YANKS WIN SECOND STRAIGHT FROM CUBS

Eighth Inning Homer By Crosetti Seals Game And Spells Downfall Of Dean

(By Paul Mickelson, Associated Press Sports Writer)

WRIGLEY FIELD, Chicago, Oct. 6—(A.P.)—Dizzy Dean, pitching his heart and arm out with every curve ball he threw, had one foot in the hall of World Series immortality today when the most murderous home run team in baseball history toppled the Great One and his gallant effort from glory to crushing defeat.

Only four outs away from scoring as superb and glamorous a comeback as the game ever produced, the gallant Dizzy man was denied an unforgettable triumph when the home run bats of first Frank Crosetti and then great Joe DiMaggio arched balls out of the lot.

The two crushing blows dropped Dizzy and his Cub mates to the brink of World Series elimination giving New York Yankees their second straight game 6-3. They won the first game yesterday 3-1.

Story Book Picture

This was the story book picture that 42,108 shivering fans, their hearts in their throats, never will forget:—

So complete a master was Diz and his "nothing" ball that he reached the start of the eighth inning with only two singles and a cheap double, caused by a Cub infield mixup against him. He stood out there like he used to when he was at his zenith. The Cubs had given him a 3-2 lead over Lefty Gomez, the Yankee southpaw who never had lost a World Series game.

Every fan in the park stirred uneasily as the first man up, George Selkirk, looped a single to rightfield for the fourth Yankee hit but they sat back in their seats again as Joe Gordon forced him at second, and in turn, was forced by Myril Hoag, pinch hitting for the apparently beaten Gomez. It looked as though Diz was in.

Unexpected Happens

Then, up stepped the man who had robbed the Cubs in yesterday's opener with his miracle plays around second—Frank Crosetti. Not much cause for alarm in Crosetti. He had hit only nine home runs all year with the Yankees, who don't call a man a home run knocker until he gets at least 20.

Frankie, probably, had no idea of a homer and as Hoag bothered Diz with gestures as if to steal, Crosetti pecked away, hitting five fouls and running the count to 3 and 2.

Diz, though his arm ached, put everything he had on that last pitch. It came in fast. It came in chest high. And then—bang! The ball arched high over the red brick wall for a home run.

That was the big story of this thrilling World Series battle but there was still another home run blow—by DiMaggio—to seal the doom of courageous Dizzy and his mates. In the ninth, Tommy Henrich opened with a single to right.

Then DiMaggio, hitless yesterday and held to a mere single in three times at bat, stalked up to the plate and smashed Dean's first pitch over the left field wall.

Yankees Go Wild

As the Yankee bench went wild and tossed their bats out onto the field, Manager Gabby Hartnett and Dean knew the curtain to a great drama had fallen. Dean was taken out. He trudged off the field, head down.

In the Yanks clubhouse back of the stands was another picture—an almost delirious skinny pitcher—Senor Gomez. Although relieved by Johnny Murphy at the start of the eighth inning, the happy Senor's name went into the record books as the game winner and the first pitcher in all history to win six World Series games without a defeat.

The hilarious Yankees hustled off for their train back to New York where the series resumes Saturday at Yankee Stadium. Manager Joe McCarthy, still a bit breathless after the victory, said he planned to start Monte Pearson, the club's no-hit pitcher, in the New York opener. Manager Gabby Hartnett had only one choice. It was Clay Bryant.

Somehow, after what happened today, the downcast Cubs didn't seem to care much if they went to New York or not. Their task now of keeping the Yankees from becoming the first club to win three World Series in succession appears as hopeless as Dizzy Dean at that tragic moment he saw Crosetti's home run drop into the seas.

Saints And Mounties Open Intercollegiate Series Today

Hold that line Saints! Hold that line! will echo across the C. A. A. A. grounds this afternoon when the Saint Dunstan's University Football Squad, 1938 edition, meets the Mount Allison Rugby team in the opening game of the Intercollegiate series for the N. B. - P. E. I. championship.

Three universities are represented in the schedule. University of New Brunswick, Mount Allison and Saint Dunstan's. The winner of the League will playoff with the Nova Scotia Intercollegiate Champions for the Maritime title.

Island rugby history will be made today for it will mark the first time that an Island college has been represented in Maritime Intercollegiate competition. Previously the Saints only played exhibition games with mainland colleges.

