Yanks Win Again From Philadelphia
Team Unable to get Away to Chatham

Champions Pounded Four Runs in 8th to Beat Faltering Mackmen.
Attempt to Get Twin Bill Set Over to Saturday Fails. Appeal to M. P. B. is Disallowed. Branch Rules Decision of Provincial Baseball Body Final.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—With 40,000 fervent fans roaring for the kill, the world's champion Yankees battered down the Philadelphia Athletics 5 to 3 today, and just about clinched the American League title by pushing Connie Mack's warriors 2 1-2 games behind them. It was the Athletics' third straight defeat in this super-crucial series. The kill was put off until the eighth inning. The Yanks then tied the score with none out and George Herman Ruth waddling to the plate found his home-run pal, Lou Gehrig, on second base. Connie Mack and Bob Grove elected to fight it out with the great hambino, rather than frank him to first base and the battle began. The Babe, seizing the chance, strove to cross the opposition by bunting the first one, but it was foul on the third base line by a shade. Ruth then took a called ball and then it happened.

BABE CAME THROUGH
 Yes, into his own right field bleachers it rode for home number 49, with all the ear-marks of a pennant fastened upon it. More than 40,000 strangely partisan New York throats belted a paean of joy, such as seldom before has disturbed the peace of the lower Bronx, and almost as many pairs of hands reached for strawhats with which to shower a welcome upon the triumphant procession of Lou and the Babe.

Now that the Yanks have been threatened New York seems to want them to win, as they did today, by a score of 5 to 3, for their third straight time in the most crucial of all crucial series. The bent form of the old, old master stood on the steps of the Athletics' dugout with a worried wrinkle upon his brow and he peered out at the bedlam and the triumph of the enemy. The game, troubled old man was visibly shaken by the blast which shattered his dreams of baseball empire. He trembled, passed a hand over his brow, bobbed the great lump of an Adam's apple, which nestles just above the high collar he always has worn. Connie then steered himself and deployed his troops for a final assault upon young Henry Johnston, nemesis of the 1928 Mackmen.

RESERVES FAIL
 The ninth inning saw Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins and Wally French stride up in turn, first-line reserves of the beaten Athletics. The first two of these names as names to frighten the average young pitcher out of the box as recently as two years ago, but not Johnston today. The young Floridan got Ty on a hoist to the same name as a fly to the same gentleman of the defense and French on a weak pop to Meusel. The Yanks had won and led the worried Mackmen by two and one-half games.

All that remains is that fourth game of this now not-so-crucial engagement tomorrow and the final tally through the west—fifteen games for the Yanks in the Occident and thirteen for the Macks. The trail is long to the end of the permanent race, and the 'pot of world series gold, and the minions of McGillicuddy are tired.

If they can beat Hoyt with Earnshaw tomorrow, their case will be so much brighter. But what seems to be the use against killers who have already taken sixteen out of twenty-one?

William Haines in a New Characterization

PORTRAYS A TYPE DIFFERING ENTIRELY FROM HIS PREVIOUS ROLES IN "TELLING THE WORLD."

A new William Haines. That is the substance at the Prince Edward Theatre decided yesterday when they saw the opening performance of William Haines' starring picture, "Telling the World." Haines, who heretofore has established himself as a wise-cracking athlete who always learns better the next to the last reel, has brought to the screen in his new production an entirely different type of character. Traces of the wise-cracker are still there but the character has softened and strengthened. As the newspaper reporter who doesn't recognize love until he has almost lost it, Haines is more human and admirable than ever before in his starring career. Not that "Telling the World" is funny, it is. Probably the funniest of all the many productions Haines has contributed to make the heart of humanity lighter. This picture has everything; humor, pathos, drama and a smashing punch at the finish that had the audience on their feet as the battle planes swooped low over the square to rescue the girl from Chinese banditry. Haines is more entertaining than ever. The report that his acting is almost entirely extemporaneous must be true. No one could possibly be so funny in cold blood. Sam Wood, the director, and his star are a happy combination, for their dual effort moves at a high tempo from start to finish: a tempo that has the audience roaring with laughter while still gulping to keep back the tears. Anita Page, who makes her first appearance on the screen as Haines' leading lady, looks like the best picture bet that has appeared on the screen in many and many a day. Miss Page has a personality that is entirely her own and a beauty that is like no other on the silver screen. She gives a performance so perfect it is difficult to realize that this is her first appearance. The remainder of the cast, Eileen Percy, Polly Moran, Frank Currier, Bert Roach, Mathew Betz and William V. Wong are excellent in their roles.

Grassers ranging from $6.00 to $7.25 and good veals up to $13.50. Lambs were just steady at $12.00 for good lots with common lambs from $10.00 to $11.00. Hogs were strong. Several lots were sold on yesterday's market for $14.00 and $14.00 was the ruling price today. Sows sold from $10.00 to $11.50 with odd sales up to $12.00.

TIME TO THINK OF PLANTING BULBS

The time has arrived to think of preparing for the Spring garden, and also for a supply of winter blooming flowers. Bulbs are required in this connection, and recent importations from Holland will now be available in all seed stores. It is a simple matter to have a brilliant display of tulips, hyacinths, crocuses, and other Spring bloomers, if they are planted in September or early October. When different varieties are chosen, the bloom will spread over that otherwise barren season of the year, from early spring until the time of the persimmons commence to flower. Most of these bulbs also, especially those of the forcing type, which are usually listed separately in the bulb catalogue, will bloom in the house. They should be planted in pots and kept in a cool, dark place, until the roots are well developed.

Sowing Grass Seed

Now that the hot weather of Summer is on the wane, it is safe to plant grass seed again. Bare spots in the lawn, if sowed down now, should be completely covered over before snow flies. In handling these, stir up the soil well—it may be necessary to dig it with a spade—rake level, then press the seed in evenly with a roller or pounder. It is hard-

MONTREAL, Sept. 12.—Six Canadians and ten players from the United States advanced to the second round of the Canadian women's open golf championship by winning their first round matches at Beaconsfield today. All six Canadians are drawn against United States stars for tomorrow's play. Chief interest will enter in the all-United States struggle in which Helen Payson, the defending champion from Portland, Maine, will meet Mrs. Lee Mids, a sturdy match player from the Chicago district, who is favored by many who have been following the play as a likely winner of the title. Barbara Richardson of St. Andrews, N. B., was defeated by Mrs. Lee Mids, Chicago, 8 and 6. Mrs. Mids is highly rated as a contender for the title. In addition to the first round of the championship, five flights of consolation were started today. In the first consolation flight, K. Robertson, Beaconsfield, defeated Audrey McLeod, Saint John, N. B., 3 and 2. Mrs. H. Richardson, Saint Andrews, N. B., won her match in the third consolation flight from Mrs. C. H. Allen, Beaconsfield, 8 and 7. In the fifth flight Miss M. D. McKean, Halifax, won by default from Mrs. E. E. Miller, Schenectady, N.Y.
