War History To Date

The fifth number of the Oxford Periodical History of the War, covering the period June 15 to August 1940, has made its appearance and is of more than usual interest.

In an announcement accompanying the fifth number of the series the Oxford University Press says this to be the only contemporary history of the war in pamphlet form.

Concluding the fifth number of the History, Professor McNicoll gives a forceful summation of "Hitler's New Europe" and the vital issues at stake in the war which Britain is waging.

The department of External Affairs reports that there has been no disturbance of the friendly relations between Canada and Japan as a result of the latter joining the Berlin Axis.

Looking at the picture of the King talking to the people in air raid London reminds a correspondent of Kipling's lines: "When King and People understand each other without a doubt, It takes a foe, and more than a foe, to knock that country out."

Outspoken U. S. Comment

It would be interesting to know what proportion of American public opinion is represented by the following outspoken editorial comment from the Louisville Courier Journal on a subject of prime interest at the present time:

"While WILKIE and ROOSEVELT are vying with each other in promises to keep America forever out of war, the great Battle of the North Atlantic is raging—a battle which will settle our fate. If the North Atlantic passes into the hands of those who have vowed to destroy our way of life—the ocean which we have long thought a bulwark of defense becomes a deadly highway for the economic or military domination of this hemisphere."

"There will be no truce on the part of our young men and women, the minute they know their country is in mortal danger. The only reason they do not know it is that their leaders will not tell them, will not explain flatly, bluntly, resolutely, that war is being waged against our chances for a good future."

Fire Prevention

By an Order in Council, the Dominion Government has proclaimed the week commencing on Sunday, October 6, as Fire Prevention Week. During which all citizens are urged to concentrate on an examination of their properties with a view to eliminating fire hazards.

Some of the causes of fire undoubtedly are hard to foresee, but in most instances negligence is to blame. Overwhelming evidence of this is found in the statistics of the Dominion

Fire Commissioner, which show that at least 80 per cent of the fires which occur in Canada originate either directly or indirectly through what this official bluntly terms "excusable ignorance and neglect." That is a strong indictment, but it appears to be warranted when it is realized what a cost in havoc and loss of life this negligence exacts.

Every pile of rubbish, every oily rag and other inflammable litter is a potential fire menace, particularly when left inside or near buildings. The safe thing to do is remove and get rid of all discarded articles for which there is no further use.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Walter Oland, better known as Charlie Chan, the detective hero of motion picture melodrama, seen and admired wherever such pictures are shown, born this date, 1880.

The Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada meeting in Summerside has two past ministers of the congregation in attendance there: Rev. Messrs. Mitchell and Jeans.

Congratulations to Rev. Mr. Webster on his unanimous election as Moderator of the Presbyterian Synod, nominated by Pictou Presbytery and seconded by Prince Edward Island Presbytery.

Summerside is a busy centre these days with 90 or 100 representatives from all over the Maritimes attending the Synod together with their feminine belongings.

In 1939, 4,613,000 Christmas trees valued at $5,366,000 were imported into the United States, all shipments being credited to Canada. Imports in the previous year totalled 4,220,405 trees valued at $1,880,000, of which 276,027 trees worth $22,420 came from Newfoundland.

The department of External Affairs reports that there has been no disturbance of the friendly relations between Canada and Japan as a result of the latter joining the Berlin Axis.

Canada's diplomatic relation with the Vichy Government are unchanged, notwithstanding the fact that French airplanes are alleged to have bombed Gibraltar. Nor has Col. de Gaulle got any active or official help from Canada, although in July he made an appeal to Ottawa and sent a personal emissary, Captain Henri de Kerillis, to present his appeal to the Prime Minister.

Groups of Roman Catholic missionaries from Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec and Chicoutimi bound for posts in China, Japan and Manchuria leave Vancouver for their destinations in the Far East this week. From Montreal, bound for the Canadian mission at Sendai, Japan, will be a group of priests of the Dominican Order, as well as a number of religious of the Order of the Good Shepherd bound for the same place.

The popular song, "There'll Always be an England," not only bolsters the courage of the British people in the present crisis but is a cry of defiance and a song of victory as well.

NOTES BY THE WAY Britain's Problems In Food Control

It would appear as if the Germans made a special attempt to damage food stores, hospitals, schools, churches, houses and other places with absolutely no military value.

A Rome news dispatch appearing in an English paper relates that a French liner was seized in the Canadian Port at Ottawa. This is the first intimation that the Canadian Government has enough water to float a 6,000-ton vessel.

A middle-aged chap in the garb of a workman came to be registered. He gave his racial origin as Polish and his marital status as "married." "Is your wife a Pole, too?" asked the young registrar.

Newfoundland, the Bermudas, the Bahamas and the Antilles, constitute a sort of Magnin Line which no aggressor can enter without incurring the consequences of the gauntlet of the formidable line of defense batteries.

The diets on which the people are living cannot be compared with those before the war. Dr. Allen said, "Standards have been modified and will continue to be modified to a greater extent."

There was a time, not long ago, when Americans thought that we did not mean to fight. Everything seemed to be going too slowly. Hit by our enemies, and might be strangled without a struggle.

There is in the United Kingdom none of the dissension and mistrust which made it easy for the Nazis to get a grip on the countries of the Continent. The intrigue which permeated the leadership of France before she was struck down by violence finds no place in the island fortress.

Great strides have been made in recent years in Canada in the field of aviation and future years undoubtedly hold still further remarkable developments. The first report on Civil Aviation compiled by the Bureau of Statistics, reveals that during the first three months of 1940 the mileage flown by civil aircraft in Canada totalled 2,474,662, of which 2,126,900 was revenue air.

The Robber Triangle

(Winnipeg Free Press) There will be no truce on the part of our young men and women, the minute they know their country is in mortal danger.

The only difference between the Anti-Comintern Pact and the new Defensive (D) Alliance is that in 1938 there was a large number of well-meaning citizens in France, Britain, Canada and the United States who really believed that Germany and Italy and Japan were honest and did not bow down before their blackmail and hand over the available booty without further delay.

The difficulties of the British Ministry have been increased by the problem of shipping under war conditions. Shipping dates are not made known to the public nor to the trade. Of necessity arrivals are irregular. Often ships unload their cargoes at ports where port facilities are inadequate and remote from points of consumption.

Dr. Allen referred to the great shifts in population which have been made this further increasing the weight of distribution supplies. Transportation in the United Kingdom is handicapped by the black-outs. Much of the work of handling food has to be done at night.

While the British Ministry of Food has not over an imported and home produced food, it, in turn, is subject to the rigid regulations of the Treasury. The Treasury rules with an iron hand.

He pointed out that paying for goods is a comparatively simple matter when it is all within the country, for there is no problem of foreign exchange. As far as Canada is concerned, there is an adverse balance of trade against Great Britain to an amount of about $100,000,000 for the first year of the war.

From the viewpoint of finance alone the United Kingdom must do all in its power to encourage food production at home where existing is no a problem. Food at home is readily available and also there is no shipping problem in connection with it.

He said, "Standards have been modified and will continue to be modified to a greater extent." "We will be misled if we compare conditions there now with those existing before the war."

It would be difficult to find another phony as big as Hitler—Hitler, to me, beneath that stern and forbidding appearance he gives in newsreels and news photos, actually is a weak man and petty neurotic.
