BOSTON, April 19—(AP)—Gerard Cote of Montreal, twice winner and defending champion, today scored his third victory in the 48th annual 26-mile, 383-yard Hopkinton-to-Boston marathon, the first runner to register successive triumphs since the fabulous Clarence De Mar accomplished the feat nearly two decades ago. Johnny Kelley of West Acton, Mass., a former winner, placed second in several years behind the winner.

The winning time was 2:31:50. Cote's time was 2:32:03. For Kelley it was the sixth time he had run second in the event and he finished just short of 12 seconds behind the winner.

At that the pair so speed-casted the field of 99 starters (that the third man, Pharmacia's mats Charles A. Robbins, United States Navy, of the Samson Naval Station, didn't arrive until almost seven minutes later.

Bill Corum Ace Reporter on Gillette's 'Cavalade' of Sports—says:

"Yes, shaving's a cinch with the Blue Gillette Blade, because it has the sharpest edges ever produced! That's been proved by thousands of tests with Gillette's famous sharpness comparator which measures keenness with a beam of light.

"No other blade is as sharp, easy-shaving or long-lasting. It whisks off tough beard clean as a whistle—leaves your face feeling swell."

LONDON, April 19—(CP)—The unskilled loser during a six-bout boxing tournament at the American Rainbow Club in London, the unskilled loser was Gnr. Joe Marsh of Montreal. In fact, few could understand how he lost the decision.

Former British Empire Games middleweight, Joe slugged Lafayette Drummond, United States Army private from St. Louis, Mo., all over the ring for three rounds, but couldn't knock him out. About Lafayette showed was a strong defence.

Joe, incidentally, is a brother of Gnr. Doug Marsh who recently won the Canadian Army (C.A.F.) middleweight crown and lost out in the final of the British Army championships.

Another Canadian loser on the Rainbow card was Cpl. Arnold Hayes, Montreal Negro, middleweight who turned professional after winning the Canadian Army title two years ago. A right to the chin floored Hayes in the fifth round of a slugfest with Sgt. Walt Montgomery of Detroit.

The German-controlled Paris radio called the night attack "the bloodiest of the whole war and one of a foretaste of things to come."

Today another 2,000-plane American force made the grand assault on the German-held factories in the vicinity of Kassel, Germany, and of hangars, barracks and parked rows of new German planes at Eschwege.

Fighter-escorted American heavy bombers, including the P-51 Mustang and the P-47 Thunderbolt, were in the Kassel and Hamun vicinities. Results were reported as being "generally satisfactory."

Higher-escorted American heavy bombers, including the P-51 Mustang and the P-47 Thunderbolt, were in the Kassel and Hamun vicinities. Results were reported as being "generally satisfactory."

One German raid on southeast England and the London area last night was fairly heavy.

It was announced that 15 persons were killed by bombs, incendiary bombs and crashing planes. A large London hospital was hit, houses and cottages were destroyed.

Further Details Of Tests Under Wing Cmdr. McLean

BY JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ROCKLIFEE, Ont., April 19—(CP)—Alined at keeping an unbroken stream of bombers over enemy targets, the winter adaptation program of the R.C.A.F. test and development station here is reported ahead of any country in the world.

Many of the developments in the body of the test are being reported, but it can be said that one of the most important—electrically-heated propeller blades—may provide the antidote to hazardous conditions which often keep bombers on the ground.

The new de-icing equipment cannot be given, but the blade, heated by electricity, is said to prevent ice from forming even in the most treacherous weather.

Island Ace In Charge

The test unit has under Wing Cmdr. Angus MacLean, D.F.C., Lewis, P. E. I., also has participated in developments to make aircrew comfortable through adoption of improved cabin heating equipment.

A large part of the work of the unit is concentrated on the development of gadgets used by aircraft on the U-boat patrol of Canada's east coast. These cannot be listed.

Everyday routine sees the airman checking gauging speeds of planes, deliberately creating dangerous spins and in other ways emulating hazardous flying occurrences which will provide them with data leading to corrective measures.

Somber gauges reading yellowish-green lighted dash boards are blind to the murky black night ahead of the test unit.

An important job is the compilation of "pilot notes"—comprehensive handbooks giving the test unit scientists a detailed system of illumination for the instrument boards and found this dispelled the temporary blind spot.

Mr. Fulton Campbell, who is Organizer and Secretary of the War Loan Campaign for King's County stated last night that as far as he could recall the War Loan Meeting in Montague was the largest public meeting that had ever been held in the town. The hall was packed with representative citizens of Montague and the immediate surrounding district.

