.

It must not be forgotten either, that Paton's stock is entirely new and each day these goods are being placed on the shelves and counters for the eager buyers who, at this particular season, are anxious to secure the latest waves the markets produce.

Patons new stock is complete in every department, new dress goods for early spring and summer wear, suitings, coatings, cottons, linens, silks, trimmings, veilings, gloves, hosiery, neckwear, ladies ready to wear suits, dresses, white wear, nappy, etc., etc.

Upstairs the men's ready to wear department was never more complete and one would be puzzled to enumerate just what this vast department includes.

A line specially noticed was the exceptionally fine range of hats and caps now ready for choosing, all shapes, orders, and styles being displayed for selection.

The leather goods department is also replete with every known article required by the traveller and with the advent of the holiday season shoppers will find that selection is easy and prices satisfactory.

The carpet department came in for its share of renovations and daily is being added the handsomest carpets, squares, oilcloths, etc., that the foreign markets produce or careful and experienced buyers can procure.

The furniture department, which covers three floors, is teeming with tables, chairs, cabinets, buffets, sideboards, parlor sets, odd pieces, beds, etc., etc., in fact no one going housekeeping could afford to miss this showing.

The entire store has been enlarged, improved, repainted and painted and the contractors expect to be entirely through by Thursday next. In the meantime the staff are busily engaged arranging and placing their handsome new stock and are ready for visitors at all hours and everyone is invited to call and go through the store at their leisure.

Another convenience, added to save confusion, and labor, is a telephone in each department, five in all. These telephones will be regulated from a main switch board and central can thus be called direct from either of the several departments. 155-4ME11.
