Former Sultan Of Turkey is Dead

MOHAMMED VI ASCENDED OTTOMAN THRONE IN 1918 AMID TROUBLES OF WAR, FAMINE BRIGANDAGE AND POLITICAL UNREST; DEPOSED BY KEMALISTS
 SAN REMO, Italy, May 17.—Mohammed VI, former sultan of Turkey, died here at a late hour last night of cardiac paralysis.
 He had lived on the Riviera for the past three or four years.
 Sultan Mohammed VI's Princes, Yehia Edine, brother of Sultan Mohammed V, became heir-apparent to the Turkish throne on the suicide of Yusef Izzedin in 1916. He was proclaimed sultan on the death of Mohammed V, on July 3, 1918, in the midst of the troubles of war, famine, brigandage and political discontent. Soon after this, the Turkish government sought an end of the hostilities between the allies and Turkey. Turkey's surrender came on October 30 of the same year.
 Mohammed's abdication was called for in 1920 and 1921 by the Kemalists, but he refused to abdicate. The following year, however, Kemal Pasha, having taken control, Mohammed was forced to flee from Constantinople. He took refuge aboard a British warship bound for Malta. He abdicated after receiving information that the Angora

Sir Gerald du Maurier is an Actor For the Masses

LONDON, May 17.—Sir Gerald du Maurier, the celebrated actor and son of the author of "Trilby", again has shocked theatrical high brows. He declared that his ideal part is the one "that is most successful in the eyes of the majority." This is treason in the eyes of critics and playwrights who think there is no art in any drama which plays to large crowds and affords genuine amusement to the masses.
 "I leave Shakespeare to the other people," du Maurier said. "I just go on being an exponent of the modern 'natural' play to the best of my ability."

Best Musicians Begin to Study Before Age of 14

LONDON, May 17.—A musician cannot be made after the age of fourteen, is the declaration of Dr. John E. Borland, for seventeen years the directing master of a music class of half a million children in the London elementary schools, who has retired.
 Dr. Borland said the English really are a musical nation, but children who are naturally musical have so little chance to acquire a real love of music that it is strange the English do not excel along musical lines.

Color and Humor Add to London's Omnibus War

LONDON, May 17.—Color and humor have been added to London street life by the bitter omnibus war.
 The London Omnibus Company, against which the independents are struggling, has all its buses labelled "G nera".
 Rival lines have their vehicles named as variously as Pullman cars in the United States. One of the lines calls its buses "Admiral".
 The independent buses have combined to get business away from the dignified old "General", whose employees refuse to solicit passengers while the rivals keep up a constant ballyhoo.
 The "General" buses are all red. Many of the independent lines also have red vehicles. "Try the brown boys" is the cry of the Chocolate Express Company, Limited. "Have a green one" is the call of another line.

Excavations Disclose Ancient Filipino Culture

MANILA, P.I., May 17.—Discoveries showing the customs and culture of the Philippines of 700 years ago have been made in the excavations for the Navalich Dam. They include old bits of pottery of curious design, weapons, beads, bits of opal, old gold, jade agate and glazed utensils.
 Prof. H. O. Beyer, ethnologist and anthropologist of the University of the Philippines, said that the discovery that the Philippines in Pre-Spanish times had a high degree of culture was again confirmed by the discoveries.

Pains In Her Kidneys Completely Disappeared

New Brunswick Lady Speaks Highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills
 Mrs. E. Anketell Suffered From Kidney Trouble.
 Shaw Brook, N. B. May 17.—(Special)—"Your Dodd's Kidney Pills have given me complete satisfaction," says Mrs. Anketell, a well known resident of this place. "For three months I have taken them and I am very pleased with the results. The pains in my kidneys have completely disappeared. I am highly in favour of Dodd's Kidney Pills and would not be without them in the house for any time."
 The reason Dodd's Kidney Pills have come to occupy such a prominent place in the home is that so many ordinary everyday ills come from sick kidneys.
 Rheumatism, urinary troubles, backaches, diabetes and heart disease can be traced directly or indirectly to sick kidneys. To be assured of good health kidneys must be kept in good working order all the time.
 Ask your neighbors if Dodd's Kidney Pills are not the best remedy for sick kidneys.

