were set down about a mile apart. At least 60 cranes and it may have been 80. Quail were set free in the Bidford area. By using the method of the Quail were set apart from the populated areas and were thus thrown upon their own resources and removed from the immediate presence of cats and dogs.

Quail that were liberated within eight days of the Quail in the County made a bee line for the buildings, that in their "birdy" minds represented the food and shelter that had been supplied to them by human beings during their whole life. Even incubated, related domestic chickens begin to get shy of their caretakers once they are thrown on their own resources and deprived of human company for a week or so.

The stand that the Quail and Chukkas are making this summer will be watched with the keenest interest by sportsmen and all others interested. Once the coveys are developed enough to be able to fend for themselves, highly trained and steady Setters and Pointers will be used to locate the coveys and ascertain the present population as accurately as possible.

One of Boston's best known real estate operators and promoters of industrial enterprises, W. J. MacDonald, died unexpectedly last Monday. He is well known to many Islanders who visited the Metropolitan Speedway where Mr. MacDonald usually had several trotters and pacers that he raced for pleasure in amateur events.

At a meeting of horsemen held early this week it was decided to put on a race meet August 18th to be known as the William J. Brown 50th Anniversary Appreciation Races. Strong committees have been formed to carry this meet through to a successful conclusion.

Just three more days and the starter's bell will be ringing at two o'clock Tuesday afternoon and the one and only OLD HOME WEEK at CHARLOTTETOWN will be on its way. The months of hard work put in by the Directors will bear fruit in the best gathering of people that has ever been on this historic race track.

Proposed Golf Tournament Causes Interest

A proposal to hold an invitational high handicap tournament over the Belvedere links of the Charlottetown Golf Club is creating considerable interest among local golfers. No definite arrangements have been made as yet, but it is understood the competition would be open to golfers with a handicap of 20 or over.

It is felt that such a tournament would draw a large number of entries and serve to encourage golfers with high handicaps in taking part in tournament competitions. It is expected that a meeting will be called next week to consider such a tournament and judging from the interest shown a decision reached.

Two other tournaments, the Maritime Senior, and the Professional are scheduled for the local links the latter part of August and in September.
