Freezing Of Some Potato Stocks Ordered

OTTAWA, May 10 (CP) — To meet existing shortages, the Price Board tonight announced a temporary freeze of parts of the potato stock and that sales of large wholesalers and the channels of shipments through a central agency in Montreal to centres of greatest shortages. The announcement said these steps were taken in conjunction with the Agriculture Department. Officials said further controls of retail sales were being planned and that sales of certified seed potatoes would be restricted to ensure their use as seed and not for table use.

Food officials said last year's Maritime potato crop had been over-estimated and that shortages now existing were due in large measure to light crops in Ontario and Quebec last year. The announcement said steps being taken for distribution of potatoes still available were subject to priorities favoring the demands of the Munitions and Supply Department and needs for ships' stores.

Under instructions issued today each Maritime potato shipper is to supply his nearest Agriculture Department grading inspector with the names of intended consignees, car numbers and quantities of each grade of potatoes to be shipped. The grading inspectors in turn are to supply that information to the board's central distributing agency in Montreal. Officials of the Montreal agency are authorized to re-route consignments of potatoes from one destination to another depending on where the more serious shortages exist.

Wholesalers having more than 200 bushels of potatoes on hand are required to hold 50 per cent pending instructions from prices and supply representatives of the board. These stocks will be available for distribution in centres of acute shortages.

Nazi Surface Fleet May Put To Sea

LONDON, May 10 (CP)—A warning that a German surface fleet might come out of its hiding places soon for action was given today by Admiral Sir John Tovey, former commander of the British Home Fleet, in a farewell address aboard the fleet's command ship. "It may be that a change in the German naval high command means the enemy is preparing to utilize its surface force and we must be ready," said the Admiral before leaving for his new post as commander of a naval shore base. (Berlin announced in January that Admiral Karl Doenitz had replaced Admiral Erich Raeder as commander of the German navy. Fleet units are reported in hiding in the Baltic and at Trondheim, Norway.)

OTTAWA, May 11 (CP)— Sale of certified seed potatoes for any use other than planting is prohibited in a Price Board order issued tonight. Purchasers of such potatoes in the period covered by the order will be required to sign a statement, to be kept by the seller, that the potatoes will be used only for seed purposes. On and after June 7, the maximum price at which seed potatoes may be sold is the ceiling price established for Canada. No 1 grade of that particular variety as provided in a previous board order.

To Boost U.S. Plane Output

WASHINGTON, May 11 (AP)—Estimating United States plane output by a new method, President Roosevelt said today the 1944 total is expected to be 1,417,000,000 pounds of airplanes of all types. The President said that 87,000,000 pounds in 1942 and an estimated 21,000,000 pounds for this year. The President told a press conference it is a pretty good way of showing how the country has boosted plane output. Mr. Roosevelt put the figures in pounds he said, because the stress has been shifted so as to produce heavier ships. We are building now, he added, relatively more four and two-engine bombers, long range fighters and cargo planes. The thought more and more behind our program, is that we are to go on the offensive, he said.

Dreams Often Have a Significant Meaning DO YOU DREAM? You dream you're a ballet dancer with all the poise, lightness and loveliness causing the audience to gasp their approval and admiration. When you awaken you remember this dream—wonder what significance it had—it seemed so clear! It may prove that subconsciously you have an overwhelming desire to pursue dancing. Because dreams do move things. Modern psychologists do not laugh at our dreams. The famous Sigmund Freud's theory was that when we dream, our unconscious mind rises to the surface. Therefore they disclose our deepest deep-hidden hopes and fears. Our 32-page booklet describes dreaming and how modern psychology uses dreams as clues, messages from the unconscious, revealing to the conscious mind mental states of which we may not be aware. Not of us are all too ready to dismiss our dreams as empty, or meaningless when they may often point the way to a solution to a problem. Send in for your copy of The Meaning Of Dreams to the Charlottetown Guardian Home Service Address. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

in many new types of aircraft which recently have appeared on both sides. The authoritative aviation magazine, the Aeroplane, confidently believes that if things continue as they are now, "the result must be that the enemy will be driven from the north Atlantic."

Just off the secret list is the Hawker Typhoon, a single-seat fighter armed with four 30-millimeter cannons. The Spitfire, an American Mustang now is similarly armed, and with the Rolls Royce Merlin Motor, should be exceedingly formidable.

In the specialized anti-tank category, the Hurricane IID, with its two Vickers 40-millimeter cannons, is in a class by itself. The Fairey Barracuda torpedo-bomber is details haven't been disclosed. The Bristol Beauighter is beyond doubt, the world's best land-based torpedo-bomber.

The Nazis have been driven to use their fast Focke-Wulf 190 fighter as a night bomber. "probably the most untried to which such a role has ever been put," says the Messerschmitt 323 six-motor large-scale transport job in Tunisia—31 out of 31 were destroyed. Nor did the Carponi-Reggiane 200 single-seat fighter which escorted them in a useful show. These Italian fighters with German engines are said to be the best the Italians possess. The Spitfire IX's flying in Tunisia have complete mastery over them.

"In fact," states the Aeroplane in a review of the war, "unless the enemy is holding back, the new craft of a performance utterly beyond anything they show at present, the tactical superiority of the Allies seems likely to become increasingly apparent, as numbers are added to quality."

The battle of Britain was won and lost because the side with the fewer numbers had the better aircraft and the better crew—in the air and on the ground. Today the superiority in machines is reinforced by superiority in numbers also.

"The result must be that the enemy will be driven from the air. When we can gain command of the air over enemy territory, the work of the army on land and the navy on the seas is eased a hundredfold."

The Island

The islands, oh the islands! The islands of the sea! There's many a one in story, But only one to me. The island of the rolling hills Of upland, lawn, and lea— The little Garden of the Gulf, That rests upon the sea.

Oh her summer skies are fairest And bluest of the blue, Her many sons are foremost Among the brave and true; And kindest are the women there Who hold upon the knee The little children of the Isle That's cradled on the sea.

But oh the pretty maidens That flourish in that Isle, The pretty Island maidens, So free from sham and guile! Oh the mayflower of the Island wood, And daisy of the lea, Are but sisters of the maiden in That Garden of the sea.

Oh her little hills are gardens, And her forests are so green, Where each little bird is singing To the singer that he loves; And the perfume of her meadow-fields, And perfume of her trees Are forever intermingled with The odor of her seas.

The islands, oh the islands, The islands of the sea— There's many a one in story, But only one to me. M. McKeown.