Homeliness and Youth Face Japan's Premier

TOKYO, May 17.—Japan's new premier focusses public attention wherever he goes but not because his personal appearance is especially agreeable to the eye or that he possesses any particular charm of manner.
 On the contrary, he rather prides himself upon being about the homeliest man of his country.
 It is his extreme youth that puts him into the calcium light and this alone that prompts such speculation as there may be of his qualification for high office.
 Reijiro Wakatsuki, successor to the late Count Kato as head of government has barely turned sixty-one. In Japan, age comes before number and there is some concern among the ultra-conservatives whether Wakatsuki will prove capable of coping with the tremendous problems of state.
 Prince Salomon, the last of the elder Salm family who always the throne, is ninety years old. The late Premier Kato was sixty-seven, and many believed even he had not attained the years of discretion. Most of the other premiers have been men past middle age.
 The Premier takes his pulchritude good-naturedly and on one occasion made it the subject of acknowledgement. A Tokyo newspaper printed a story to the effect that a class of girl students visited the Premier in order to see if he were required to write essays on their experience. Nearly all of the essays dwelt upon His Excellency's homeliness. Mr. Wakatsuki said, however, that "beauty is beauty does", and emphatically stated that his ministry would not resign because of his unhandsome countenance.
 Mr. Wakatsuki derives considerable personal satisfaction out of the fact that Japan is not concerned at present with wet and dry questions. Whether one shall use alcoholic stimulants is not a national issue. The new premier is said to be rather outspoken on his ability to "take it or leave it alone" and his supporters hale this quality as a talent likely to add to his popularity in office.
 He drinks sake, the Japanese national beverage, and liquors whenever the thirst is upon him. His ability to "drink right along with the rest of the boys" rates him ace-high among the Japanese. Premier Wakatsuki was born in a samurai family of low rank. In his youth he was a primary school teacher drawing a monthly salary of three and a half yen. Later he

Evangelist Hamilton Puts Questions To Congregation

A large congregation was present at the services in the Central Christian Church last night. Mr. Hamilton delivered an inspiring address.
 "Oh, It is Wonderful," furnished the subject of a beautiful song which Mr. Woodruff sang with earnestness and effect.
 "There was a certain woman"—this was the text found in Acts 16: 14-15. It doesn't take long to describe a New Testament conversion. It doesn't take long to describe the conversion of Lydia—just two verses, The Acts of the Apostles is the story of conversions. If you want to know what a New Testament church is read the Acts of the Apostles. Lydia is a business woman. Lydia is a religious woman. She is away from home. Are you away from home? Well, if you are, are you religious? Six hundred miles away from home and we find her in a prayer meeting. You can go down to St. Louis, on Saturday, and find business, big and little, wide open, but will find one place of business—one of the biggest in the city—closed. Whose business is this? This concern belongs to an orthodox Jew. What kind of a man are you away from home? That is the test.
 This woman's heart was open, and the Lord opened her heart. The Lord touched her mind, heart and will. Faith comes by hearing—there is your point of contact. Personal evangelism is almost a lost art. We think of everything by way of conversion must be done by and through the pupil. I tell you it is a mistake, it is a huge and vital mistake. A few women, in a quiet and obscure place, heard Paul preach. No great pulpit there. Oh no! Just personal work. Take your message from the greatest personal worker, in all history, outside of Jesus Christ.
 Take your heart-wad will you? How can the heart of that stingy close-fisted money-ogre be opened? The Lord can open the heart of such a fellow, and the Lord can do it through you.
 This address was replete with illustrations of a telling character. The evangelist got down to what we call, in the vernacular of the street, "brass tacks." At the close of this pointed message three young women decided upon the salvation and service of Christ their Lord.
 Evangelist Hamilton announced that tonight would be lodge night and he will speak along lines which will interest all lodge men and women. A hearty invitation is extended to all who are in any way afflicted with lodge life and work.

Cumberland Presbyterians Have Biggest Endowments

COLUMBUS, Miss., May 17.—Reports to the general assembly of the Cumberland Presbyterian church, which meets here May 20-22, are expected to show the largest sum total of endowments of any year in the history of the denomination.
 More than one hundred commissioners will attend from several sections of the country. About as many delegates will come for the missionary convention which meets simultaneously.
 During the last twenty years there has been an increase each year in the erection of new church buildings and mansees, the reports will say. The board of education announces a healthy condition at Bethel College, where all indebtedness has been wiped out.
 Sunday school publications have more than doubled in circulation the last seven years.
 The Modernist discussion has not arisen in previous assemblies as the Cumberland Presbyterians are about one hundred percent fundamental.

THE MARKETS

(Canadian Press)
 MONTREAL, Que., May 17.—The demand from the United Kingdom and the continent for Manitoba spring wheat on the Montreal market continued very good today and the prices bid were in line with some other. A moderate amount of business was worked. The demand for coarse grains was of a very limited character.
 Prices for spring and winter wheat grades were well maintained. Extreme dullness marked the millfeed trade but the undertone was good. The market for rolled oats was also in line. The feature of the potato today was the stronger feeling that developed and prices scored an advance of ten to twenty-five cents per bushel. Considerable business was transacted in eggs and prices were steady.
 The butter and cheese markets were without any new feature to note.