Father Walter McGuigan who has coached the Red and White to the Island senior title for years back has rounded out another team—his first for senior Intercollegiate company. The quiet unassuming coach of the local collegians has been one of the few pillars which has supported and kept rugby going in these parts the past few years. He does not expect wonders from his charges in their new field. He realizes that his team has been selected according to Intercollegiate ruling, from a group of some 65 boys of the senior classes, while the mainland universities have a potentially greater reserve [illegible] to draw their pigskin talent. Win or lose the [illegible] always fought hard for the honor of their college. Today they will, if possible, give that little "extra" for their coach who they know in victory or defeat will continue to mold from the brawn and brain of untried youth, teams of which St. Dunstan's may well be proud.

The Saints will be minus four of their last year stars when they take the field today. Charlie Trainor, John A. MacDonald and Jim Roach have been lost through graduation, while Gus Kelly is not eligible for Intercollegiate competition. In their place will be J. Coyle, J. Trainor, K. Mooney and V. Grant.

The Saints are light in weight. Their backfield averaging some 147-lbs and their forwards 163-lbs. They have however, some fast ball carriers on the squad.

The game will start at 3.30 P. M. and an admission price of 25 cents will be charged.

LEAVE THIS MORNING

SACKVILLE, N. B., Oct. 6—(CP)—Mount Allison University's rugby team will leave tomorrrow morning for Charlottetown to play St. Dunstan's University in the afternoon in the opening game of the New Brunswick-Prince Edward Island Intercollegiate League. University of New Brunswick is the only other club in the League, and the winners will compete in the Maritime Intercollegiate playdowns.

Seven members of last year's New Brunswick Championship squad and a number of freshmen will make the trip to Charlottetown. Bob Brodie is coach.

Mount Allison will play Dalhousie University Tigers here Monday and a return game at Halifax at a date to be decided.

Dizzy Dean Downcast, But Earns Praise

(By Charles Dunkley)
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

CHICAGO, Oct. 6—"I throwed myself out."

With these four words Dizzy Dean told the story of his gallant pitching in the chill of Wrigley Field today when the Yankees rambasting him for two home runs, after he had them in check until the eighth inning.

Dean appeared to be crushed over the disaster. His face had a weary expression. He was drawn and tired. He complained his right arm pained him severely from the sixth inning and said it felt as if a piece of bone was sticking out of his shoulder.

Larry French, Cub lefthander, came to the clubhouse, walked silently across the room to where Dean was standing and threw his arms around him. No word was spoken; none was needed.

"I throwed myself out," Dean moaned. "I had them beat 3-2 until Crosetti hit his homer. Those things just happen and you can't help it. Those last two runs should never have scored. The Yankees were the luckiest ball club in the last two days that I ever saw."

Dean dragged his tired body across the room and, sitting down on a table in the rubbing room, looked back over the game.

"That hurts," he reflected. "I can understand now how the Yankees won the American League pennant. They're lucky."

"I gave them all I had—that's all I could do."

The Cubs, with Manager Gabby Hartnett among them, were silent, downcast when they entered the clubhouse.

Hartnett appeared to be tremendously upset. After resting a few minutes, however, he launched into praise of Dean's pitching performance.

"Dean pitched his heart out," Hartnett said. "Even with a bad arm, he still gave me the best he had. What he couldn't do with a good arm, I'm praying that his arm comes back next season. What a guy, what a guy."

Hartnett said Crosetti's homer in the eighth inning, was a fast ball, or what was supposed to be Dean's last ball.

"The one that DiMaggio hit," Gabby added, "really was a lulu. He really teed off on that one."

Hartnett said he would start Clay Bryant, big raw-boned right-hander, against the Yankees in New York Saturday and would present the same line-up that started today.

The Yankees' dressing room rang with whoops and cries of victory. They shed their matter-of-fact attitude with their moist uniforms.

"The dagoes did it," shouted big Bill Dickey.

DiMaggio and Crosetti, home run heroes of the day, grinned their appreciation.

"East Side, West Side", chanted the venerable coach Art Fletcher and the entire team joined in the thundering "Sidewalks of New York" refrain.

Asked what was on the ball he had driven over the left field wall, DiMaggio replied:

"It was a fairly fast one—the same sort of things he got me on before."

