OLDSMOBILE OFFERS NEW 1950 FEATURES

The new 1950 Futuramic Oldsmobile just announced by General Motors is available in either the Series 76 or Series 88—the latter powered by the 135 h.p. high compression Rocket engine teamed with the newly-developed Whirlaway Hydra-Matic Drive. The 1950 Oldsmobile also features smartened exterior appearance, new interior trim design, new colors and sturdier construction—shown here is the Series 76 deluxe four-door Sedan.

OSHAWA: A new restyled Futuramic Oldsmobile for 1950, available in two series, and featuring smartened exterior appearance, new interior tailoring and trim design, new colors and sturdier construction has been announced by General Motors. The famed "Rocket" high-compression engine, introduced last year again powers the Series 88 Oldsmobile. This model is automatically supplied with the new Oldsmobile Whirlaway Hydra-Matic Drive developed especially to team with the "Rocket" engine. The standard Hydra-Matic Drive—nearly 1,000,000 have proved their reliability in billions of miles over the past 10 years—is available as an option at extra cost on the Series 76. This series, powered by a six-cylinder engine with 105 h.p., offers a choice of standard or deluxe four-door sedan, two-door club sedan and a standard club coupe. The series 88 Rocket engine with a compression ratio of 7.5 to 1, is available in de luxe four door sedan and deluxe two-door club sedan. Both series 76 and 88 are mounted on 119 1-2 inch wheelbase.

Oldsmobile for 1950 retains the same front look with its low, broad, road hugging appearance. The strikingly simple grille and massive "wrap-around" bumper with the "three-in-one" lights are keynotes of Futuramic styling. Other highlights of exterior styling include a new hood ornament on the Series 76, with a Rocket superimposed to mark the Oldsmobile tradition. The "Futuramic" embossed on the Series 76 with the word "Futuramic" embossed at its forward end; a new trunk emblem and rear deck handle; new trunk lock, separated from the trunk handle; and new hub caps with drop centre styling. The Series 88 has new front fender stainless steel moldings carrying back along the fender into the front door. There is a distinctive tail light unit located high up on the fenders where they can be seen readily from both sides as well as the rear. These carry the numerals "88" at the side of the lenses.

Added to the traditionally smart interiors are luxurious trim, hardware and fittings. New simulated