Mr. R. G. MacDonald acted as chairman of the meeting and then the chairman called on Col. C. G. Thompson, M.C., and in introducing Col. Thompson to the meeting he said that the record of Col. Thompson, one of their native sons, who served 1914-1918 and also in this war and in addition has two of his sons now on active service.

Col. Thompson began his address by outlining the seriousness of the situation and so graciously described in the War Department report. Then he went on to describe the importance of the War Loan Campaign and the role of the War Loan Campaign in the home front.

Twenty-Four Hour Leave

BY BENED SHANN
Author of "Stend Nurse", "War Wife", "Air Force Girl".

"One day that will happen, my Cherry." "I wonder when, Simon darling?" "Heaven knows, but it can't go on forever."

"I suppose we're terribly lucky to have even this. I feel sorry for some of the girls whose husbands are overseas."

Sunday passed and now it was Monday. Cherry was in uniform again, an A. C. W. 2 once more, tell Mrs. Greene that it had been a grand weekend and she'd be back again in a fortnight. "You'll look after the place for us all right won't you, Mrs. Greene?"

"Of course I will mtn. Just as if it was my own."

She drove to London with Simon. He knew she was likely to get the airdrome until six o'clock. It worried her that, when he suggested they should meet for lunch she had to make vague excuses. Would he mind if she didn't just this once? She had rather a number of things to do in town but she didn't get up there very often.

He dropped her at Piccadilly Circus. "You'll be all right, darling?" he said. "Seems funny to be saying good-bye to you like this."

"I'll be all right, Simon."

"What are you expected to go back?"

"I'm not really quite sure. I'll go down with Lane most likely. I'm set for at least six o'clock at Marshall's. This at least was true, only it didn't see her conscience. She wondered for a moment whether she'd cut her appointment with Jerry Mill. She didn't see her conscience. She wondered for a moment whether she'd cut her appointment with Jerry Mill. Improved your looks?

Cherry laughed. "If it's improved my looks, heaven knows what it will do to yours! Listen what are you going to do now? It's ten past twelve and I'm free until one."

"So am I. I want to buy a hat. Only so difficult trying on a hat when one's in uniform."

"I took Lane some time, but in the end found one that suited her. A hat, Lane would dare wear; a snip of tulle, a rose and a large veil looked ravishing in it, even when it looked the severe coat of her uniform."

"Let me know when you're dining with him in that hat," said Cherry. "I'll start a subscription among the girls for your wedding present."

"I will. It'll be on my next forty eight hours leave in London, that'll be just a fortnight from now. The wedding will probably be a month or so later."

Cherry chuckled. "You're not going to waste much time, are you?" She shared in part to her rapid speech. "I'll start a subscription among the girls for your wedding present."

"I will. It'll be on my next forty eight hours leave in London, that'll be just a fortnight from now. The wedding will probably be a month or so later."

N. S. Skipper Up On Prohibition Charge

NEW YORK, April 19—(AP)—Nova Scotia fishing captain, Hoyte C. Randall, was in the federal house of detention today on a charge for a prohibition law violation.

Randall was convicted of landing 2,760 cases of champagne and whisky on Long Island in 1939. He filed an appeal, posted $10,000 bail and returned to Nova Scotia. Two years later the circuit court of appeals upheld the conviction. But Randall remained in Nova Scotia.

His attorney Frank G. Lichtenstein, told Judge Grover M. Moscovitz in Brooklyn federal court yesterday that Randall had no previous record and that the act was repeated. The attorney said Randall never had been informed that the conviction was affirmed.

U.S. attorney Herbert I. Sorin argued it was inconceivable that the captain had not known he was wanted here. Randall was taken into custody last night at Gloucester, Mass.

His original attorney is expected to testify at the second hearing as to whether he was informed of the circuit court decision.

Eire Effort Re Rome Is Failure

WASHINGTON, April 19—(AP)—Effort by the Government of Eire to secure assistance from the Germans and the Allies that Rome will be spared the ravages of war apparently ended fruitfully today.

The attempt was disclosed with publication of an exchange of notes between Prime Minister de Valera of Eire and President Roosevelt. Mr. de Valera asked that the Americans seek through appropriate intermediary channels an agreement by which Rome may be spared, and said a similar note was sent to Berlin.

Mr. Roosevelt's reply was a reiteration of the Allied position — that the Allies are deeply concerned over the possibility that the Holy City may suffer, but its fate is up to the Germans.

Even as the communications were published, German broadcasts made clear that the Nazi Government intends to continue the policy it has followed — a tongue-in-cheek declaration that Rome is an "open city" while making military use of it.
