STOOL PIGEON LAW

Law Enforcement news from the oddly-named town of Liberty, (New York):

"Isidore Scherer appeared before Judge Thacher in the Federal Court today as attorney for Harry A. Cohen, a druggist of Liberty, who was charged with the possession and sale of alcoholic beverages.

"In March of April last," said Mr. Scherer, "one Louis Silko entered the drug-store of Mr. Cohen, who had opened a store at Liberty rather than anywhere else because of his own ill-health, and bought some shaving cream and other sundries. This man, who subsequently turned out to be a representative of some Civic League of Albany, said he had settled in White Sulphur Springs, a suburb about four miles from Liberty. He chatted with Cohen and became a regular customer. The two became friends, sometimes meeting in a restaurant near the drug-store. And about two months after the visitor's first appearance he called at the drug-store accompanied by a woman with a babe in her arms, introducing them as his wife and child. Some time later he brought in two friends of his, whom he introduced as Jesse Earl and a nephew of a judge.

"On August 12, the league agent came to the drug-store and asked Cohen as a great favor to sell him a pint of whiskey. He said his wife was suffering and when Cohen told him to get a prescription, he stated he was a comparative newcomer in Liberty, could not get a prescription the minute, and that his wife was enduring great pain.

"After considerable urging upon the promise that the prescription would be brought in the morning, Cohen turned over a bottle containing whiskey to his supposed friend, whereupon that individual flashed a badge, and Jesse Earl and the supposed nephew of the judge, who had entered and were standing near the clear counter, flashed badges also, and he was told he was under charges of violating the Federal Prohibition Law."

C. W. Williams, Assistant United States Attorney, told Judge Thacher that Federal agents had admitted that someone had made the acquaintance of Cohen and asked him to sell whiskey. Judge Thacher imposed a fine of $250, which was paid."

BLIND PIG AND SPEAK-EASY

Philosophic discourse on a pressing social problem, by the Hon. John Wade, in the "Playgoer", Detroit, Mich.:

"It has become a question in the minds of all men what is the correct wear for a blind-pig or a speak-easy. Surely the subtle distinction in these names must be also a difference. One would hesitate to enter a coffee shop clad in a splendid cut-away or to follow the head-waiter in an hotel dining-room clothed in the gay togs of sport. Correspondingly one should be attentive to the correct wear for the speak-easy or for a blind-pig, for they are now so much a part of our daily lives.

The differences, however, in our clothes for each place should be as subtle as the distinction in the names. Many men follow the general theory that, whereas in the blind-pig a collar is not essential, in a speak-easy every detail, even to a fouled necktie, should be observed. The same, of course, applies to shoes and hats. It is said that the operators of blind pigs are not inalienably offended if the merrymaker in the evening comes in pajamas, overcoats and the ubiquitous revolver, stroll in the small hours; but it is maintained, and stoutly, that the speak-easy frowns on such youthful informalities.

Anniversary of Historic Cold Friday

Tomorrow, February 8th, will be the anniversary of the historic "cold Friday" of 1861, which doubtless will be remembered by many in the Province. The following account which was received from a valued correspondent has reference to New Brunswick. The cold in this province, though bitter, driven in as it was by a seventy mile gale, was not so intense as in New Brunswick. "I have a vivid recollection of the day; the morning found a fierce gale blowing from North-West, so strong that it broke off big trees, as if they were straws—said to be blowing 70 miles an hour, and the mercury 28 below zero.

Lumbermen coming out of the woods reported scores of woodpeckers frozen to death in the fields, as they came out. This was at Sussex, N. B.

We had relatives in Upper Canada who wrote us afterward. They spoke of the "cold Thursday." It was not so cold, nor the wind so strong as with us on the Friday.

The cold Friday came without warning—no "probs" then. It snowed Saturday and Sunday following.

Later it was learned the sweep of the gale was from the Rocky Mountains all the way to Newfoundland, in varying intensity, with mountainous waves in the North Atlantic.

MEMORIAL SERVICES FOR FIELD MARSHAL HAIG.

Sir.—I am directed to bring to your notice that Sunday the 12th inst. has been set aside for the holding of Memorial Services throughout Canada for our late and President Field Marshal Earl Haig, but as an official Memorial Service has already been held here, which the Legion was invited and attended, our Executive Council and another official service is not advisable but would respectfully request that the Clergy of this Province make suitable reference to our Grand President's splendid service to our King, Empire, and Returned Men, in their services on Sunday next.

