Making wash day pleasant—

Just use Rinso where you used to use bar soap—for soaking, boiling, or in your washing machine.

THE hardest part of wash-day, rubbing, rubbing, rubbing, has given way to the new method of soaking the clothes clean with Rinso. This wonderful new soap gently loosens the dirt and a thorough rinsing leaves things white and glistening as you never could get them before.

Only spots where the dirt is ground-in, such as neck bands, cuff edges, and the like need a light rubbing, and a little dry Rinso rubbed on these spots quickly makes the dirt disappear.

Rinso is sold by all grocers and department stores

How To Be Happy

ment of the husband in whom she has confidence, while in all household affairs the wife will invariably defer to the wishes of his wife. For true conjugal happiness, it should be well understood by the husband that the wife is mistress in the house and by the wife that she shall not interfere in the business directed by the husband—so long, at least, as she does not want for anything that may reasonably be desired by her for the maintenance of their household and station.

The state of matrimony is naturally and properly a state of increase labor on the part of the husband, and thrift on the part of the wife tend to the accumulation of furniture and other forms of wealth. As Shakespeare has somewhere remarked, "riches, honour and blessing" are the portion of those who are wisely and happily married. There are also naturally as in most cases children. These bring with them cares and sorrows as well as joys. When there are many children, the cost is greatly increased—particularly in a town where everything eaten and worn has to be paid for in cash. Yet when the children turn out well, no other earthly wealth can be compared with them in value. It has been said with evident truth that "a nation stands or falls with the sanctity of its domestic ties," and it is equally true that the life and honour of the family are dependent upon the children in it who have been born in wedlock. The happiness of the home is indeed bound up in the olive branches round about the table. Each child is different from the others but all combine to make up—when healthy and well cared for—the greatest happiness that is found in life. The training and development of the children is at once the duty, care and joy of parents. As Burns remarked:

"To make a happy fire-side chime
To weans and wife
That's the true pathos and sublime
Of human life."

Happy is the woman who sees her sons and daughters rise up to call her blessed; and happy the man who hath his quivers full of them.

GERMANS TIRED OF WAR BOOKS

BERLIN, June 18.—War literature has been thrown into discard as far as demand for it on the part of the Berlin reading public is concerned. Novels with exciting plots, especially if they are dramatized on the screen, are the top-notchers in demand, according to Berlin librarians. Next to novels, books on travel are most in demand.

"He was born with the gift of laughter and a sense that the world was mad." So they said of Andre-Louis Moreau, scion of the French nobility, who became Scaramouche, the clown, whose laughter mocked his enemies and whose madness inflamed the world.—Not in all the pages of fiction is there such a glowing dare-devil character as RAFAEL SABATINI'S creation of "Scaramouche," and not in the history of motion pictures has there been such a production as the photoplay from the Sabatini novel,