Manager Joe McCarthy obviously elated, paid frank tribute to Dean.

"He's got one of those things," he said, patting his heart. "He's a good pitcher. No question about that. The boys were not used to his motion, but they really hit that ball when they got started.

"He pitched a good game, so did Gomez."

Would the New Yorkers sweep the series?

McCarthy responded with a cockshure smile, but pointed out his team could still expect trouble when they again face General Bill Lee, the Cubs pitching ace.

"It looks like Pearson Saturday, if he's ready to go," McCarthy announced.

Three British Women And Toronto Star Qualify For Semi-finals In Tourney

(By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press Staff Writer)

ROYAL OTTAWA GOLF CLUB Ottawa, Oct. 6—(CP)—The youthful Prairie marvel of the Canadian Women's Open Golf Championship finally bowed out of the tournament in the quarter final here today as three British Women and a Toronto star qualified for the semi final.

Laughing Marg Esson, known to the folks back home in Rosetown, Sask., as "Puddin'" was defeated by Mrs. A. B. Walker of the British Curtis Cup Team but the 17-year-old wonder golfer carried the match right to the 16th green before losing 4 and 2.

A gallery of more than 400 with nearly everyone pulling for the slim little westerner, followed the match and appeared to unnerve the girl who ousted two top-flight golfers by wide margins in the first and second round. She only played mediocre golf and cracked badly on the first nine to be five down at the turn. She won back three holes on the home nine but the match finished on the 16th after Miss Esson struck a trap.

The best match of the day saw Clarrie Tiernan of Dublin, another member of the British team, battle Mrs. W. G. Fraser of Ottawa to the 18th green and emerge the winner two up. The Ottawa woman is a former United States and Canadian Open champion and was among the favorites to take the open this year.

The third Briton to enter the semi final was Jessie Anderson of Perth, Scotland, who eliminated Evelyn Mills of Ottawa 4 and 3. The present Scottish Women's Champion and 1937 winner of the British Women's Open played like a machine to rattle off a string of pars and birdies for the victory.

The final match between Mrs. F. J. MulQueen of Toronto and Mrs. E. H. Gooderham also of Toronto went to the 17th hole where Mrs. Mulqueen ousted her partner from the championship 2 and 1.

In the semi final Mrs. MulQueen meets Mrs. Walker and Miss Tiernan plays her team partner Miss Anderson.

Compromise Is Accepted In Race Dispute

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 6—(AP)—A compromise tonight ended a dispute which had threatened to prevent resumption Sunday of an ancient rivalry for the International Fishermen's Trophy between Captain Angus Walters and his Canadian Champion, Bluenose and Captain Ben Pine of the United States challenger, the Gloucester Schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud.

Captain Walters had steadfastly refused to sail courses, plotted by the United States race authorities, which would have sent the two vessels twice around an 18-mile triangle, which he described as a "merry-go-round." He demanded once around single 36-mile triangle.

After both rival skippers had appeared before members of the race committee separately in the rooms of the Master Mariners Association, the committee announced alternate courses would be used during the first four races. The committee agreed to flip a coin if a fifth race should be necessary to decide the sailing championship of the North Atlantic.

The schedule calls for the 18-mile twice-around triangle in the opening race off Boston Sunday, a 36-mile triangle off Gloucester next Thursday, and another 36-mile triangle off Boston, Sunday the 16th, unless the title should have been decided in three straight races.

Earlier it had been proposed the schooners race over a 30-mile triangle if the wind is strong and over the originally planned twice around 18-mile triangle if the wind is light.

The race committee voted to reduce its membership. Hitherto there had been five United States members and two Canadians. Two United States members were dropped.

Only one opposing vote was cast to the alternate courses, and that by Captain Edward Proctor, former president of the Master Mariners Association, who immediately tendered his resignation.

Captain Proctor had argued the narrower triangle afforded the public, who, he said, were depended upon to meet expenses of the contest, a better view than the larger triangle.

Captain Walters who remained throughout the committee meetings and agreed to the compromise said his objections to the smaller triangle were based upon his reluctance to endanger his crew and vessel by making two jibes instead of the one which would be required by a single circuit of the larger triangle.

Tomorrow both vessels will sail for Boston. Captain Ben told his crew he would shove off at 7 A. M., but Captain Walters said he doubted if he could have Bluenose ready before 10 A.M.