Further respects will be paid to the late Field Marshal on Sunday the 26th, by the Legion in placing a wreath on the South African Monument, when the South African Veterans hold their annual Memorial Service.

CANADA'S FUTURE

Sir.—In his farewell message to Canadians published by The Guardian, the Secretary of State for the Dominions, (Rt. Hon. Mr. Amery), remarks that Canada "faces the markets of the world, east and west across the Atlantic and the Pacific, as England in the opening period of the modern world faced the markets of Europe across the North Sea and the Atlantic. In the Empire she has a field for economic development and leadership which is as much hers to make use of as Great Britain's. It is in fact as a Greater Britain, a deeper and a wider United States that it seems to me she can most fully realize her destiny."

With that outlook, he says, also comes an even stronger national consciousness, a deeper pride and faith in Canada, a higher sense of responsibility and, inseparable from these, as indeed throughout all her history, the underlying conviction that in the maintenance and development of the unity of the British Commonwealth lies the natural field for the fullest development of Canada's own national life and for the exercise of all the responsibilities which go to making a people great.

These are the views of a great patriotic British man. It seems to me that they should be emphasized and thought over by Canadians.

EDUCATION NEEDED

Sir.—I am quite content with the explanation offered by the General Secretary of the Temperance Alliance. He admits that more than mere law is needed to prevent the misuse of intoxicants, and that is my contention. Whether we are to have a "more workable" Prohibitionary law or Government Control there will be difficulty in its enforcement, unless education, publicity and research are supplementary to it. The Prohibitionists in the United States have recognized this fact and call for subscriptions to the amount of $10,000,000 within five years, in order that education, etc., may be supplied. I am glad to note that the General Secretary of the Alliance sees it too.

"A CORPORAL'S GUARD"

Sir.—I see that Mr. A. E. McLean, M. P., is to "act as provincial whip for the Liberals of Prince Edward Island." That is a distinction—if not an honour. Mr. McLean is to see to it that Messrs. Sinclair and Jenkins are in their seats in the House of Commons when the bell rings for a division. He needs to be a smart man he will, without doubt, perform well the duty assigned to him by his fellow Liberals.

But, what about that seat in the Cabinet which a Liberal representative of Prince Edward Island was to have been invited to fill? It has not been filled. Nor have I seen any intimation on the part of the Government that it is to be filled. So far there has been no announcement that a Department of Fisheries is to be created for the use and benefit of a Liberal representative of the Island Province.

Certainly the Fisheries of Canada need attention. The lobster fishery is now much less productive than it was. The value of the oyster fishery has been fearfully lessened. The salmon fishery on the Pacific Coast is smaller year by year. Evidently it is time that care should be bestowed upon our fisheries.

I am not sure that Hon. Mr. Sinclair would be the best man in Canada to look after them. But I have no doubt whatever that one or other of our Liberal Island representatives—in Senate if not in the House of Commons—would fill the position of Minister of Fisheries just as well as any other representative of any other part of Canada.

The "Flu" LEFT HER WITH A VERY WEAK HEART

Mrs. Beulah Demone, Pleasant River, N.S., writes:—"Having suffered with the 'flu' a few years ago, I was left with a very weak heart. I was unable to go about, and could not do my housework. I would get dizzy spells and would have to go and lie down. I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up. I tried different kinds of medicine, but they seemed to do me no good. A friend recommended

THE SALES TAX

Sir.—A substantial reduction of the taxation of the people of this country is now to be expected—seeing that the end of the Great War which necessitates high taxes is nearly ten years ago. I see that the Leader of the Opposition demands the abolition of the Sales Tax. He says truly that the people of this country are weary of the "interminable difficulties" in connection with the heavy tax, and that it should be "entirely abolished" by Parliament. The Leader of the Opposition is right. We don't want tariff tinkering in the direction of lessened protection for our home industries. We do want a reduction of the high direct taxation imposed upon us. I should like to see wholly done away the stamps on cheques, notes of hand, etc. They are nuisances as well as taxes.

BOSTON BOAT

Sir.—It is pleasing to note that there is a good prospect of having a weekly call from the Boston steamer "in the good times." When I. C. Hall established the line, we can assure a hearty welcome to the tourists the steamer will bring and recreation in an attractive and pleasant place of summer resort. We can also assure to the Boston boat as many freight as people in the United States will be entitled to in view of the prospective tariff wall which their government has erected to prevent the sale of Canadian products in their markets.
