DANCE

Sunnyside Ballroom

Every Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday

Eastern Rhythm Boys

ADMISSION—35c

Meet your friends there tonight

To make sure you're getting

FAST-ACTING ASPIRIN FOR HEADACHE

Look for the BAYER cross on the tablet

BAYER

RAIL GRADE OR LIVE LAMBS

We are buying lambs, live or on a rail grade basis. Should you wish to ship your lambs to us rail grade, contact our hog truckers in your respective district. A list of these truckers will e found every Friday in your local paper. Live lambs will be bought by any of our buyers.

SWIFT CANADIAN Co., Ltd.

Island Grown Apples

Unexcelled in beauty and quality, on display at your local grocer.

Most popular varieties. Buy them by the hamper. When you buy Island grown apples you help an Island Industry.

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Asks alms
5. Happen
10. Leave out
11. Spear of grass
12. Man's name
14. Appearing as if eaten
16. Stutters
18. Half an em
19. Scallop the edges of
20. Skill
21. Repulsed
24. Dwell
25. Sultan's decree
26. Expressed juice of apples
27. Apportion
28. Niche
29. Resort town (Ger.)
30. Game of chance
31. Smallest state (abbr.)
32. Lofty
36. A step
38. Dining car
39. Choose
41. Quote
42. Warning signal
43. Not difficult

DOWN

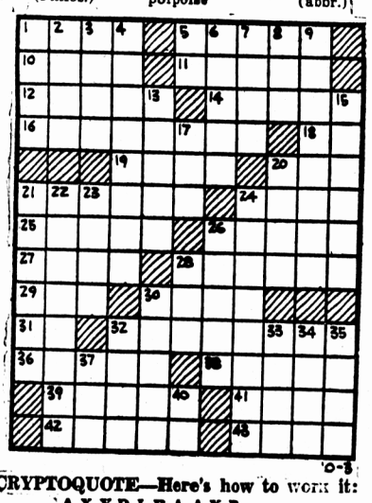
1. Stud
2. Send forth
3. River (Ariz.)
4. A sudden running, as of cattle
5. Siberian gulf
6. Hotel employee
7. Automobiles
8. Japanese shrub
9. Stores up
13. A pleased expression
15. Comes in
17. Abstract conception of being (Philos.)
20. Duelist's second
21. Rhymers (var.)
22. Hermits
23. Caresses lightly
24. Kind of candy
26. Smeared with wax
28. Uncooked
30. Power
32. One of many layers
33. Fresh-water porpoise
34. Snares
35. A color
37. Fourth Arabian caliph
40. Thoron (abbr.)



Saturday's Answer

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

L U R G T W G G W N' T W J G U R Y P Q Y-

F P D W Y P W M Q Q J, G Q H R F F G U W

Y D M U G L D G U F O W W H!—G E F F W N.

Saturday's Cryptoquote: WE ARE UNFIT FOR ANY TRUST TILL WE CAN AND DO OBEY—MACDONALD.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

Think well of self, but not so well
There's danger that your head will swell.
—Old Mother Nature.

Buster Bear was big. He was the biggest Bear in the Green Forest. He liked to boast that he was the biggest Bear who ever had lived in the Green Forest. It may or may not have been so, but Buster thought so and he certainly was big. He was as strong as he was big. He was as strong big logs and tear apart big old stumps, not only in search of grubs and Mice who might be living in them, but to show how strong he was. This was especially true if he knew or suspected anyone was watching him. He would do it just to show off.

Buster thought of no one but himself. Folks who are over proud of their looks or what they can do are likely to think mostly of themselves, seldom of others. They are selfish. Buster Bear was selfish. There was no more selfish person in all the Green Forest. Because he was so big and so strong he took what he wanted and shared nothing, not even with Mrs. Buster and his own children. If they found something to eat and he happened along he drove them away from it and refused to share it with them. If when he had eaten all he wanted anything was left they could have it. Usually nothing was left.

He lived by himself, going and coming as he pleased. He was short-tempered. Folks who are

Instead, as he watched the Man, run he felt bigger than ever and stronger than ever and bolder than ever selfish and live by themselves too much are apt to be short-tempered. It pleased him to see how quickly his neighbors moved out of his way when he growled. He sometimes growled just to see them run. He liked having folks afraid of him. He really did. It made him feel all the bigger and stronger. He liked the feeling that he could make folks do what he wanted them to do whether they wanted to or not. There are folks like that all over the Great World, too many of them.

So Buster Bear wandered about in the Green Forest, going wherever he took a notion to and doing what he pleased, sure that no one would dare to interfere with him. He liked to appear suddenly and frighten folks just to see them run. Then he would have that feeling of bigness and power that he liked so much, and would try to look as important as he felt and to strut. Some folks look important when they strut even though they are not. Buster Bear, being clumsy, looked funny instead of important, but he didn't know that, and that behind his back he was laughed at.

"He has a swelled head," said Lightfoot the Deer.

"It is getting too big for him," said Reddy Fox.

"He thinks he rules the Green Forest," said Paddy the Beaver.

Now of course Buster's head wasn't really swelled. Heads don't swell unless something very bad is the matter with them. Saying that one has a swelled head means that he thinks himself much more important than he really is. That was what Lightfoot the Deer meant. He was quite right. Buster did have this kind of a swelled head.

It swelled still more when unexpectedly he met a Man at a turn of a path and the Man yelled and turned and ran. The truth is Buster was himself about to take to his own heels. Instead as he watched that Man run he felt bigger than ever and stronger than ever and bolder than ever. He growled his deepest before turning off the path and disappearing among the trees.

After that he felt bigger and more important than ever. He even boasted that he was afraid of no one, and it was almost true. Perhaps he really thought it was true. Big as he was he felt even bigger, and he was so used to seeing others get out of his way that perhaps it is no wonder that his good opinion of himself kept growing. A too good opinion of one's self does grow, and becomes what is called conceit, which is the same thing as having a swelled head. Buster Bear was conceited. There was no doubt about that. And because he was conceited he was heading for trouble. He didn't know it but he was. A swelled head always leads to trouble and Buster certainly did have a swelled head. And it was just because he had grown so big.

Contract Bridge

By Josephine Culbertson

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

Some experts believe in describing their hands as accurately as possible, in the bidding, so that their partners will know precisely what is what. Other experts feel that this detailed and "honest" description is not always advisable, their argument being that in certain cases the opponents benefit more than the partner from this information.

It goes without saying that there is much to be said for both "schools." In today's deal, however, taken from a recent match-point tournament, the "honest" South's were badly rewarded!

North dealer
Both sides vulnerable.

♠ A K 10 9 6 2
♥ 8 6 5 3
♦ 4
♣ Q 2

♠ Q 8 5 2
♥ J
♦ Q 9 7 2
♣ K J 8 4

N W E S

♠ 7 4
♥ 10 9 7 2
♦ 10 6 5 3
♣ A 10 3

♠ J
♥ A K Q ♠
♦ A K J 8
♣ 9 7 6 5

Quite a few different auctions took place on this hand, but the most popular sequence was:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ♥ | Pass |
| 2 ♠ | Pass | 3 ♦ | Pass |
| 3 ♥ | Pass | 4 ♥ (final bid) | |

The various Wests led the unbid suit, clubs, and the declarers were held to contract or one overtrick, depending upon the subsequent defense.

In two cases the South players went in for "concealment," via this bidding:

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 ♠ | Pass | 2 ♥ | Pass |
| 2 ♠ | Pass | 3 NT | Pass |
| 4 ♥ | Pass | Pass | Pass |

Now, the two Wests were up against an extremely difficult guess for their opening leads, and, as it happened, both chose the fourth-highest diamond! This permitted the declarers to get rid of dummy's two clubs and launch a cross-ruff which resulted in their winning 12 tricks.

NATURE BOUNTIFUL

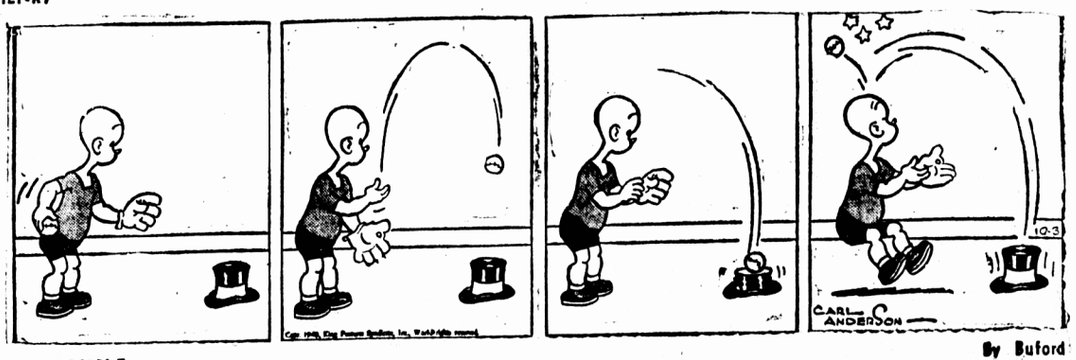
RAINY RIVER, Ont. — (CP)— Charlie Arnould got a bonus from one ear of corn in his garden. Thirteen ears branched out from the main ear, making the cob about four inches thick.

King of The Royal Mounted — by Zane Grey

JOE PALOOKA — By Ham Fisher

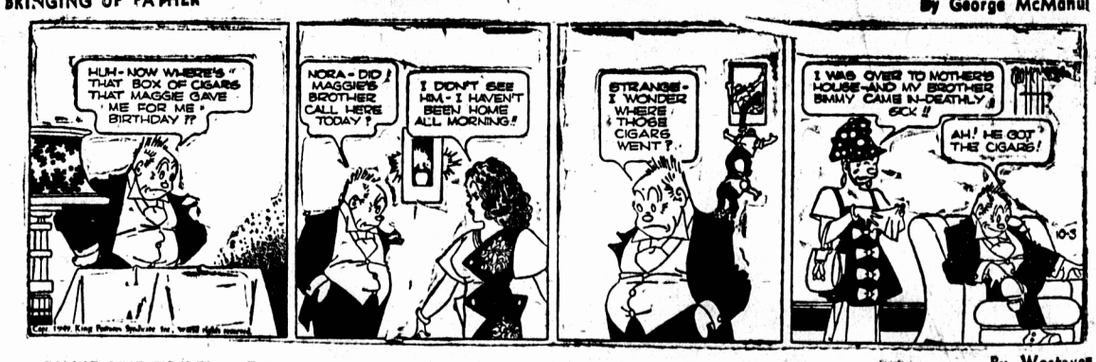
HENRY — By Carl Anderson



DOTTY DRIPPLE — By Buford

TIPPY AND "CAP" STUBI — By Edwina

BRINGING UP FATHER — By George McManus



TILLIE THE TOILER — By Westover

LI'L ABNER — By AL CAPP

RIP KIRBY — By Alex Raymond

PENNY — By Harry Hanigson